This 24-hour-a-day, seven-day-a-week medical transportation service is the first of its kind in the Northeastern United States. With the concurrence of the appropriate medical directors, Life Flight will be available to serve all hospitals, rescue units, ambulance services, search and rescue teams, commercial or industrial plant or disaster units within a 130-mile radius of downtown Pittsburgh, which includes Garrett County and parts of Allegany County, West Virginia and Ohio.

Life Flight Emergency Health Service will provide:

1. On-the-scene and inflight emergency medical attention by a professionally trained and equipped medical-care team.

2. Air-borne service for critically ill persons to any hospital or medical center within the area, specified by the referring physician or patient.

3. Rapid, air-borne transportation for critically injured persons from the accident site to an emergency center or designated hospital.

4. Emergency transportation for critically ill patients from one health-care institution to another institution within the service area.

Life Flight is being initiated in cooperation with the Emergency Medical Services Institute of Southwestern Pennsylvania, which is required by act of Congress to develop a means of secondary emergency medical transportation.

Life Flight will augment existing primary ground transportation systems. It will provide hospitals and emergency-care centers with an opportunity to transport or receive their critically ill and injured patients in a vastly shortened time interval. During that interval, the patient will receive the most sophisticated care possible by Life Flight's Emergency Medical Care Team.

Life Flight's Emergency Medical Care Team will consist of physicians (as needed) and registered nurses specially trained in intensive care techniques used in coronary, respiratory, neonatal, trauma and other life threatening emergencies. While in flight and at the scene, emergency medical command will be provided by Allegheny General Hospital physicians.

Medical emergency equipment on board the Life Flight helicopter includes electrocardiography monitors, oxygen, defibrillators, suction apparatus, endotracheal intubation equipment, intravenous fluids, transport isolettes, emergency medical and other vital life-support supplies.

For the next several weeks, Life Flight will be running training flights for its crew, and will be flying the aircraft to the various health-care institutions that will be using the service.

Life Flight became fully operational on September 22.

Preston Livestock Plans Club Calf Show And Sale

The Preston County Livestock Association is sponsoring the Third Annual Club Calf Show and Sale on Saturday, October 21. The show will be at 3:00 p.m. and the sale will be at 7:30 p.m. Both the show and sale will be held in the Cow Palace on the Buckwheat Festival Grounds, Kingwood, WV. At least 50 select steers and 10 breeding quality heifers will be offered for sale.

The purpose of this sale is to provide 4-H and FFA members an opportunity to purchase calves for their baby beef projects, and to provide area beef producers an opportunity to market their best calves at a premium price. These calves will be fed out and raised as baby beef projects by the club members to be shown and sold at the Buckwheat Festival or similar shows in the area. This sale provides the club members with a chance to see and purchase calves that will grow out to grade prime or choice. It also provides learning experience for these junior livestock producers, by participating in an auction sale and bidding on the calf of their choice.

Calves will be grade or purebred Hereford, Angus, Shorthorn, or any of their crosses, as well as exotic crossbred calves — such as Simmental, Limousin, Charolais, Maine Anjou, or any other exotic cross.

The Reserve Grant Champion Steer at the 1978 West Virginia State Fair was purchased at the 1977 Club Calf Sale. If any steer bought at this year's sale is a Grand Champion at any show in 1979, the buyer will receive $100 off the purchase price at next year's club calf sale. If any steer is Reserve Grand Champion, the buyer will receive $50 off.

As a bonus, the Reserve Grand Champion heifer (a Shorthorn-Simmental cross) at the 1978 Jackson's Mill Demonstrational Show and Sale will be awarded to the winning buyer at this year's club calf sale. This heifer will be shown at the Buckwheat Festival September 28-30.

The Icelandic language has remained unchanged since the 12th century.

Life Flight To Provide Emergency Service

1st In Northeast

A Life Flight helicopter, part of the emergency transportation service based in Pittsburgh, was landed recently at the Accident Station of the Northern Rescue Squad to acquaint the squad members with the machine and the emergency procedure.

The Emergency Medical Services Institute of Southwestern Pennsylvania, in cooperation with Allegheny General Hospital, Pittsburgh, announced the inauguration of Life Flight, an emergency helicopter transportation service for critically ill or injured persons.

This 24-hour-a-day, seven-day-a-week medical transportation service is the first of its kind in the Northeastern United States. With the concurrence of the appropriate medical directors, Life Flight will be available to serve all hospitals, rescue units, ambulance services, search and rescue teams, commercial or industrial plant or disaster units within a 130-mile radius of downtown Pittsburgh, which includes Garrett County and parts of Allegany County, West Virginia and Ohio.

Life Flight Emergency Health Service will provide:

1. On-the-scene and inflight emergency medical attention by a professionally trained and equipped medical-care team.
2. Air-borne service for critically ill persons to any hospital or medical center within the area, specified by the referring physician or patient.
3. Rapid, air-borne transportation for critically injured persons from the accident site to an emergency center or designated hospital.
4. Emergency transportation for critically ill patients from one health-care institution to another institution within the service area.

Life Flight is being initiated in cooperation with the Emergency Medical Services Institute of Southwestern Pennsylvania, which is required by act of Congress to develop a means of secondary emergency medical transportation.

Life Flight will augment existing primary ground transportation systems. It will provide hospitals and emergency-care centers with an opportunity to transport or receive their critically ill and injured patients in a vastly shortened time interval. During that interval, the patient will receive the most sophisticated care possible by Life Flight's Emergency Medical Care Team.

Life Flight's Emergency Medical Care Team will consist of physicians (as needed) and registered nurses specially trained in intensive care techniques used in coronary, respiratory, neonatal, trauma and other life threatening emergencies. While in flight and at the scene, emergency medical command will be provided by Allegheny General Hospital physicians.

Medical emergency equipment on board the Life Flight helicopter includes electrocardiography monitors, oxygen, defibrillators, suction apparatus, endotracheal intubation equipment, intravenous fluids, transport isolettes, emergency medical and other vital life-support supplies.

For the next several weeks, Life Flight will be running training filghts for its crew, and will be flying the aircraft to the various health-care institutions that will be using the service.

Life Flight became fully operational on September 22.

Life Flight To Provide Emergency Service

1st In Northeast

The Emergency Medical Services Institute of Southwestern Pennsylvania, in cooperation with Allegheny General Hospital, Pittsburgh, announced the inauguration of Life Flight, an emergency helicopter transportation service for critically ill or injured persons.

This 24-hour-a-day, seven-day-a-week medical transportation service is the first of its kind in the Northeastern United States. With the concurrence of the appropriate medical directors, Life Flight will be available to serve all hospitals, rescue units, ambulance services, search and rescue teams, commercial or industrial plant or disaster units within a 130-mile radius of downtown Pittsburgh, which includes Garrett County and parts of Allegany County, West Virginia and Ohio.

Life Flight Emergency Health Service will provide:

1. On-the-scene and inflight emergency medical attention by a professionally trained and equipped medical-care team.

2. Air-borne service for critically ill persons to any hospital or medical center within the area, specified by the referring physician or patient.

3. Rapid, air-borne transportation for critically injured persons from the accident site to an emergency center or designated hospital.

4. Emergency transportation for critically ill patients from one health-care institution to another institution within the service area.

Life Flight is being initiated in cooperation with the Emergency Medical Services Institute of Southwestern Pennsylvania, which is required by act of Congress to develop a means of secondary emergency medical transportation.

Life Flight will augment existing primary ground transportation systems. It will provide hospitals and emergency-care centers with an opportunity to transport or receive their critically ill and injured patients in a vastly shortened time interval. During that interval, the patient will receive the most sophisticated care possible by Life Flight's Emergency Medical Care Team.

Life Flight's Emergency Medical Care Team will consist of physicians (as needed) and registered nurses specially trained in intensive care techniques used in coronary, respiratory, neonatal, trauma and other life threatening emergencies. While in flight and at the scene, emergency medical comunand will be provided by Allegheny General Hospital physicians.

Medical emergency equipment on board the Life Flight helicopter includes electrocardiography monitors, oxygen, defibrillators, suction apparatus, endotracheal intubation equipment, intravenous fluids, transport isolettes, emergency medical and other vital life-support supplies.

For the next several weeks, Life Flight will be running training filghts for its crew, and will be flying the aircraft to the various health-care institutions that will be using the service.

Life Flight became fully operational on September 22.

Preston Livestock Plans Club Calf Show And Sale

The Preston County Livestock Association is sponsoring the Third Annual Club Calf Show and Sale on Saturday, October 21. The show will be at 3:00 p.m. and the sale will be at 7:30 p.m. Both the show and sale will be held in the Cow Palace on the Buckwheat Festival Grounds, Kingwood, WV. At least 50 select steers and 10 breeding quality heifers will be offered for sale.

The purpose of this sale is to provide 4-H and FFA members an opportunity to purchase calves for their baby beef projects, and to provide area beef producers an opportunity to market their best calves at a premium price. These calves will be fed out and raised as baby beef projects by the club members to be shown and sold at the Buckwheat Festival or similar shows in the area. This sale provides the club members with a chance to see and purchase calves that will grow out to grade prime or choice. It also provides learning experience for these junior livestock producers, by participating in an auction sale and bidding on the calf of their choice.

Calves will be grade or purebred Hereford, Angus, Shorthorn, or any of their crosses, as well as exotic crossbred calves — such as Simmental, Limousin, Charolais, Maine Anjou, or any other exotic cross.

The Reserve Grant Champion Steer at the 1978 West Virginia State Fair was purchased at the 1977 Club Calf Sale. If any steer bought at this year's sale is a Grand Champion at any show in 1979, the buyer will receive $100 off the purchase price at next year's club calf sale. If any steer is Reserve Grand Champion, the buyer will receive $50 off.

As a bonus, the Reserve Grand Champion heifer (a Shorthorn-Simmental cross) at the 1978 Jackson's Mill Demonstrational Show and Sale will be awarded to the winning buyer at this year's club calf sale. This heifer will be shown at the Buckwheat Festival September 28-30.

The Icelandic language has remained unchanged since the 12th century.

Student Records Policy Adopted By School Board

The Department of Pupil Services of the Garrett County public schools announces that the Garrett County Board of Education has adopted a Student Records Policy, according to Albert A. Coviello, Supervisor of Pupil Services. The records policy was developed through the cooperative efforts of local school counselors and principals to meet the requirements established by the Federal Family Rights and Privacy Act and State Bylaw.

Mr. Coviello said that the purpose of this policy is to inform parents and eligible students (18 years old or older) of their right to inspect and review the educational records of the student, the right not to have personally identifiable information from the student's records released without prior written consent, the right of the parent or eligible student to see the log of requests for and disclosures of personally identifiable information maintained by the school, the right of parents and eligible students to seek the correction of educational records through request or by hearing, and the right of the parent or eligible student to have a copy of the policy or student records.

The educational records of students are maintained at the student's home school and in some instances in the Pupil Services office at the Garrett County Board of Education.

A mini-guide to the policy which lists the responsibilities of the school principal in implementing this policy is as follows:

Types of Data In a Pupil Record

Information collected for all Garrett County Public School pupils includes (1) name of pupil and siblings, (2) birthdate, (3) names and addresses of parents or guardians, years of education and their employment, (4) minority group membership, (5) enrollment and attendance data, (6) grades and courses completed and level of achievement, (7) standardized test results, (8) routine health information. Information collected about individual pupils required to develop the most effective educational program may include reports such as (1) results of personality tests, (2) evaluative reports by teachers, (3) medical and/or psychological evaluations, (4) referrals to Pupil Services and outside agencies and information received from Pupil Services and outside agencies.

Review of Records

Records are reviewed at the end of the pupil's fifth, eighth and twelfth grade school year, prior to their transfer to another school, and upon withdrawal for any other reason.

Access to Records

Access to student's records is granted to parents, eligible students and to the professional staff of the Board of Education who are directly involved with the educational process of the individual student in a teaching, guidance/counseling, or consulting situation without a release of information being needed. Other persons or agencies will need a signed and dated release of information form stating specifically what kind of information they seek except in cases where consent is not required by state or federal bylaws. Requests for, and disclosures of personally identifiable information to parties not exempted by State Bylaws, will be logged in the student's records.

Challenging Contents of Records

Records can be amended or changed informally through mutual consent of the parties involved. If agreement cannot be reached informally, the parent(s) or eligible student has a right to a hearing to challenge the educational record(s) in question.

Cost of Reproduced Copies

There will be no charge to the parents or eligible student for copies of school records being contested through the hearing process. In other cases, a fee will be charged.

Directory Information

Directory information is a student's name, address, telephone number, date and place of birth, participation in officially recognized activities and sports, weight and height of members of athletic teams, dates of attendance, degrees and awards received, and the most recent previous educational agency or institution attended. Directory information can be released without parental or eligible student permission.

Any parent or eligible student, who does not want the school to release directory information without the prior written consent of the parents or eligible student, must annually, in writing, notify the custodian of the education records within 30 days after the advertisement of the categories of directory information. This notification by the parent must be submitted initially and annually on an official directory information form which is available from the school principal.

Other Rights and Requirements

Other rights and requirements, not mentioned above, are set forth in the county policy regarding student educational records. For more detail, interpretation, review of the original policy, or a copy of said policy, persons should contact the local school or the Garrett County Board of Education, Pupil Services office, 334-8121.

This policy also provides that a principal may release records without written consent:

- to employees of the Garrett County Board of Education who must use them,
- to comply with a judicial order or a subpoena,
- to state and Federal government agencies who administer educational or educationally-related programs,
- to persons or organizations conducting studies for the education agency,
- to appropriate persons in connection with a health or safety emergency, and
- to officials of another school or school system in which the student seeks or intends to enroll, upon condition that the student's parents be notified of the transfer.

House of Hope Opening Doors October 1

By Carol Canan

A ray of promise and encouragement has now touched the lives of many people here, especially women who have been battered by their spouses, children who have been abused by non-caring parents, foster children "between homes," those made homeless by fires or other natural disasters, or eviction, will be offered a place for shelter and nourishment until they can make more permanent arrangements.

The appropriately-named House of Hope will be a caring community's answer to needs which, until now, were not met by any agency or group. The House will officially open October 1 with an open house during mid-day hours.

A volunteer network with members throughout the county forms the basis for the House's foundation. The entire concept is based on living the Christian outreach message from the Gospel that says "For I was hungry and you gave me food, I was thirsty and you gave me drink, I was a stranger and you took me in, Naked and you clothed me..."

The present network is the end product of several metamorphases, from a single idea to St. Peter's parish council, from council to committee and committee to the present network.

The idea was born during a discussion by several church members on unmet needs in the county in September 1977. After discussion with such agencies as Social Services and the Health Department, the group noted that the most pressing need seemed to be a shelter for the abused, neglected and homeless.

A most appropriate saying graces the entrance hallway at the House of Hope, symbolizing that the House will be a center for shelter and physical and spiritual nourishment for all.

They took their idea to St. Peter's parish council, which helped conduct further investigations and then placed the expanding idea into the hands of a community service committee, which comprised interested people from all over the county. Funding for operation and maintenance expenses has been obtained from the Archdiocese of Baltimore for a period of two full years.

In additon to providing food and shelter, the planners want the House of Hope to also serve as a center for reflection, prayer and social awareness, for pondering on the Gospel and how it may relate to an individual's life.

Although the idea has been germinated by groups with religious affiliations, the House of Hope will be totally non-sectarian and will offer shelter to all those who are in need, whether or not they are church members.

The House also will provide necessary transportation when existing agencies cannot. In addition, the House also plans to maintain a network of volunteers who can help by doing grocery shopping for shut-ins, organizing an emergency pantry and distributing food; being a friendly visitor or making telephone visits to shut-ins; preparing foods, serving as craft instructors or home handymen, helping with laundry and mending, or doing clerical work.

Anyone who would like to assist the project may call the House at 334-2357. Needed also are intake persons, who coordinate calls requesting assistance from their own homes (call will be transferred from the House of Hope number). Training for intake volunteers is set October 8 at the House, so that full services, including all of the above, may begin October 16.

The House of Hope is located at 202 S. Fourth Street in Oakland (at the corner of Alder and Fourth) beside St. Peter's Catholic Church. Full-time staff members will be Catharine Arata and Susan Plews, School Sisters of Notre Dame.

The house itself is a two-story, white frame dwelling which can comfortably accommodate up to ten people. In addition to the rooms which will house the two permanent staff members, there are two bedrooms, each with a capacity of four people, on the second floor. A living room, dining room, televison room and kitchen are located on the first floor.

Since the facility is intended to provide short-term lodging, a person or family may generally remain for a maximum of two weeks. Requests for the hospitality of the House will be considered whether they originate from a government agency, a private agency, an interested private citizen, or directly from a person or family.

Hospitality is given with the understanding that the person helped will act as a part of the House of Hope family, and help with a fair share of the household chores. A few house rules must also be followed for the contentment of all.

Through involvement of the House of Hope committee and a volunteer program, every effort will be made to find resources for any referrals made which cannot be handled directly by the House.

The House has been furnished entirely by contributions of furniture, bedding and housewares given by people in the county, and the committee noted it was "pleasantly surprised at the generosity" of those responding. Duplicates of items will be stored in case of need at some future time, or to help those who have lost possessions in such disasters as fire.

The House will also keep a supply of non-perishable foods on hand to help in emergency situations, as a supplement to the Community Action Committee's three-day food supply packet.

Lines from Genesis which make reference to a rainbow — "I set my bow in the clouds to serve as a sign of the covenant between me and the earth" — were aptly chosen as part of the logo which is used on House stationery and for the sign which will be hung in the front yard. The sign will depict a rainbow and a cloud above hills, signifying the "rainbow of Hope" which will now be available to all in need.

Members of a community committee which saw a need, then went to work to create a House of Hope to fill the need are, left to right, seated, Mrs. Dorothy Straub, Sister Catherine Arata, Sister Susan Plews, Rev. Martin Feild, Joe DiSimone, and Kay Carlson and daughter Ingrid. Standing are Clarence Stem, Marc Oliver and Al Coviello. Others involved but not pictured include Mrs. Oliver, Mrs. Coviello, Kathleen Barrett, Eric and Mary Ammann, Mel Hamill, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Brandes, and Esther Yoder.

The sitting room downstairs features one corner for the Good Book so prayer and reflection are a natural part of everyday living. All furniture was donated by area people to furnish the center for the needy and homeless. A television room at the rear of the house will give residents the opportunity to join in conversations in the living room or watch their favorite programs.

Eglon Man Keeps Pilots Informed On Weather Conditions Over Atlantic

Navy Petty Officer Second Class Don Frantz, Eglon, W. Va., records weather readings while on duty at the U. S. Naval Station, Keflavik, Iceland. Navyman Frantz is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Frantz, Eglon, W. Va.

"I have to make sure weather conditions passed on to pilots are accurate," says Navyman Don Frantz while at work on a teletype machine at the U. S. Naval Station, Keflavik, Iceland. He is a 1969 graduate of Aurora High School.

By Jerry Babb

An unforeseen cold front sweeping down from the polar icecap could spell disaster for a pilot, his crew and passengers flying routes across the North Atlantic Ocean.

Don Frantz of Eglon, W. Va. has the job of making sure military pilots are alerted to such a cold front, and any other adverse weather conditions.

"It's a real challenge for a person to learn about the weather in this critical area," explained Petty Officer Second Class Frantz, on assignment with the Navy in Iceland.

"My job is to supervise other aerographer's mates working here," continued the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Frantz of Eglon. "I have to make sure weather conditions passed on to pilots are accurate."

Iceland, about the size of Ohio with a population of some 223,000, is located 200 miles off the southeastern coast of Greenland in the North Atlantic Ocean. In an extreme northern section of the country, when the sea is at low tide, one can walk to the water's edge and find himself standing inside the geographic boundary of the Arctic Circle.

Known as the land of "frost and fire," Iceland is a 1,100-year-old island nation of glaciers, periodic volcanic eruptions, rugged rocky shorelines and a hearty Nordic people.

The NATO (North Atlantic Treaty Organization) Base at Keflavik provides an effective headquarters for Navy anti-submarine warfare patrol and Air Force fighter-interceptor aircraft, and combined radar and communications facilities. Some 2,900 military men and women are serving here — accompanied by approximately 2,000 spouses and children.

"I volunteered to come here," said 28-year-old Frantz, a 1969 graduate of Aurora (W. Va.) High School. "I wanted to see the country and learn more about the Icelandic people."

Icelanders — unlike some Americans living here — have tailored their lifestyle to the long days of summer and long nights of winter common to this part of the world. During June there's daylight 24 hours, while December glimpses a dimly glowing sun four to five hours each day between late morning and early afternoon.

"The short and long hours of daylight during the year haven't been difficult for me to accept," noted Frantz who has served here since May, 1976.

Living here with him is his wife, the former Neva Harsh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Harsh of Eglon, and their three children, Donnie, 6, Melvin, 2, and Melissia, 1.

Living in an isolated area like Iceland doesn't really present any problems, Frantz stated. "Once you're settled in, it's no different than living in any other country."

The base is served by a hospital, a dental clinic, radio and television stations, movie theater, restaurants, a commissary (supermarket) and a general merchandise retail store.

There's also a heated indoor swimming pool, hobby craft shops, 18-lane bowling center, gymnasium, and weather permitting, softball, tennis and golf.

The six-foot four-inch former baseball and basketball player for the Aurora Bears said he spends a lot of his off-duty hours bowling, playing basketball and traveling around Iceland.

Rest and relaxation flights to Scotland, England, Denmark, Spain, Germany and The Netherlands are available to base residents on a regular basis.

"We have some friends living in Spain and we plan on going to see them this winter," he concluded, "and also just to look around the country."

HSA Governing Body Examines Recommendations

Several committee recommendations were studied during a recent meeting of the governing body of the Health Systems Agency of Western Maryland in Hagerstown.

John H. Lloyd, Jr., state and federal certification advisory committee chairman, reported that his committee had found the following

That the Dennett Road Manor continues in conformance as approved the new 100-bed nursing home in Mt. Lake Park with an estimate cost of $1,467,000; that the stores building portion of Sacred Heart's expansion and renovation project estimated at $4,989,000 conforms to the approval; that the grant application of the Maryland Health Planning and Development Agency for determining long-range need for health services not be endorsed

The committee also recommended that the Goodwill Mennonite Home, Grantsville, not be required to submit a new application because of increases in cost of its expansion and renovation project since the per diem is reasonable.

Mrs. Adele M Donnelly, special health services advisory committee chairman, reported that the committee endorsed four grant proposals, including Appalachian Activities Center and Sheltered Workshop, fifth year, funds, $148,409

In reference to the Health Planning Council of Appalachia Maryland merging into the Health Systems Agency of Western Maryland, Ms. Agnes Kemerer reported that a proposal is under development by the council and a final resolution will be made by October 31.

Ms Kemerer announced the public hearing on the Acute Care Bed Need Projection Supplement to the Health Systems Plan of Western Maryland, originally scheduled for October 2, has been rescheduled for a date, time and place to be announced soon.

Two new governing body members, Kenneth A. Richmond and Ross B. James, of Garrett County, were welcomed at the meeting. Other Garrett County representatives there were Thomas Earley and Mrs. Mary Friend.

The next meeting will be held at 1 p.m. October 18 at the Will o' the Wisp, Deep Creek Lake.

PET POINTERS

by jim willis

There are many reasons for providing adequate medical care for your pet. We have a responsibility toward those animals we choose to bring into our lives. More selfishly, pets are more fun when they are healthy and active. And last but not least, we protect ourselves by keeping our pets free from disease.

Fortunately, there aren't many diseases that are easily transferred from pets to people. The most dangerous is rabies, usually fatal to humans.

Rabies is a viral infection that can be carried by dogs, cats, bats — all warm-blooded animals. Since humans and dogs live in close contact, the dogbite is a common source of human infection.

There are excellent rabies vaccines available that can provide your dog with as much as three years' protection with a single injection. The injections are a preventive measure and must be given before the pet is exposed to the disease. Each pet owner helps to protect the entire community as well as family members when pets are vaccinated against rabies. Some pet owners question the necessity "in this day and age" for a rabies vaccination, but vaccination itself is the reason we don't see this life-threatening disease more often.

A less threatening but more embarrassing condition that can be transferred from pets to humans is ringworm. Caused by a fungus — not a worm — the infection produces circular scaly patches on the pet's skin, with redness and hair loss. Your veterinarian can provide ointments or shampoos to control the infection, and may clip the pet to remove fungus remaining in the hair. A person whose pet has a confirmed case of ringworm may want to contact a physician for a ringworm examination. In the meantime, keep children away from the affected animal until healing progresses.

Parasites can also be transferred from pet to owner. The most common examples are ticks and fleas. Ticks are eight-legged round or oval parasites that resemble seeds. They are slow moving and attach themselves to the skin surface. Fleas are smaller, fast-moving insects that scurry through the pet's coat when exposed to light. Both these pests feed on the blood of the host animal and may carry serious disease, such as Rocky Mountain spotted fever. The parasites can be controlled on the pet by flea and tick collars, pesticide dusts and shampoos. The type of control that is most effective will vary. Most pets do well with the pest control collars, used according to directions. Some dogs and cats spending much time outside or having heavy coats may require shampoos to reach all the parasites in their fur.

One more human health problem related to pets in the house is allergy. An individual human being's chemistry may find a pet's hair or dander an irritating agent and respond accordingly. Wheezing, sneezing, watery eyes and itching skin are examples of allergic reactions.

With the exception of allergy, which is a very individual situation, pets normally offer no major health threat to human beings. If your pets are well-groomed, their living quarters kept clean and family members observe the rules of good hygiene, pets in the family will add to everyone's enjoyment of life.

Tobacco, Alcohol Tax Revenue Totals Nearly $7 Million

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein announced recently that the August 1978 alcohol and tobacco tax revenues amounted to $6,999,644. The three types of alcoholic beverage taxes, distilled spirits, wine and beer, each displayed growth in comparison with August of last year. Revenue from the distilled spirits tax totaled $1,358,360, up 11.24%, the wine tax increased 20.13% to realize $248,972 and the beer tax receipts of $841,302 reflected a 1.78% growth.

The August 1978 tobacco tax revenue of $4,551,894 trailed the August 1977 receipts by $737,283, a decline of 13.94%.

For the first two months of Fiscal Year 1979 alcohol and tobacco tax revenues total $11,810,600, down $337,607 from the amount collected during the corresponding period of Fiscal Year 1978.

"Revenues from distilled spirits, wine and beer taxes increased over the identical two months of the previous fiscal year, but tobacco tax revenues posted a decline," Mr. Goldstein said.

Prices Invited To Anniversary Service At Fairmont Church

Dr. and Mrs. Walter W. Price, Mt. Lake Park, were among special guests invited to Golden Anniversary Services held on Sunday morning in the Highland Avenue United Methodist Church at Fairmont.

The church building was first dedicated on Sunday, September 23, 1928, when Mrs. Price's father, the late Rev. S. C. Dotson, was pastor She was soloist at that service and her sister, now Mrs. Calora Gustafson, of Dearborn, Michigan, directed the church orchestra. Their younger sister, Virginia, now Mrs. Paul W. Koenemund and her husband, of Glen Dale, W Va., attended the anniversary services on Sunday. The present Highland Avenue building had replaced the original Barnesville Methodist Episcopal Church which was built in 1894.

Bishop D. Frederick Wertz, of the West Virginia United Methodist Conference, preached on "God Speaks to us Though the Sermon" and offered the "Prayer of Dedication" at Sunday's 50th Anniversary morning service. Four other celebrating services were planned to follow and end with one on Thursday evening of this week.

The pastor of Highland Avenue Church, Rev. Graham Robertson, welcomed Bishop and Mrs. Wertz and the Reverend Keith Clarke, Fairmont District Superintendent, to the opening service on Sunday. Rev. Clarke brought greetings from all the district churches and also sang a solo by request. He was accompanied by Mrs. Clarke at the piano.

Following the Golden Anniversary Service on Sunday at Fairmont, Bishop and Mrs. Wertz came to the Emmanuel United Methodist Church Route 40 West in Garrett County for a Mortgage Burning Service in the afternoon.

Hagerstown Mental Retardation Center Open To Residents

The State's first Mental Retardation Center in Western Maryland has opened its doors to residents.

Located at 1380 Marshall Street in the western part of Hagerstown, the facility, on 20 acres of land, creates a country-like setting for the residents. The complex has been constructed at a cost of $6 million and will serve primarily the Western Maryland Counties of Frederick and Washington. Residents of Allegany and Garrett Counties who may require the type of service provided at this facility will also be considered as clients.

Dr. Neil Solomon, Secretary of Health and Mental Hygiene, said residents of Western Maryland now being cared for in other residential centers for the mentally retarded can be brought closer to their families and communities. The first group of 12 residents to move to the Center was composed of Rosewood Center residents whose homes are located in the western counties of the state.

John F. Monaghan, Director of the Mental Retardation Administration, said, "the Hagerstown facility is the realization of eight years of planning as a community conceived idea. Emphasis will be placed on a normal living environment to assist residents in advancing to maximum potential and greatest degree of independence. Deinstitutionalization is the ultimate goal of a program created and implemented according to the individual needs of residents and adjusted in relation to progress."

At full capacity, the facility will provide living space for 125 mentally retarded citizens, many of whom will have multiple handicaps. The complex of ten attractive brick buildings includes an infirmary with a 25-bed capacity, two buildings housing an administration and maintenance functions, a client recreation center and an activity center. Five cottages, each housing 25 persons, have sufficient area for independent living.

Robert DeHaven, Facilities Program Director, indicates that within six months the remaining residents will be admitted and the Center will be in full operation. Present plans call for staffing the facility with 198 persons when the full complement of clients is in residence.

Federal Foresty Aid Carried Out On 111 Farms

Federal cost sharing of forestry improvement was performed on 111 farms in Maryland in 1977, Paul A. Crowl, Chairperson of the Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee, said.

Tree planting and timber stand improvement work was carried out by 113 participants in 20 counties as part of the Forestry Incentive Program (FIP). The farmers received $148,650 which is 50 to 75 percent of the costs of the work as provided by FIP, Crowl said. Nationally, 9,443 farms in 1,393 counties were in the program and $10.3 million of program funds were paid to the farmers in fiscal 1977. The program is designed to cost share the tree planting and timber stand improvement work with producers to assure the future generations that wood products will be available to them for their needs.

Questions regarding participation in the FIP should be directed to the local county ASCS office, Crowl said.

New Annual Tax Credits Offered

Deadline for filing tax rebate applications under the Homeowners' Tax Credit Program is October 1, Del. Elizabeth S. Smith (R. AA Co.) announced this week.

Del. Smith explained that a major feature of the program enacted by the General Assembly in the 1978 Session is that "for the first time property tax credits are being provided for qualified homeowners who are under age 60. If a homeowner is not yet 60 years old," she said, "he or she may be able to receive an annual credit of up to $450."

Smith said that "the Homeowners Tax Credit Program replaces the existing Circuit Breaker program and incorporates all homeowners 60 years or older, or the disabled homeowner regardless of age, in the new tax plan starting this year. These people may receive a higher tax break than under the old circuit breaker. They may now receive a credit on their property tax of up to $900."

Eligibility depends upon a formula contained in the new law which compares the size of the property tax bill with a household's income.

Del. Smith further revealed that "probably one out of four homeowners are eligible to receive a tax credit of some amount."

Applications for the new tax credits may be obtained from local libraries, postoffices or a tax assessment office.

In addition, information on the Homeowners' Tax Credit Program is available from the Maryland Department of Assessments and Taxation, Investment Bldg., Towson, Md.

Four State Parks To Remain Open In Winter Months

Camping facilities in four Maryland State Parks are slated to remain open and available during the winter to accommodate campers, hunters, fishers and nature lovers. Assateague, Elk Neck, Patapsco-Glen Artney and Deep Creek Lake will remain open.

Most other parks will shut down camping facilities according to a schedule that was developed by the Park Service in an effort to provide accommodations for as many campers as possible. "We've tried to keep enough camping facilities open," Jim Mallow, deputy director of the Park Service said; "but we've also tried to keep a cautious eye on fuel economy and staffing requirements."

Campers should note the following schedule:

October 15 - New Germany will close to campers and will re-open, weather permitting, on April 12, 1979.

November 15 - Fort Frederick, Patapsco (Hollofield and Hilton), Susquehanna, Swallow Falls, Tuckahoe and Washington Monument State Parks will close.

December 15 - Big Run, Cedarville, Cunningham Falls, Gambrill, Greenbrier, Janes Island, Martinak and Pocomoke (Milburn and Shad Landing), Point Lookout, Rocky Gap will close.

Most of the Parks listed will reopen on April 12, 1979. Day use of all parks in the State system will continue on a weather permitting basis and only camping facilities will be shut down.

TIME

My name is Time. I haven't always been and I won't always be Genesis 1:1 - In the beginning GOD created the heaven and the earth. This is the beginning of TIME. Right now I'm on the move, measuring out life.

Men wait for me, submit to me, fear me, but no one can stop me except GOD. He is in control and He says I'm running out.

Matt. 24:22 - But for the elect's sake those days shall be shortened.

Revelation 10:6 - And sware by him that liveth for ever and ever who created heaven and the things that therein are, and the earth and the things that therein are, and the sea and the things which are therein, that there should BE TIME NO LONGER.

Most men think I will be forever, but as GOD has said, I am going to stop but Eternity will keep right on going for ever and ever.

Then it will be too late for Repentance, too late for getting SAVED by BELIEVING on the LORD JESUS CHRIST as GOD says in Acts 16:31.

Too late to ask JESUS CHRIST to come into your heart. Rev. 3:20.

PS 89:47 - Says, Remember how short my time is!

In Proverbs 3:1 2 - We read, To everything there is a season, and a time to every purpose under heaven. A time to be born and a time to die.

Hebrews 9:27 - And as it is appointed unto men once to die, but after this the judgment

If you have not been BORN AGAIN by the SPIRIT OF GOD through FAITH in the LORD JESUS CHRIST as Jesus said in John 3:3, 5, 7, you will die a second DEATH according to GOD'S WORD in Rev. 20:14 15 and be cast into the LAKE OF FIRE forever.

God says in 2 Corinthians 6:2 - Behold now is the accepted time, behold now is the DAY OF SALVATION!

ISA. 55:6 - Seek ye the LORD while he may be found. Call ye upon Him while He is near

Romans 10:13 - Says FOR WHOSOEVER shall call upon the name of the LORD SHALL BE SAVED. Not maybe or possibly, but surely shall be. Call upon Him TODAY

Recent Juvenile Cases Are Listed

Three juvenile cases were disposed of by Judge Fred A. Thayer last week.

A male 17 years old was found to be delinquent because of destruction of property at Kitzmiller. He was first committed to the custody of the Secretary of Health and Mental Hygiene but this sentence was suspended.

He was placed on probation under the Department of Juvenile Services. He was also to pay $100 fine and costs and to seek and obtain employment.

A 14-year-old male was found to be in need of supervision due to truancy, being absent from school 31 days as of May 15. This hearing was held in July and he was sent to the Maryland Children's Center for 21 days. Last week he was placed on probation for an indefinite period.

A 15-year-old male was found not to be delinquent having been charged with striking another boy with a chain at a youth home in Northern Garrett County.

GCC Will Offer Food Sanitation Management Course

The Continuing Education Division of Garrett Community College in cooperation with the Garrett County Health Department will offer a new training course on Food Service Sanitation Management. The course will consist of ten sessions beginning on Thursday, October 12, (7:00-9:00 p.m.) and will conclude on December 21. The course will meet each Thursday evening at the Oakland Center of the college.

Upon completion of the course and a comprehensive examination the Maryland State Department of Health will certify students as a Food Facilities Certified Sanitation Manager or Worker.

The State has stringent new requirements and enforcement policies on food handling and sanitary practices. Many states are now requiring a certified sanitation manager on duty in food establishments.

Students may register at the Oakland Center until Monday, October 9. Class size will be limited to twenty-five students. For further information persons should contact the Oakland Center of the college.

Scholarship Board To Tackle Delayed Awards Problem

The Maryland State Scholarship Board voted recently to take emergency action to help students caught in the present Basic Educational Opportunity Grant (BEOG) problem of delayed awards, according to a release from the Board.

Entire payment of state grants will be made immediately to those students requesting such payment on their General State or Senatorial Awards provided they are waiting for action on a delayed BEOG Award.

Hundreds of Maryland students have encountered a major problem in paying first semester bills due to delays in BEOG application processing. Students normally receive one half of an annual General State or Senatorial Award on the first semester and one half on the second semester. Under this special Board action, which applies only to the 1978-79 school year, the college will be allowed to credit the entire year's award to the first semester provided the student approves of the action. Excess funds remaining after payment of tuition and fees can be turned over to the student for buying books, paying for transportation, etc

Since no payment will be made during the second semester by the State for the students requesting this emergency action, it is hoped that the delayed BEOG award will cover the second semester payment problems.

Finan Mental Health Center Dedicated Sunday

Acting Governor Blair Lee III told the crowd "I hope this will be the model for this type of facility for many years to come," while officiating at dedication ceremonies for the $13 million Thomas B. Finan Center at Cumberland.

The mental health Center is on a 52-acre site on Country Club Road. Special guests included Mrs. Isabel N. Finan, widow of Thomas B. Finan, Sr., and her sons Timothy and Thomas B. Finan, Jr. Mr. Finan was a former Maryland Secretary of State, Attorney General and Judge of the Maryland Court of Appeals Introductions were made by Dr. Robert R. Grooms, director of the Center, who also gave a year-by-year progress report of efforts leading to completion of the center.

Land for the center was donated by the Allegany County Commissioners. The sprawling complex will provide mental health, mental retardation and alcoholism rehabilitation services to residents of Garrett, Allegany and Washington counties as well as serving, on an optional basis, residents of Frederick County.

Programs will be available to children, adolescent, adult and aged individuals with mental disabilities and to alcoholic and mentally retarded persons.

The center has ten cottages for patients, a 12-bed infirmary, four buildings with adnunistrative and personnel offices, maintenance building and a 50-bed mental retardation center which has an administration building and two cottages.

When fully operational, the facility will have a staff of 357 persons.

The Almanac

Today is Wednesday, September 27, the 270th day of 1978 with 95 to follow

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase

The morning stars are Mercury, Jupiter and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mars and Venus.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Libra.

American patriot Samuel Adams was born September 27, 1722.

On this day in history

In 1825, in England, George Stephenson operated the first locomotive to pull a passenger train.

In 1939, after 19 days of resisting heavy air raids and artillery bombardment, the heroic defenders of Warsaw, Poland, surrendered to the Germans.

In 1961, Syria broke away from the United Arab Republic in a revolt led by army officers.

In 1973, Vice President Spiro Agnew, who had pleaded no contest to tax evasion charges, said he would not resign (but did on October 10).

A thought for the day: Early American patriot Samuel Adams said upon hearing gunfire which opened the American Revolutionary War, "What a glorious morning for America."

SOLAR ECLIPSE

Monday at 2:41 a.m. a solar eclipse will be in progress and Scandinavia to Siberia and China. Of course this eclipse will not be visible to Garrett Countians. Two weeks ago a lunar eclipse occurred. Eclipses occur only when the sun and the earth are in line with the points on the moon's orbit which are along the ecliptic. These two points are called nodes of the moon's orbit. The ecliptic is the path of the earth through the solar system around the sun. When the geometry is right for eclipses to occur, both solar eclipse and a lunar eclipse occur two weeks apart at New Moon and at Full Moon.

MOON

New Moon phase occurs at 2:41 a.m. Monday. At this time the moon is directly between the sun and the earth. Moonrise varies from 2:39 this morning to 8:30 a.m. next Tuesday as this week passes.

VISIBLE PLANETS

Venus, Mars, Jupiter, and Saturn are visible planets this week. Venus is very low in the southwest at sunset. On Tuesday at 6:00 p.m. this planet will be at its greatest brilliancy. Mars is among the stars of Libra. It sets about an hour after the sun sets. Jupiter rises about five hours before sunrise as do the stars of Cancer. Saturn rises about two hours before sunrise with the stars of Leo.

DAYLIGHT DECREASES

Fifteen fewer minutes of daylight are available at the end of this week. Sunrise was at 7:09 this morning. Sunset will be at 7:07 p.m. Next Tuesday sunrise occurs at 7:15 a.m. followed 11 hours 43 minutes later by sunset at 6:58 p.m.

SUMMARY:

Technical information or comments are solicited on the proposed base (100-year) flood elevations listed below for selected locations in the Town of Oakland, Garrett County, Maryland.

These base (100-year) flood elevations are the basis for the flood plain management measures that the community is required to either adopt or show evidence of being already in effect in order to qualify or remain qualified for participation in the National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP).

DATES:

The period for comment will be ninety (90) days following the second publication of this proposed rule in a newspaper of local circulation in the above-named community.

ADDRESSES:

Maps and other information showing the detailed outlines of the flood-prone areas and the proposed flood elevations are available for review at the Garrett County Planning Commission, 323 Oak Street, Oakland, Maryland 21550.

Send comments to: Honorable H. D. Swartzentruber, Mayor of Oakland, 109 South Third Street, Oakland, Maryland 21550.

Municipal Officials To Convene For Annual Conference

Municipal officials from throughout the State will meet in Rockville at the Sheraton Potomac Inn on October 5-7 for the Maryland Municipal League's annual legislative conference.

Thursday's schedule includes sessions on insurance protection for law suits against local officials, Proposition 13 and property tax limitation and relief in Maryland, and the State police desire to extend their jurisdiction within municipalities.

On Friday morning conference delegates will be welcomed to Rockville by host Mayor William F. Hanna, Jr. and Montgomery County Executive James Gleason. The welcoming remarks will be followed by State Senator Harry J. McGurk's keynote presentation on the 1979 General Assembly.

Three proposed issues for possible inclusion in MML's 1979 legislative program will be explained to the delegates on Friday. Issues to be considered include safeguarding local officials from frivolous law suits, the State's program for providing police aid to local government, and the State's formula for distributing highway money to local governments. On Friday afternoon the municipal officials will meet in small groups, by population size, to discuss in detail the items being considered for MML's legislative program.

The theme of Friday's luncheon is the future of county-municipal relations. Speaking on this subject will be Francis B. Francois, President of the Maryland Association of Counties, and Jayne H. Plank, President of the Maryland Municipal League.

Two issues sessions will be held on Saturday morning: one on requiring Maryland's cities to pay the prevailing wage and the other on requiring local officials to follow the same financial disclosure requirements as state officials.

Both J. Glenn Beall, Republican gubernatorial candidate, and Harry R. Hughes, Democratic gubernatorial candidate, have been invited to speak to the municipal officials at a luncheon meeting on Saturday.

A final decision on which proposals will become a part of the League's 1979 legislative program will be made by all the conference delegates at the business meeting on Saturday afternoon.

The Maryland Municipal League is a non-profit, non-partisan federation representing 134 municipal governments throughout Maryland. The League works to strengthen the role and capacity of municipal government through a program of services including legislation, research, and technical assistance. The League is headquartered in Annapolis.

Board Transfers Cafeteria Funds

While formalizing the FY 1979 school budget for this school year the Garrett County Board of Education transferred about $35,000 in county-state dollars from the cafeteria account to be spent in other parts of the budget. This decision included establishing a county cafeteria program. All payroll work for the county cafeterias is now being handled through the payroll department of the finance office.

As a second major step in this process, a county-wide menu will be utilized beginning Monday, October 2, 1978. The menu for that week was prepared by Richard Buckingham, County Cafeteria Manager, from suggestions given by the local cafeteria managers. Local menus may have substitutions due to purchased items already on hand.

A Dangerous Kick . . .

Because Garrett County is so rural, it is true that most of the major problems which face metropolitan areas do not exist here. That is the main reason life is so enjoyable on the mountaintop. However, a few of these problems, though not to such a great degree, are just as real right here in Garrett County as they are in downtown Greenwich Village.

In today's issue we carry a rather in-depth feature article concerning the extent of the drug culture in Garrett County. The article is the result of many weeks of research and investigation. It is not meant to alarm, nor was it written for the sole purpose of sensationalism. The article is meant only to inform and help make people aware of a reality which exists even in Garrett County.

For some, the article will be a rude awakening. Some will choose not to accept it or believe it. Some will undoubtedly be angered that we even dare print such an article. However, we feel it is part of our job to make such situations known to the general public.

We hope the article is read with open minds. We do not want to imply that all young people take drugs. The article also does not mean to suggest that there is a degeneration of youth occurring. Kids today are not that much different from kids 50 or 100 years ago. It's just that drugs are available today like they never were before. Young people have always sought out new "kicks," regardless of the possible negative consequences. Unfortunately, besides being one of the most popular "kicks" right now, drugs are also among the most dangerous.

It will take a tremendous amount of understanding and patience to deal with this problem. In fact, much drug use would have never begun had there been understanding and patience in the first place.

Shenandoah To Keep Running Due To Legislation

Senator Paul Sarbanes announced late last week that service on Amtrak's Shenandoah train will be extended as a result of final action this week by Congress on the Amtrak authorization bill, S. 2081.

The Shenandoah is the only train now providing rail passenger service to Cumberland and Oakland.

Senator Sarbanes, in a letter to Secretary of Transportation Brock Adams last year, had urged that service on the Shenandoah be continued. The bill sent to the President this week will require the Secretary to evaluate service on the Shenandoah, as well as all other Amtrak lines, by December 31, 1978. The bill assures that service on the Shenandoah will continue through October 1, 1979, regardless of the Secretary's evaluation. Congress has 90 days in which to disapprove the final system plan.

Senator Sarbanes, in commenting on the legislation, said: "I am pleased that this bill will result in a systematic evaluation of passenger rail service and will require for the immediate future the continuation of passenger service to Cumberland and Oakland."

Garrett County Memorial Hospital Finishes Fiscal Year "In The Black"

Coopers and Lybrand, an independent Certified Public Accounting firm, has just completed and presented the Garrett County Memorial Hospital's audit for fiscal year ending June 30, 1978, according to Kenneth A. Richmond, administrator.

Mr. Richmond said that an independent audit is required of all businesses to serve as an unbiased third party investigation of a companies accounting system to determine that the financial statements present fairly and accurately its financial position and operating results. The audit is done in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles.

The official and final audit reports show that the hospital closed its fiscal year with a profit of $1,684.00. Mr. Richmond said it should be noted that on January 31, 1978 (seven months into FY 1978) the hospital was experiencing a year to date loss of $187,721.00. Directly related to a declining census, this picture was reversed through a reduction of expenses, an increase in revenues and an upswing in census for the subsequent months remaining, he said.

Last year's audited report (fiscal year 1977), showing a profit of $28,812.00, and this year's figures mark the third consecutive year the hospital has ended up in the black. However, no county monies were allocated to the hospital this past year nor have they been allocated for the current fiscal year.

A complete breakdown of the audit report may be seen on page 38 of today's issue.

Commissioners Plan Meeting To Discuss State "Mis-Distribution"

The Board of Commissioners for Garrett County is planning a meeting Monday, October 9, at 7 p.m., at Garrett Community College with representatives of the county's municipalities. Topic will be mis-distribution of highway users tax revenue by the state.

According to a spokesman for the commissioners' office, the state had distributed the taxes, but had mistakenly given too much to the county and not enough to the towns.

The commissioners will seek input from the town officials on how the monies should be repaid, and over what time period.

The amount involved is $203,658.

The mis-distribution of funds occurred because of an error in the formula used to dole out state highway user funds to counties and municipalities. The formula error, discovered by the Maryland Department of Transportation, stems back to 1969, when DOT began disbursing the funds, rather than the State Comptroller's office.

When DOT began distributing the funds, which come from the gasoline tax each month, an interpretation was made as to the formula to be used to provide the municipalities' share of the money. The Secretary of Transportation has now ruled that the formula was wrong. In some cases, counties have not shared enough of the money with cities, while in other cases, municipalities were given too much and now owe the counties.

In other business at Monday's commissioner meeting, Robert Stemple was appointed to serve with the Merit Board for another term.

The Commissioners voted to recognize the Broad Ford area for a group home for the mentally retarded, at the request of the Inter-Agency Committee on Mental Retardation. James Stanton is chairman.

The board also recommended that land acquisition begin for construction of the group home which would be operated by Garrett Crossroads, Inc.

Miss Deborah Lawton was appointed the county representative to the Maryland Energy Policy office, which helps devise ways to conserve energy in the county and state.

Dan Elmlinger, chairman of the Garrett County Committee to Promote the Employment of the Handicapped, requested the commissioners to sign a proclamation declaring the week of October 1-7 as "National Employ the Handicapped" week. The commissioners unanimously agreed to comply with Mr. Elmlinger's request.

Mrs. Barbara Flinn, president of the Garrett County Business and Professional Women's Club, and Mrs. Carol Canan, chairman of the BPW National Business Women's Week Committee, asked the commissioners to sign a proclamation declaring October 15-21 as "National Business Women's Week" to recognize the accomplishments of working women.

The commissioners unanimously agreed to comply with their proclamation request also.

The commissioners voted to accept a bond ordinance for the county roads, which would allow the county to participate in a $1.3 million transportation bond issue. Funds directed to this county would be used as the local matching share for safety projects, asphalt overlaying, and purchase of equipment.

Firemen Approve Insurance Plans

The Allegany-Garrett Counties Volunteer Firemen's Association approved a new group insurance plan at a meeting Sunday in Lonaconing.

The plan provides $25,000 in death benefits and $10,000 in medical benefits. The plan was approved over another which would have provided $10,000 and $3,500 in benefits respectively.

Introduced at the meeting was Dale L. Hill, recently named as an additional fire investigator for the two counties. Mr. Hill is from Hagerstown, where he served as fire marshal three years. He was introduced by Bob Shimer, investigator for the two counties for the past 12 years. Hill has been a volunteer fireman ten years.

A total of 24 companies and 13 past presidents were present. Robert Stevenson, president, was in charge of the meeting and Mike Walters, chaplain, opened the meeting with prayer.

It was reported that 1,174 firemen were injured last year while on duty in Maryland. A total of 24 of the firemen injured were from Allegany and Garrett Counties — seven from Garrett and 17 were from Allegany. This year so far, there have been 15 accidents including one fatality.

The Allegany-Garrett fire prevention queen will be selected this Sunday at 7:30 p.m. at the Midland Fire Hall. So far six departments have entered contestants. Only one department has entered the junior fire queen contest.

The annual Firemen's Ball will be held Saturday, October 28, at the Clary Club with music provided by Wally Ginger's Orchestra.

Reservations may be made by calling 724-1096.

A fire prevention film has been purchased by the association and will be stored at the resource center on McMullen Highway. Anyone wishing to use the film is asked to contact any member of a volunteer fire department.

The group decided to invite the new commander of the [illegible] to attend the next meeting of the association November 5 at the Eastern Garrett Fire Department in Finzel.

Charles Smith of Civil Defense and James H. Robertson, state fire marshal, will also be invited.

Several fire departments and rescue squads in the area will receive funds for new equipment. Flintstone fire department will receive $10,400 for the purchase of a light duty extraction truck and equipment.

Cresaptown fire department will receive $5,100 for extraction equipment improvement. Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad will receive $3,400 for vehicle improvement and Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad will receive $10,400 for vehicle improvement.

LaVale, Tri-Towns and Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad have all put in requests for advanced classes.

New classes were requested by Georges Creek, Lonaconing, Tri-Towns, Southern Garrett County, LaVale, and Frostburg. A daytime class was requested for all of Garrett County.

A recertification program for CRT will take place October 14.

St. Matthew's Has Confirmation, Dedication Services

A PLAQUE DEDICATION was one of several special events at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church in Oakland Sunday afternoon as part of the dedication ceremonies of that congregation's newly constructed parish building. The plaque was dedicated in the honor and memory of the late William A. Shirer, local contractor, who died July 18 of this year. Mr. Shirer was the contractor and builder of the new parish building. On hand to lead the dedication was the Rt. Rev. William J. Cox, Suffragan Bishop of Maryland, pictured at right. Pictured center is Mrs. William (Jacquelyn) Shirer and at left is Rev. Manning L. Smith, rector of St. Matthew's. In part, the plaque reads "To the Glory of God and in greatful thanksgiving for the life of William A. Shirer."

Twenty-six persons from eight area Episcopal churches were confirmed Sunday afternoon at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church in Oakland by the Rt. Rev. William J. Cox, Suffragan Bishop of Maryland, and Rev. Manning Smith, rector of St. Matthew's. The special service was conducted in conjunction with a dedication ceremony of St. Matthew's newly constructed parish building, which is located adjacent to the church building on Liberty Street.

The ceremony also included a plaque dedication to the late William A. Shirer, the local contractor who built the building (see above photo).

Local persons who were confirmed included Patricia A. Callis, Diana R. Geare, Mr. and Mrs. Bryan E. Thayer and Mr. and Mrs. William G. Welch.

A reception was held in the new parish building following the dedication. Mrs. Mary Browning served as hostess. Over 200 persons attended the service and dedication.

September Is One Of Driest On Record Here

September was one of the driest months on record with less than half the normal rainfall. Temperature-wise it was about normal, being only slightly above because of mild nighttime readings.

Rainfall for the month was only 1.47 inches, or 1.81 inches below the normal. Most of the rain, .73 inch, fell during a series of thunder storms on the 12th. Other than the 12th and 3rd, amounts were less than a tenth of an inch. The only thunder storms were on the heaviest rain days mentioned. Some rain fell on nine days. Even though the light rainfall was light, skies were mostly cloudy.

Temperatures for the month were 1.8 degrees above normal. Highs averaged 73.7 degrees or one half degree below normal. The high was on the 20th with 84 degrees, followed by the next day with 83 degrees. It was in the 80's six other days. The mercury stayed in the 60's on 11 days. The first day of Autumn, the 23red, the mercury only got up to the 60-mark, the coolest day.

Lows averaged 51.5 degrees or 4.1 above normal. The lowest reading was 29 degrees on the 29th followed by 30 degrees on the following morning. These were the only official below freezing readings. The first light scattered frost occurred on the 26th, the official reading being 33 degrees. Temperatures were generally above normal until the 24th, then after that below normal. The mildest morning was the 19th with 67 degrees. The two following mornings were also in the 60's as was the 9th.

Statistics are derived from information given by Logan Weber, local observer for the National Weather Service.

The largest mushroom farm in the world is located near West Winfield, Pa., in an old limestone mine. The farm produces about 14 million pounds of mushrooms each year.

Health and Safety Tip

From the American Medical Association

FIND YOUR FAMILY DOCTOR BEFORE ILLNESS STRIKES

You need a family doctor before illness strikes. Tragedy can befall those who wait to get a physician "until he is needed."

The physician traditionally provides medical care to anyone in need. However, he has priority responsibilities to his own patients; unless you are among them he may not be able to serve you at a moment's notice. By having a physician before you are ill and by having periodic checkups, emergencies can often be anticipated and averted through preventive medical care.

How do you select a doctor for your family?

Start by calling your local medical society for the names of several physicians in your neighborhood or within convenient traveling distance. If there is no society office in your community, call your nearby hospital, ask friends for their recommendations, or check the pharmacist for his suggestion.

The American Medical Directory, published by the American Medical Association, is available in most public libraries and hospitals. This volume will give the age, professional education, state of licensure, type of practice, teaching affiliation and medical organization membership for all physicians.

Is the prospective family doctor's office convenient for your family? What are his office hours? Do you prefer an older or younger physician? Will he make house calls? Do any of your family members have physical handicaps or disabilities which might require the care of a specialist?

Once you select your physician, call for an appointment for a physical examination. This will give the two of you the opportunity to get acquainted before you become ill. Does he impress you favorably? Are you "comfortable" with him or her? In discussing family health needs, keep in mind your budget. Ask the doctor about his fees; not all charge the same. He may not be able to give you an exact price for every kind of service but he can tell you approximately what his basic fees are.

For your own good — and the health of your family — why wait until illness strikes to choose a doctor? Select him now so he can have advance knowledge of your family's medical problems and give you the kind of protective care you expect from both a good doctor and a good friend.

by Cathy Helbig

In January of 1905, the St. Marks Lutheran Church was destroyed by fire. Hardly a month had gone by when fire was once again discovered in Oakland.

Destroyed were the West Hotel, an old landmark built prior to the Civil War, the Hesen Saloon, a two-story dwelling owned by Mrs. D. H. Loar and a house owned by Mr. Gilmor S. Hamill in which a cobbler shop was operated by Hampton McRobie.

There were no injuries and "the buildings burned, with the possible exception of the Hesen saloon, were practically of little value, being extremely old and out of repair."

Due to the lack of water in the boiler, the furnace of the local Catholic Church was burned out on a Saturday night; "Hence, the church was extremely cold for service Sunday."

Bet that was one time when Moses' burning bush would have been welcomed!

"John Kazuke, an Italian employed as a trackman on the Swallow Falls extension of the Kendall railroad, was found in the miners shanty a few miles north of Oakland with his feet badly frozen.

"Kazuke had evidently gone into the shanty and laid down, going to sleep. While sleeping, the frost king nipped him."

Going through one week's issue in March, I found this "Want Ad" listed nine times: "Wanted — One hundred wives." Concluding that times must have indeed been hard, I went on to find what might have been an explanation: "See one Hundred Wives at the opera House Thursday night."

A local Reverend, wearing a rubber suit, was in the process of baptising three persons. "A large hole was made in the ice which had not yet gone from the river and the candidates, one at a time, were immersed in the ice cold water. Ten persons, witnesses to the ceremony, crowded on the ice which suddenly gave way and all were precipitated in the water, going over their heads. Great excitement prevailed, but all were rescued. One, a woman of large avoirdupois, with considerable difficulty."

This final item was reprinted from an article that was found in the Barnerville Republican: "If anybody has the left hind leg of a rabbit caught in the graveyard in the dark of the moon by a red-haired colored man he ought to send it to B. Zitzman. He is the victim of a hoodoo. Recently he was found lying almost frozen to death in the snow near his home; later when he recovered sufficiently to leave his bed his night clothing took fire from a gas stove and he was badly burned before the flames could be extinguished, and only a few days ago as he was descending from the haymow in his stable he slipped and fell, and in his rapid flight downward a ring which he wore on the fourth finger of his left hand caught on a nail and the flesh was literally stripped from the bone." Some people have all the luck!

Letters to the Editor

Dear Sir:

Having been advised by the Festival Committee to make an early reservation for lodging, the response from the motels was absolutely unbelievable. None said they were fully reserved, only a weak "I don't believe we will have anything available." This attempt for rooms was made immediately after Labor Day weekend, as we had been instructed.

Most ironic is the fact that others called as late as last week and were accepted immediately.

However, a contingent of twelve will be in Oakland for the Autumn Glory Festival to cheer on our own American Legion Post #38 Honor Guard, Dundalk, Md. that yearly leads your parade.

Our money will be spent in the neighboring state — too bad Oakland — you do have poor manners. Please include that in your 'National Coverage'.

Sincerely,
Mr. and Mrs. A. Vrhovac
61 Kinship Road
Dundalk, Maryland

Sir

The System strikes again in July of '78. My son had a bad leg injury that kept him out of school until after Thanksgiving. He had a full leg cast that was removed the first of November, after which he had surgery on it the second time and then had to have physical therapy twice daily at the hospital. We realized he would have to have his senior portrait taken if it were to appear in the year book, so we made an appointment with a local photographer and after a P.T. session had it taken. The photographer told us a black and white would be sent to the high school for the year book.

Well, the 1978 year book is out and my son's picture isn't in it.

Two weeks before graduation the school told my son they didn't have it, they called the photographer and he said he had sent it, but sent another. My son called, he said it was sent.

It's anyone's guess who is to blame, it's recorded in the files the photo was sent, yet the school insists it wasn't.

Who loses? It only matters to us; funny, we received every notice the money was due for the announcements, cap, gown, etc.!

Your child's high school graduation picture will appear only once, — or will it?

The following selection by Donna Lee Shaffer, Oakland vividly captures the glory of Autumn. It is reprinted from Donna's Poetry Corner

Autumn Glory

I soak up the warm, lingering early Autumn sun, knowing well that I will need its warmth when winter soon sends its chilling finger down my spine
Until then I shall savor it with the taste of its crisp, juicy apples, tangy apple cider, and spicy pumpkin pie.
I'll tune my ears to the sound of crackling Autumn leaves abounding with color under my feet.
My eyes envision a city's bright lights reflected in the bonfire's dying glow and purple mountains bathed in a haze of Autumn smoke.
High in the bleachers the crisp, cool air increases the excitement of the competition on the football field below.
Come with me while we make a date with our childhood to romp in the leaves and bob for an apple at least once before the chill winds of winter whip 'round the corner
Awaken! Enjoy Autumn in all her glory!

What Is A Small Town

A small town is where you don't have to guess who your enemies are. Your friends tell you.

A small town is the only place on earth where people past middle age are called by their first names when they saunter down the street.

A small town is where everyone knows everyone else's car by sight, and also where and when it goes.

A small town is where you can get a wrong number and you can still talk for 15 minutes, if you want to.

A small town is where the ratio of really good people to really bad people is something like 100 to one.

A small town is where it is hard for anyone to walk to work for the exercise because it takes too long to stop and explain to people in cars who stop, honk and offer a ride.

A small town is somewhat like a big family, including ornery distant cousins, renegades and all.

A small town is where city folks say there is nothing to do, but those who live there can't find enough nights in the week to attend all the meetings and social functions.

A small town is where everyone becomes a neighbor in a time of need.

A small town is where many teenagers complain because there is nothing to do, and then are surprised to learn their big city peers are saying the same thing.

A small town knows all the news before it's published, but they buy the hometown newspaper to make sure the editor gets it right.

A small town, when all is said and done, is a nice place in which to live.

The above was submitted by Mrs. Alice Walter Archer, of Melrose Park, Ill., formerly of Oakland. It is reprinted from Oak Leaves newspaper, of Oak Park, Ill.

Last-Minute Rush Nets Rams A 14-7 Victory Over Mussleman

With 1:03 remaining in the game, Paul Cornish scrambled 14 yards for a touchdown boosting Southern High School to a hard-fought 14-7 Potomac Valley Conference victory over Musselman Friday evening on the Ram's gridiron. The win evened the Ram's season tally to 2-2.

The Rams began the final scoring rush at its own 45 yard line with two and one-half minutes remaining.

Musselman seized the opportunity in the first quarter when Bob Lambert scored from five yards away. Steve LeFevre kicked the extra point.

The Rams challenged the score moments later as quarterback Frank Lewis scored. John Sanders booted the one-point conversion.

Cornish gained 101 yards on 12 carries and Mike Bolding had 94 yards on 18 carries. Southern's defensive stars included Doug Devlin with 12 individual tackles, Bolding and Jim Simms

Skip Riner led the Musselman onslaught and John Boyd did most of the ball carrying. Bill Spiker led defense for the losers.

The Southern Rams challenge Hampshire High School Friday evening at 8 p.m. on their opponents home turf near Romney.

The Rams repeated the performance in the closing seconds of the second half to win the contest 14-7. (See story.)

In the semi-late division at Elkins, Randy McCartney won his heat, placed first in his first feature, but did not finish in the second feature.

At Hagerstown Sunday, Frank Lewis took second in his heat, grabbed an early lead in the feature and was out in front most of the race until his car stopped running, thus placing him last.

A big invitational race is scheduled at Elkins this Sunday, after time trials on Saturday as part of the Forest Festival entertainment.

Seventy senior citizens from the Tri-state area congregated at Par-Matt Lanes, Oakland, last Wednesday and Thursday, for the Fourth Annual Senior Citizens' Bowling Tournament "I think it is wonderful to see old people participating in this type of sport," said Robert Ford, president of the Commission on Aging, sponsor for the event. Trophies and checks were given to the first through fifth place winners. First place in the men's division went to John Lafferty, Cumberland, with a 245 score in the final game. Elsie Cross, Elkins, W. Va., who was the 1976 tournament winner, took first olace in the women's division with a 210 score in the final game. Pictured, left to right, John Lafferty, Robert Ford and Elsie Cross

Although they didn't take first place, these women were still in the competition in the Senior Citizens' Tournament when the final games were played Thursday afternoon, September 28. Pictured left to right, fifth place winner, Dot Watkins, Kingwood, W. Va.; fourth place winner, Clema Mattingly, Oakland; third place winner, Chris Fischetti, Oakland; and second place winner, Berdena Wagner, Friendsville.

Garrett County's Grim Fairytale

By Jim Willis

Once upon a time there was a scenic rural community which had everything. People travelled from all over to sail on its lake, hike in its forests, stay in its resorts, photograph its scenery and visit its tourist attractions. Yes, that picturesque area had everything — including drugs.

That utopian paradise is Garrett County, Maryland.

Garrett County has always been special. As a resort area it has much to offer. But what most people don't realize is that it also offers just about every illicit, illegal and controlled substance under the sun.

Projected figures of drug usage are often erroneously compiled from arrest records and hospital reports. When looking at these figures on a local level one must not ignore the fact that our rural area offers the drug user the anonymity and seclusion he wouldn't find in a more populated area.

Kenneth A. Richmond, director of Garrett County Memorial Hospital reports that in calendar year 1976, 15 persons were admitted to the hospital for drug overdose. In calendar year, 1977, 14 persons were admitted, and in the first six months of this year, two were admitted.

These figures are for admitted patients and do not include out-patient treatment or those transported to other nearby hospital facilities. The figures indicate a downward trend in drug overdose. What they don't reveal is an increase in drug usage.

Perhaps a more faithful representation of drug usage can be gleaned from hospital emergency room records. Again, these statistics don't present a complete picture but they indicated the rising number of drug abuse cases not necessarily resulting in overdose.

Joyce Andrews, emergency room supervisor for Garrett Memorial Hospital, reported that in 1974, four persons were treated for drug abuse/overdose. In 1976 that figure jumped to 30, and 1977 also showed 30 persons treated. As of August, 1978, Garrett Memorial had treated 28 persons and there is every indication that this year's total will top that of the two previous years.

Mrs. Andrews stated, "one interesting thing about what we get here . . . . . a kid will take something that another kid has given him without really knowing what he took, — they take it and get scared." At that point the youngster shows up for emergency room treatment.

Drug abuse is usually a problem of the teen-age years, yet Mrs. Andrews reports that during one six-month period, three 12 year-olds were treated for drug abuse. One youngster had used a parent's nerve medicine liberated from the family's medicine chest. The two others had received potentially dangerous substances at school from classmates.

The types of drugs abused are many and varied. Mrs. Andrews explains, "with the older adults, it is usually tranquilizers and sometimes 'across-the-counter' medication. What really scares us is when they begin to mix different kinds of drugs. With younger children it is usually something stolen out of the medicine chest."

She reiterated that most of the younger children don't realize what they've taken . . .

In fact, when a child obtains drugs from his family's medicine chest and distributes them to classmates, he himself may not realize what the drug is.

As for the reasoning, Mrs. Andrews pointed out that peer pressure is often the cause. In the older patient, a drug abuse/overdose incident may follow an emotional crisis. These are recorded as suicide attempts at the hospital although she added that many times, "they aren't really — they're to get attention."

Sociologists predict that as America's drug culture becomes more knowledgeable and better educated in its "hobby" the incidence of overdose will fall, but the figures for drug usage will rise.

Arrest records are misleading too. Like any business, the drug merchants are not naive. They pour hundreds of thousands of dollars into marketing research which designs and manufactures paraphernalia that conceals their product. "Roach clips" which hold a burning marijuana joint are created in the guise of ordinary household items such as a house key. Cocaine is transported in hollow bowling balls. Special cannisters are welded under the bodies of transport vehicles to haul illegal substances . . . . . the list is endless.

So when local State Police report, "one month we might have six or eight drug arrests, one month we might not have any," we must realize that only the tip of a large iceberg is being uncovered.

Garrett County Sheriff, John Evans Jr., reported that drug related offenses in this area are definitely on the increase. He stated that his department occasionally confiscates "downers," cocaine, "bennies,' Darvon and several prescription substances, "but 90% of it is marijuana."

Sheriff Evans explained that most offenders are placed on probation and/or fined for possession of marijuana exceeding one ounce, which is a misdemeanor. The majority of the offenders are of high school and college age.

As a part of the research for this article, I contacted both local high schools and asked that students with knowledge of drug usage in their school contact me. Their comments show that drugs and narcotics are no stranger to their age group.

"People think we're hicks down here, but my cousin goes to school in Baltimore and I can get better stuff here a lot easier and a lot cheaper than he can down there."

"I guess we do have enough of it here (at school). I don't do pills . . . . . I just smoke grass (marijuana). I could get just about anything I wanted if I wanted it and had the money . . . . . you just have to know the right people."

One teacher reported, "every once in awhile a kid will come to class 'high.' Most of the time they get away with it, but I recognize the effects of marijuana. The kids are pretty careful though; they know which teachers are 'cool' and which aren't."

A Growing Problem

Children are great mimics and when they turn to drugs it is usually due to peer pressure. Marijuana is the panacea for their generation's ills, just as caffeine and valium are for their parents.

Robert L. DuPont, director of the National Institute on Drug Abuse stated, "For most Americans, it comes as a surprise to realize that much traditional drug use around the world has been, and continues to be, work-related, rather than recreational. Contrary to expectations based on modern pharmacology, this is true of such things as Cannabis, opium, tobacco, and it is even more characteristic of the coca leaves. In fact, the most compelling analogy to an Andean chewing coca is an American drinking coffee as a work adjunct. In most cultures over most of history, use of such substances as coca, Cannabis and opium has existed in a cultural context, that tended to moderate and restrict use."

America is locked on a one-way path towards self-destruction and the culprits are not long-haired dope-smoking "hippies." We have well-dressed conservatives and indiscriminate physicians to thank for the popularity and availability of a drug induced stupor.

Consider Valium, a godsend to millions of Americans who need its sedatives to cope with the day-to-day rat race. The Playboy Institute, one of the world's foremost drug research centers, recently reported that:

- Valium is the largest selling prescription drug in the United States and has been number one every year since 1969, when it topped Librium.
- From May, 1976 to April 1977, approximately 57,084,000 prescriptions for Valium were written in the United States.
- Valium and Librium account for half of all tranquilizers sold in this country.
- One share of Hoffman-LaRoche (the manufacturers of Valium) stock is worth around $40,000, making it the most valuable share of stock in the world, if you can find one to buy. Admittedly, that price is down from the record high of $73,000 in 1972.
- The wholesale cost of a two-milligram tablet of Valium is 6.9 cents. That works out to $1,072.95 per troy ounce. Valium costs six times as much as gold by weight.
- "Fortune" magazine describes Hoffman-LaRoche as "the world's largest ethical drug manufacturer, undisputed world market leader in vitamins and psychopharmaceuticals — and a company that is currently one of the most profitable enterprises on earth.

In addition, Americans used some $11,000,000,000 worth of prescription drugs and $4,000,000,000 non-prescription

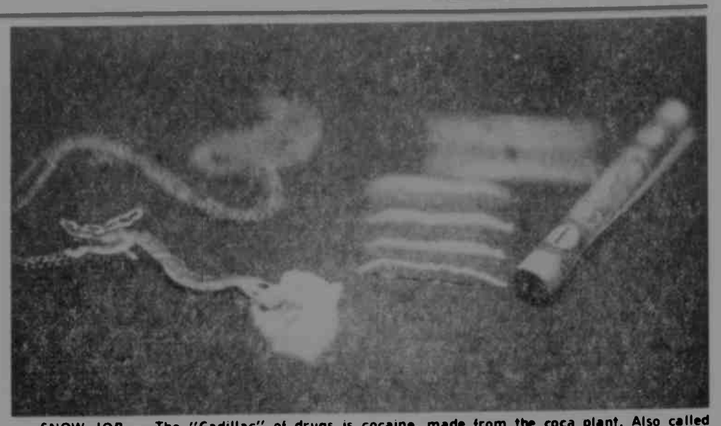
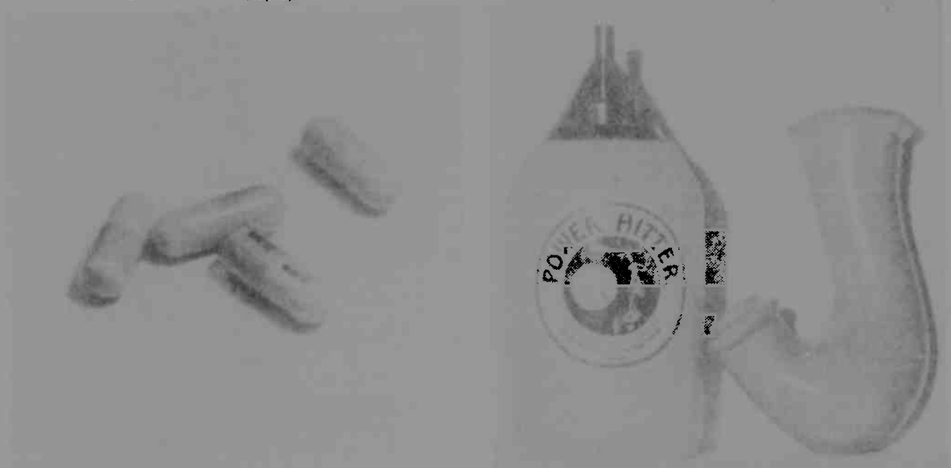
ALL-TIME FAVORITE — Cannabis or marijuana is still the drug of choice with an estimated 16,210,000 users in the United States. Its affordability and availability make it popular with local teenagers who claim it is "easier to get than beer." The above Columbian variety was grown and distributed locally. Although proponents stoutly maintain the herb produces no harmful side effects, marijuana's active ingredient THC produces confusion of time sense, inability to carry out mental tasks, sense of strangeness and unreality about self and surroundings, and unwelcome introspection. Pictured above, a pipe, make-shift "roach clip" and rolling papers are the smoker's staples.



SNOW JOB — The "Cadillac" of drugs is cocaine, made from the coca plant. Also called "coke" or "snow" the above cocaine was purchased locally and is "street pure" - 53% to 63% pure. Cocaine is used legally as an anesthetic for eye surgery but in the drug culture, users enjoy its ampetamine-like qualities when inhaled through the nostrils. The drug causes profound overstimulation and harmful side effects may include possible convulsions, acute stomach pain, circulatory failure and respiratory collapse; death from overdose is rare. Pictured above, "lines" of cocaine have been laid out with a razor blade with each line having a street value of $15 to $20. Two popular means of administering the drug are a sterling silver "coke spoon," left, (the above dragon-shaped spoon is worn as a necklace) and "straws" rolled from $100 bills.

THE CRUELEST JAB — Disposable needles are used to "mainline" such drugs as Heroin, Methadone, Morphine, Opium and Phenobarbital. Better education of the drug culture has lead to the demise of such hard, physically addicting narcotics and barbituates. Although these drugs are rarely seen in the area they remain moderately popular in large metropolitan areas.

POPULAR MOTIFS — The drug culture has become such an integral part of our American society that such common themes as marijuana leaves are used to create anything from jewelry and fabric designs to a custom paint job such as this vehicle spotted on Second Street in Oakland displays.



"SPEED KILLS" — As a result of the 1960's "Speed Kills" campaign, the use of amphetamines has dropped across the United States. However, there are still an estimated 1,780,000 users of "uppers" in this country. Pictured above are "reds," a common amphetamine often used as a recreational drug or to induce weight loss. Reportedly, a nearby physician called "Dr. Feelgood" distributes amphetamines and barbituates indiscriminately.

TOOLS OF THE TRADE — A "power hitter" and a clay pipe are just two examples of the drug paraphernalia offered at any "head" shop. A marijuana smoker places a joint inside the power hitter to magnify the herb's effects. The clay pipe can be filled with ice and placed in the freezer to cool the marijuana smoke. The drug paraphernalia industry is so huge that last year it cleared $250,000,000. Consider that 160,000,000 packages of rolling papers were sold in the United States last year. Allowing 50 papers per package and a reasonable amount of coordination on the part of the roller, that adds up to eight billion joints!

"BLACK BEAUTIES" — Probably the most popular amphetamines offered in this area are "Black Beauties" such as those pictured above. The drug is legitimately used to combat fatigue, depression, narcolepsy and hyperactivity in children. Local students find its effects enticing: dramatic increase in alertness and confidence, mood elevation, improved physical performance and concentration. On the other side of the coin is the drug's detrimental effects: acute paranoia, agitation, insomnia, fear, irritability, chest pain, headache, chills and stomach distress.

"DEAD ON ARRIVAL" — DOA is one of a multitude of nick names for PCP or phencyclidine. Originally created as a potent animal tranquilizer, the drug is often inhaled, injected directly into the bloodstream, or rolled with marijuana and smoked. At $60 to $75 per gram it is one of the more expensive illicit substances and rarely used locally. The PCP pictured above is distributed to the Garrett County area. Users report various reactions ranging from a pleasant dreamlike state to confusion, paranoia, sense of dying, losing touch with their body, psychotic states and assaultive behavior. Recent horror stories indicate that unstable personalities can be driven to violent acts while under the influence of PCP.

EASTERN IMPORT — Finely ground opiumnated black hashish such as that pictured above has a street market value of $150 in the Garrett County area. The highly concentrated herb/narcotic mixture is added to marijuana to increase the "high." The importation of illegal contraband from the Far East is increasing rapidly as the United States market grows.

LOVE DRUGS — "Blues" such as those pictured above are difficult to obtain because of their increased popularity as a supposed aphrodisiac. They belong to the barbituate family, producing mild intoxication, loss of inhibition, decreased alertness and muscle coordination. They may also cause unconsciousness which can give way to coma and death.

last year. Is it any wonder our youth turn to drugs and alcohol to "escape?" Learned patterns are hard to break.

A Complete Menu

Almost every student interviewed for this article echoed the fact that "just about everything," was available in the area. One enterprising student prepared a list of available drugs at Southern High School and the current prices for each:

Marijuana - $30 to $40 per ounce. Columbian. $400 - $500 per pound. Aculpulco Gold, $1,000 per pound.

Hashish - "Blond," $5 to $10 per gram; "black," $8 to $12 per gram. Hash oil, $100 and up, (amount not specified).

PCP or Angel Dust - available but no price listed.

Speed" - 60 cents to $1 per tablet.

Acid" - (type not specified), Used to be $10 for a four-way hit."

Mescaline - $10 for a four-way hit.

Thai Stick - $15 per stick.

The students commented that most of the illicit substances are "imported" from Washington, D. C., Pittsburgh, Baltimore, Morgantown and even Florida.

Further research also uncovered reports of:

- a physician near Pittsburgh frequented by local drug users. He has been nicknamed "Dr. Feelgood" because of his indiscriminate prescribing of diet pills (amphetamines) and tranquilizers (barbituates).

- cocaine from Pittsburgh and Uniontown is brought into the county and stored for future distribution to the southern states. One shipment had an estimated value of $200,000.

- during the height of the tourist season, suspected "underworld" figures from Pittsburgh, Baltimore and Washington, D. C. meet near Deep Creek Lake to plan "arrangements" for drug trafficking.

In many cases the validity of such privileged information could not be ascertained — but the frequency of the reports and the adherence to the same "facts" implies a modicum of truth. If one could believe only half of the supposed transactions, then the drug market is truly alive and well, and operating in Garrett County.

The Leaders

Marijuana: Marijuana is the all-time favorite among today's young people. It is relatively inexpensive, easy to obtain, — and if one would believe its proponents, it has no harmful side-affects.

The availability is probably its biggest selling point. Local students report, "you can get 'weed' a lot easier than you can get beer. You have to be eighteen to get beer — nobody asks your age when you buy marijuana."

"It should be legalized . . . . . it doesn't hurt you and everyone does it. I know two or three teachers here that do it and there's probably a lot more I don't know about."

"All my friends do it — I probably know more kids that smoke (marijuana) than don't. In fact, most us smoke marijuana and almost nobody smokes cigarrettes. Cigarrettes will kill you, marijuana won't."

Not withstanding the intoxicating effects of the drug, marijuana smokers now have the additional worry of Gramoxone or paraquat poisoning. The United States government was kind enough to spray Mexican marijuana fields with this potentially dangerous herbicide. The tainted "pot" was then quickly harvested and distributed to the U. S. where users now risk lung damage by smoking it.

But never fear — Uncle Sam, when pressed with a lawsuit by the National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws (NORML) switched to another defoliant, 2,4-D, which was used to create the DMZ in Vietnam. This time the herbicide is a known carcinogen.

Cocaine: As new wave comedian, George Carline said, "a couple of hits of cocaine makes me feel like a new man. The only problem was, the first thing the new man wanted was a couple of hits of cocaine."

Cocaine or "coke" is fast becoming the Cadillac of the drug culture. At 53% to 63% pure on the street market, the drug sells from between $80 and $150 per gram. Add to that another $30 for coke paraphernalia, such as gold-plated razor blades and sterling silver coke spoons. Thankfully, the price range puts it out of the reach of most local students. They stated "no, I never do Coke, who can afford it?"

"I tried it once or twice, but I wan't impressed. I like marijuana better, and it's a heck of a lot cheaper."

"(I've tried it) one time. It burned a lot. I didn't like it."

Speed: As a result of the 1960's campaign, "Speed Kills," drugs in this category have fallen in usage. Most speed purchased on the street isn't even legitimate, but merely caffeine or one of the decongestants labelled "May Cause Difficulty With Sleep." Much of the "speed" in this area is dexadryll or dexedrine obtained from the aforementioned Pittsburgh area physician as diet pills. The particular doctor in question, nick-named "Dr. Feelgood," reportedly issues prescriptions for drugs which are then filled by a pharmacy near his office. Quite a racket.

Speed is used by local students only rarely.

"I just use it to study for tests. I learn better and I guess I get better grades. I hate crashing though." (Note: "Crashing" is slang for coming down from the effects of speed).

"I do 'Black Beauties' every once in awhile. Sometimes for tests and maybe before a big game."

Hallucinogens: According to the National Institute on Drug Abuse, 10,000,000 Americans have tried hallucinogens with approximately 1,000,000 still involved in regular usage. For most, that means LSD with a recent trend towards mescaline or psilocybin.

The movement is towards much milder doses, with today's "acid" about 100 micrograms per dose as compared to the 250 micrograms per dose which was popular in the Sixties.

Many contemporary youngsters opt for a natural hallucinogen known as the Psilocybin Cubensis mushroom. A "magic mushroom" growing kit is available legally from a Colorado firm for $15. The kits are legal because the spores are inactive when the kits are shipped and Psilocybin is not on the controlled drug list.

When I quizzed area students concerning "magic mushrooms," and other hallucinogens, they replied typically.

"No way . . . I don't trust that stuff."

"I've done mescaline, but never LSD — what's a 'magic mushroom'?"

"I kind of like to trip once in a great while, but they take too long to wear off. It's hard getting away from the house long enough."

PCP: Phencyclidine, Angel Dust, Dead on Arrival, Krystal and a score of slang expressions brand this up-and-coming substance.

PCP and its cousin Ketamine Hydrochloride, have been receiving a lot of bad press lately, and rightly so. "Sixty Minutes" recently did 20-minutes worth of horror stories on the effects of this drug. However, PCP is not new — it was first introduced in the 1960s. The "trip" it causes is not unpleasant, — in the beginning. After the user passes through the anesthetic phase, he goes into a hallucinogenic phase often characterized by anxiety, panic and fear . . . death. If the user has an unstable personality this could throw him over the brink into a bizarre world of violence and death.

Students are generally uninformed of the dangers of PCP.

"I've heard it can cause bad head-trips. I've never taken it straight . . . . . sometimes we mix it with grass and smoke it — then it's a real kicker."

"It makes me mad when someone rolls it in a joint and doesn't tell anybody. I like to know what I'm doing. I've had bad surprises."

The Solution

It is always nice to offer a solution after one expounds on the problem. Unfortunately, there are few pat answers to combatting the drug problem.

Tighter police crackdowns may or may not help. We've been shown that the stricter the law enforcement the more evasive the drug culture becomes.

Perhaps part of the solution lies in the family unit itself. Teen-agers use drugs for a multitude of reasons. — peer pressure, good feelings, escapism. Whatever the reason, they need to be educated from very early on about the dangers of drugs and alcohol.

As parents, you must learn to recognize the signs of drug use and open the lines of communication between you and your child.

Does your child spend an excessive amount of time by himself? Do you notice marked changes in his eating and personal habits? Is he suddenly making a lot of new friends? Does your child have more money than you can account for? Does your child suddenly need more money? Does your child exhibit physical or emotional changes — red, watery eyes, dilated pupils, listlessness, manic-depressive behavior?

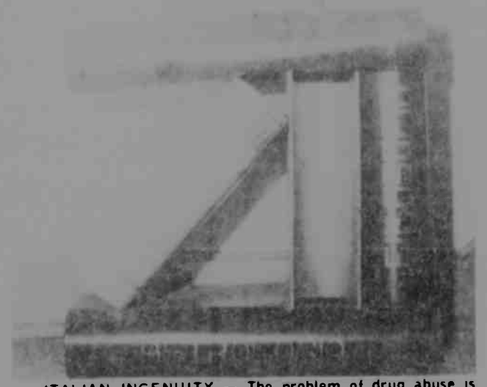
If so, you need to talk with your child. Above all, never make accusations before you know the facts and never ignore a problem hoping it will resolve itself. It won't.

Parents must also understand the nature of the drug culture. Your children may be using drugs purely on a recreational level. This does not make them a "drug addict." It is merely a product of the times: when you were in school a cheap bottle of wine and a six-pack of beer enhanced your weekend. For today's teen-ager that no longer suffices.

You may never accept it, but an honest effort to understand the peer pressure your child faces will go a long way towards preventing a problem from developing.

Often turning to drugs is a cry for help. Listen, and maybe this unpleasant fairy-tale can have a happy ending.

ILLEGAL SMORGASBORD — Marijuana and assorted paraphernalia complete the confiscated collection at the Garrett County Sheriff's office. Sheriff Evans reports that marijuana is behind 90% of local drug arrests. The above collection is relatively small as the sheriff's department recently incinerated two large garbage bags of the confiscated herb.



ITALIAN INGENUITY — The problem of drug abuse is ages old, and likewise the means of secreting illicit substances. Pictured above is an antique Italian opium table, in the guise of several large books. This hiding place was used in the early 1900's to store the narcotic. Although relatively obsolete it is a forerunner of elaborate secret caches offered to the drug culture to "stash" drugs and paraphernalia.

Let's Meet Frank Finch
Candidate for Register of Wills

Frank is one of four sons of Kathleen and Bill Finch of Altamont, formerly of Kitzmiller. His father worked as the custodian at the Courthouse for many years and then retired after several years at the Garrett County Roads Department.
Frank's brother, Bill, worked for about 8 years at the roads department, but now is employed at the North Branch Coal Mine. He is now living in the Gortner area.
Frank's brother, Bob, a former Deputy Sheriff of Garrett County, is now employed at the Laurel Run Coal Mine and is living in the Bethlehem area.
Frank's brother, Jim, is presently self-employed as owner and operator of Finch's Discount Carpet Store, north of Oakland, and lives in the Red House area.
Frank also has one sister, Betty Jo Finch Brown, who has lived away for several years but has now moved back to Garrett County. She worked for seven months as a cook at the county jail and is now employed at Bausch & Lomb.
Frank is 31 years of age. After high school and four years in the U.S.A.F., in 1968 he started working for the Garrett County Sheriff's Department.
Frank's wife, Rosalee Pratt Finch, also of Kitzmiller, has worked twelve years for the Garrett County Memorial Hospital as an X-Ray technician.
Frank and Rosalee have two daughters, Rebecca, age 6, and Stacy, age 18 months. They lived on E. 5th St., Mt. Lake Park, from 1970-1977, and now live on Pysell Crosscut Road near Deer Park.

New Method May Date Shroud

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) - Scientists at the University of Rochester say a new carbon-14 technique may enable them to determine the age of the Shroud of Turin, a 14-foot long cloth believed by many to be the burial linen of Jesus.

Harry E. Gove, director of the university's Nuclear Structure Research Laboratory, says artifacts such as the shroud cannot be carbon-dated using conventional methods because it requires too much cloth. However, a new technique developed last year at the upstate New York school requires only a small sample of the material.

"At our laboratory, we could establish the age of the shroud to within about 100 years or better using a single thread about 20 centimeters long," Gove said.

The shroud, now on public display in celebration of the 400th anniversary of its discovery in Turin, Italy, has attracted thousands of spectators and great scientific interest.

Its age now cannot be traced back further than the 14th century using conventional methods.

The archbishop of Turin must approve the new carbon-dating procedure.

The university's association with the project resulted from a request by Father Peter Rinaldi, vice president of the Holy Shroud Guild, and the Rev. David Sox, general secretary of the British Society for the Turin Shround.

The men first contacted Gove after reading about the new method.

Post-Graduate Offerings For Teachers Increase

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — State education officials have joined for the first tune in an attempt to increase the educational opportunities for teachers.

The Department of Education, which handles primary and secondary schools, and the Board for Higher Education, which oversees state colleges, have formed a committee to determine how colleges can offer more training for teachers.

The average age and education of state teachers has risen in recent years as student enrollments have declined and the teacher force has stablized.

Almost 65 percent of Maryland teachers have completed postgraduate courses.

State teachers are required to complete 30 hours of postgraduate work, the equivalent of a masters degree, within 10 years or face the loss of their certification.

Now that many teachers have completed that work, the Education Coordinating Committee is looking into other forms of graduate work that could be made available to teachers.

Americans Abroad Feel Impact Of Sagging Dollar

BONN, West Germany (UPI) — "The American ordered a cup of coffee," the restaurant manager said. "As an afterthought, he asked the price. Then he canceled the order for coffee. I've never experienced that before."

Since the dollar hit a record low price against the Deutschmark Tuesday, a lot more American visitors in Germany will find the price of a cup of coffee is too much to bear.

In a sit-down restaurant or coffee house frequented by the ordinary middle-class Germar "burgerliche" family, a cup of coffee costs 1.80 marks. Add in a 20-pfennig tip and it costs $1.04.

And that $1-a-cup price buys no refills. The "bottomless cup" of American diner lore is unknown here.

Drinking alcohol is more fun and less expensive, as long you avoid the hard stuff. A small beer costs 68 cents. A quarter-liter — a generous pint — of either white or red wine costs $2.34.

Eating, however, can be expensive. The McDonald chain, expanding throughout Europe, charges $1.69 for one Big Mac.

Americans visiting Germany usually stumble over the telephone tolls. They get off their jet, go to a hotel and phone home to Columbus or Kansas City. Only when they pay their bills the next morning do they discover hotels in Germany, as in most of Europe, triple the cost of phone calls as a service charge.

A three-minute call from a German hotel to the United States can cost as much as $40.30. The line at the hotel cashier's office each morning usually jams while some unfortunate American traveler learns the hard way his telephone bill really is larger than his hotel bill.

Some people think they will save by using credit cards as often as possible, to avoid exchanging cash from one currency to another. The credit-card strategem has its disadvantages, however.

By the time the credit card company's Germany office has sent the bills on to the United States, the exchange rate of the dollar may decrease further, so once again the size of the bill will be greater than anticipated.

The answer is to use all of your American dollars to buy German marks the moment you reach Germany. Do not buy small amounts of marks in anticipation of an upward turn. It will not occur.

How can you tell what will happen to the dollar? Experienced international observers believe they have found a link between world events and currency exchange rates.

Take the Bonn economic summit last July, for example. Participants and observers alike declared the meeting of the leaders of the world's seven largest industrial democracies was a success. The dollar fell immediately.

President Carter brought Egypt and Israel together at Camp David. As a result, the dollar fell.

Saudi Arabia said it will stick with the dollar for its oil pricing. Naturally, the dollar fell again.

Switzerland took action to reverse the appreciation of its currency. The dollar sagged some more.

The answer is clear: whatever happens, the dollar goes down.

Gulf Stream Stops "Swimming Nun"

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI) — It was the Gulf Stream, not the shark packs, poisonous jellyfish, the cold, or fatigue that finally whipped Stella Taylor, the "Swimming Nun."

She was almost in sight of realizing her dream to swim from the Bahamas to Florida Tuesday, but had to quit.

After 51 hours in the water and 114 miles, helpers convinced the 46-year-old marathon swimmer she lacked the strength to free herself from the northward pull of the Gulf Stream. She didn't want to quit.

"I found out I had to go five miles an hour for five hours to get there, so I stopped," Miss Taylor told reporters in a hoarse whisper. "I didn't really want to stop, but I knew I had to. The currents were just too fast. I am disappointed. I worked very hard for this."

It was nonetheless a record for women's endurance swimming, only nine hours short of the men's record.

She paid a painful price. A robust woman, she hobbled ashore hunched over, barely able to walk. Her face and tongue were swollen, lips blood-red from chapping. Scabs surrounded her mouth. Deep wrinkles showed in her hands from long exposure to water.

But she refused a trip to the hospital and medical treatment. "I'm going to go home and go to sleep for a long time," she said.

Besides the physical punishment from the elements and stings from numerous jellyfish, Miss Taylor endured a psychological pounding from fatigue-induced hallucinations and the ever-present threat of sharks. She swam without a shark cage.

Two divers paddling surfboards flanked her throughout the swim to protect her from sharks. Other attendants stood guard with rifles and "bang sticks" on the lead boat.

Three tunes Monday, Miss Taylor was hauled onto a surfboard or onto the lead boat's dive platform while her aides scared away as many as six sharks at a time. Once, a 10-foot tiger shark approached to within 10 feet of her. Observers on the press boat noted that the jellyfish — once she screamed loudly in pain — and the shark scares visibly unnerved her.

"I won't try this again this way," Miss Taylor croaked Tuesday. "Maybe next time from the Keys to the Bahamas. Maybe someone else could make the swim this way. I couldn't."

Handicapped Bowler Discriminated Against

CINCINNATI (UPI) - A crippled man who had traveled 500 miles to participate in a national bowling tournament was not allowed to bowl as scheduled because tourney officials said his wheelchair would distract other bowlers and disrupt the event.

"The excuse is about at skimpy as you can get," complained William Warren, 29, of St. Charles, Mo.

Warren had pre-registered to bowl Sunday at Cincinnati's Western Bowl in the $47,000 Hoinke Classic, a 38-week tournament that attracts 40,000 entrants from across the country.

But when he showed up, officials refused to let him bowl that day.

"We told him he couldn't bowl at that time because it would be a distraction to other bowlers," said bowling alley manager Erwin C. Hoinke, Jr. "We said we would arrange for him to bowl on a weekday when there aren't as many bowlers, but he apparently wasn't interested."

Asked if he considered the banning of Warren on Sunday as discrimination, Hoinke said, "Not really. I guess it's no different that the city bus pulling up and a man in a wheelchair can't get on. Is it discrimination? I don't know.

"It's also a question of being fair to other bowlers. There's such a thing as bowling etiquette.

Pope John Paul Laid To Rest

By JACK PAYTON

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope John Paul I, the humble bricklayer's son whose smile illuminated the world during his 34-day-reign, today was sent to his final rest in an outdoor funeral Mass in the shadow of St. Peter's Basilica.

Resplendent in their crimson robes, those of the 127 Cardinals already in Rome escorted the plain cypress coffin bearing the body of the late pontiff from the massive basilica.

John Paul's reign was so brief that never as pontiff did he celebrate a mass in the baroque basilica, the largest in Christendom.

John Paul, the Roman Catholic Church's 263rd pontiff, died last Thursday night at the age of 65 of a sudden and massive heart attack while reading in bed.

Tens of thousands of mourners ignored threatening skies and a cold drizzle to pack the immense cobblestone square between Bernini's Doric columns for Pope John Paul's final rites.

Following the practice set by the wishes of the late Pope Paul VI, John Paul's coffin was lifted from the catafalque on which it had lain inside St. Peter's and was placed on a Persian carpet on the stone slab in front of the church.

The Sistine Chapel Choir led the hymn singing during the Latin language mass concelebrated by all cardinals present and read by Cardinal Carlo Confalonieri, 85, the dean of the Sacred College of Cardinals who performed the same services for Paul VI only last Aug. 12.

Dignitaries from 114 nations including Mrs. Lillian Carter, the mother of the U.S. President, sat in special roped off chairs to the left and right of the altar.

Once the funeral mass ended Cardinal Confalonieri read the funeral service itself — intoning a brief homily and sprinkling holy water on the coffin.

Throughout the service police helicopters circled the square and police sharpshooters eyed the crowd from positions along the 151-foot high facade of the basilica. More than 7,000 police were assigned to security.

As the bells of St. Peter's knelled, the coffin was carried back inside the basilica.

Walking down the central nave, accompanied only by the pontiff's immediate family and a half dozen cardinals, the pallbearers moved to the left of the main altar and slipped out the "Door of Death" to reach the grottoes beneath the church.

Down inside the grottoes John Paul's cypress casket was placed in a lead liner weighing 880 pounds. This in turn was placed in a more massive casket of oak.

The coffins were then lowered into a marble sarcophagus and covered with a large stone slab. The tomb was only a few steps away from those of John XXIII and Paul VI, the two pontiffs from whom he took his name.

Cosmonauts In Orbit For Record 111 Days

MOSCOW (UPI) — A Soviet Progress cargo transport roared into space today with 5,000 pounds of supplies for Soyuz 29 cosmonauts Vladimir Kovalenok and Alexander Ivanchenkov, who have been in orbit for a record 111 days.

Informed Soviet sources said Kovalenok and Ivanchenkov, who began their record-breaking mission on June 15, will return to earth later this month after stowing the fresh supplies and mothballing their Salyut 6 space lab.

The official Soviet news agency Tass said Progress 4, carrying a 2¼-ton cargo of fuel and supplies, was launched at 2:09 a.m. (7:09 p.m. EDT Tuesday). If all goes well, the unmanned capsule should dock with the orbiting Salyut 6 space laboratory approximately 48 hours after its launch.

"The Progress 4 spaceship was launched for purposes of bringing fuel for the engines and different cargos to the Salyut 6 station and to further perfect elements of the design of onboard systems and equipment of the automatic transport ship," Tass said.

The cargo capsule was already in orbit, circling the earth every 88.8 minutes with an orbital height ranging from 118.6 miles to 165.2 miles. The Soviet news agency said all systems were functioning normally.

The arrival of the latest Progress capsule will allow Kovalenok and Ivanchenkov, who set a new record for manned spaceflight endurance each minute they remain in orbit, to recharge their Salyut lab's jet and rocket engines and life support systems.

Last month they smashed a 96-day, 10-hour endurance record established in March by two of their Soviet colleagues.

"And now, brethren, let us give in accordance with what we reported on Form 1040."

Goid Tooth Bandit Charged

BALTIMORE (UPI) - A federal grand jury in Baltimore has indicted the "gold tooth bandit" on charges of taking more than $3,000 at gunpoint from a savings and loan association and a Baltimore bank.

U.S. Attorney Russell Baker said Tuesday the grand jury indicted Monroe Wright on charges he stole $2,353 from the Vermont Federal Savings and Loan Association in Baltimore Sept. 20 and $1,023 from the First National Bank of Maryland, August 23.

Police said Wright, who has a gold front tooth with the letter "M" inscribed on it, is suspected of robbing at least seven other financial institutions in Maryland and one in Virginia.

THINK ABOUT CONVERSATION GROUPINGS

Probably nothing is more important when arranging your living room furniture than to make sure it's arranged properly for conversation. Even if you have the most beautiful furniture in the world, if it's not arranged to allow easy conversation between two or more people, you haven't made your home all it could be.

Try to place some chairs and sofas so that people can see each other with a minimum of turning their heads. Conversation is inconvenient if people are lined up in a straight line, and have to crane their necks to see those they're talking to.

Conversation groupings should also have the seating pieces close enough together so people can talk easily. On the other hand, you want to leave enough space between pieces for comfort and movement.

Every living room should have at least one basic conversation grouping; if necessary, you might also want to consider two or more such groupings.

It's helpful for you to have enough tables on which you and your guests can easily place refreshments.

Try to have one conversation grouping more-or-less permanent so you don't always have to move chairs around each time guests come. To see the perfect furniture to help any conversation group, stop in here.

So, please feel free to stop in and see us at your convenience. We're here to serve you.

Knights Of Norwin To Participate In Western Maryland Tournament

The Knights of Norwin, who ranked sixth in the nation among high school marching bands last year, will be in competition in the Western Maryland Tournament of Bands, October 14

The band, from Norwin, Pa., is under the direction of L. J. Hancock and consists of 110 musicians, 41 colorguard members and six majorettes.

This year the Knights have captured 1st place at the Steel Valley Invitational, and have successfully defended their titles at the Latrobe Wildcat Review and the Tri-State Championship in West Liberty, W Va.

The colorguard, now in its eleventh year, is the West Penn Colorguard and VFW State Champions, as well as being in the top ten of the Midwest Colorguard Circuit for the past nine seasons. In addition, the colorguard is a charter member and finalist in the newly formed Winter Guard International Circuit.

The band, from a high school of 2,000 students, will appear in Syracuse, N. Y., Baldwin, Pa. and Hempfield, Pa. as well as in Oakland during October

The Knights' field show features a combination of precision marching, choreographic design, and symphonic-like sound with integrated work by the colorguard and majorettes. The percussion section is a highlight of the show with its utilization of a wide variety of audio and visual techniques and effects which create a percussion ensemble sound within the framework of the entire playing unit

Fabulous . . . that's the view from the Golden Gate. Linking Oakland and San Francisco, the majestic sight of this famous bridge has thrilled the hearts of weary travellers, inspiring all with its promise of new opportunity.

Catching the morning sun or the evening twilight, the Golden Gate whispers its own welcome to those who near its watch. "Welcome to my beautiful city," or "Come again, old friend," it sighs. It seems to know and understand the problems of each human heart, and like a true friend, it is always there for all to share its strength and beauty.

There is another bridge of inspiration and truth where burdens may be lightened and courage renewed. People everywhere have drawn from its stabilizing influence, and you, too, will always be welcome within the fellowship of the Church. Find out for yourself this week.

THE GODS OF 1978

Lesson for October 8, 1978

Background Scripture:
Exodus 20:3-7
Joshua 24:14,15
Matthew 5:33-37; 6:24
Luke 4:8; John 4:24
Devotional Reading:
John 5:19-24

"You shall have no other gods before me" (Exodus 20:3)

These words seem to have a strange and archaic ring to them: "Other gods"? To be sure, we realize that primitive men in some far corners of the world are still polytheists. But the major religions of mankind that account for the vast majority of the world's believers — Christianity, Judaism, Islam, Buddhism and even Hinduism (which to the uninformed appears to be polytheistic) — all these are essentially monotheistic. If the adherents of these faiths disagree, it is not over the question of whether there is one God or many, but what is the most accurate representation of the one God.

Rev. Althouse

A "Jealous God"

The first commandment in Exodus forbidding the worship of "other gods" (20:3) seems, therefore, to have little meaning or relevance for us today. We may not serve God with the devotion he seeks, but neither does he have any competitors in this modern age.

Or does he?

Are there not some subtle gods that contend with the Lord of the universe for our worship and service? Theologian John Bright once wrote:

For that to which a man looks for his ultimate well-being, his salvation no less, and that from which he derives his standards of conduct — that is his god. And we have no lack of them. (THE KINGDOM OF GOD, Abingdon Press, 1953)

If Bright is right — and I am convinced he is — then God still has good reason to be the "jealous" deity depicted for us in the Old Testament.

The God Of Mammon

Nor is this strictly an Old Testament concept. On the Mount of Temptation following his baptism, Jesus cries:

"Begone, Satan; for it is written: 'You shall worship the Lord your God and him only shall you serve.' (Matthew 4:10) Later, in the Sermon on the Mount, Jesus updated the first commandment so that even his nominally monotheistic countrymen could understand its challenge:

No one can serve two masters; for either he will hate the one and love the other, or he will be devoted to the one and despise the other. You cannot serve God and mammon. (6:24)

Baal, the Canaanite god, is long-forgotten, as are Melak and Astarte, but Mammon is still with us! An Arabic word meaning "wealth," Mammon is very much worshipped today for it is to material wealth that many of us look for our ultimate well-being, our salvation "no less" and even our standards of conduct. One does not have to be a theologian to realize that in this year of 1978 there are still "other gods" who vie for the worship and service that belongs to the Lord alone.

CHICKEN POX IS USUALLY A MILD DISEASE

Probably caused by a virus, it generally attacks children between two and six years old. After exposure its incubation period averages 16 days during which time a slight fever, headache or backache may occur. Then comes a series of rashes.

It is important to call a physician. For scratching can cause an erysipelas infection or an abcess. Mouth lesions may affect the larynx. An adult attack can be more serious, so grown-ups should avoid exposure.

POLICY + PERFORMANCE = LEADERSHIP

Talk is cheap. A candidate can hire ad-writers to make his promises look good - but true leadership can only be proven by the test of time. Wayne Hamilton has stood that test.

In his eight years as your County Commissioner, Wayne Hamilton has become known and respected throughout Maryland. This respect was earned because he has built a solid record of performance for a better Garrett County.

As a leader Wayne listens to people. He responds to the views of his fellow citizens and taxpayers, his fellow farmers and business people. He studies the facts, he formulates clear policies, and he works hard to deliver performance. That's leadership that can be proven with examples.

This ad, and others to follow, will list some of the many examples of Wayne's accomplishments.

TAXES

His Policy:

We must continue to reduce the burden of county taxes on our homeowners, our farmers, and our business people. Despite inflation we must persist in controlling the cost of government, but without sacrificing vital services.

His Performance:

Wayne's two terms in office have been a period of relentless inflation. Nevertheless, vigorous cost-control by the Commissioners "held the line" to avoid any increase in the tax rate. In fact, in the past two years, the county tax rate has been cut by 11% - a 28 cent DECREASE! Also, Garrett Countians are eligible for the most generous early-payment tax discount in Maryland.

•For the Farmer —
Wayne supported continuation of the agricultural land assessment law and the tax credit on silos.

•For the Businessman —
Wayne helped eliminate the oppressive county inventory tax.

•For the Elderly —
Wayne supported lowering the eligibility for the circuit-breaker tax to age 60.

•For all Taxpayers
Wayne has worked to change tax laws so that industry pays its fair share of the tax burden.

JOBS

His Policy:

Every Garrett Countian should have the chance for productive employment. We must encourage private enterprise to provide more jobs - to reduce our unemployment, to give our young people a way to remain and raise their families in Garrett. We should not subsidize industry, but we should make Garrett attractive for new, small industries. We must also help our young people be fully prepared and qualified to fill these jobs.

His Performance:

In the past eight years, private sector jobs in Garrett County have increased by 45% - more than 2,000 new jobs! This willingness to invest in the future of Garrett County is a vote of confidence by private enterprise in our progressive, sensible county government.

•Working through the Garrett County Development Corporation, the Tablelands Milk Producers, Inc., was organized to help 125 dairy farmers rescue their livelihood when the Carnation plant closed.

•The Commissioners have moved to make sites available, at no cost in local taxes, for new industry seeking to locate in Garrett.

•Vocational education facilities and programs have been expanded making maximum use of Federal and State resources. Wayne has helped Garrett Community College secure funding for a new vocational center and for unique programs, such as Wildlife Management, that have become a national model.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

The Stemple Ridge Cemetery Association was organized several years ago to clean up and maintain the cemetery. Since that time, through the efforts and generous contributions of many people, we have been able to keep the cemetery in a condition we can all be proud of.

In recent years, the cost of mowing and up-keep has greatly increased and our contributions have not increased accordingly. Therefore, we are asking those who have relatives or friends buried here to help us.

Contributions should be made to the Stemple Ridge Cemetery Association, and mailed to Mrs. Maxine Hauser, Treasurer, Route 1, Aurora, West Virginia 26705.

Anyone wishing to establish a trust or will the Cemetery Association an amount, can do so by naming the Stemple Ridge Association as the benefactor.

Thanking you in advance, I am,

Dechant To Deliver Columbus Address

Virgil C. Dechant, Supreme Knight of the Knights of Columbus, will deliver a special Columbus Day address to be heard over Radio Station WMSG Monday, October 9, at 5:15 p.m. Mr. Dechant, executive head of the more than 1.2 million-member Catholic family fraternal service organization, will speak on "A Time for Courage."

Mr. Dechant's talk is being sponsored by Oakland Knights of Columbus Council 1771. Henry George Gregory is grand knight of Oakland Council.

In commenting on the program, Gregory said, "Four hundred eighty-six years ago, Christopher Columbus completed one of the most daring exploratory sea voyages recorded in the annals of mankind - the discovery of the North American Continent. All Knights of Columbus members join together this week in observing the anniversary of Columbus' epic voyage."

Mills Found Guilty Of More Charges In Cooper Murder

David Bruce Mills, who was convicted of murdering Mrs. Ida Mae Cooper in January, pleaded guilty to additional charges of kidnapping and armed robbery in the case last Tuesday in Mineral County Circuit Court in Keyser, and received another life sentence.

The life sentence given by Judge Donald C. Hott will run consecutively to the murder sentence and had the additional phrase, "with mercy." Another 20-year sentence to run concurrently was given for the armed robbery.

Mills had been found guilty of murdering Mrs. Cooper, who was the wife of Davis Mayor Martin (Red) Cooper, during a trial in July. He was then given a life sentence with no hope of parole.

It was noted that Tuesday's second trial for the kidnapping and armed robbery was conducted in case a high court would reverse the murder conviction. The additional sentences would give a minimum of ten years in prison, but mean nothing unless the murder conviction is overturned.

Testimony in the July murder trial showed that Mills had kidnapped Mrs. Cooper in a plot to spring Fred Hamilton from Tucker County Jail.

Attorney Delroy Harner has filed an appeal for Mills in Circuit Court, but has asked to be relieved of further duties in the case. Tucker County Prosecutor J. Pat Nichols appeared for the state in Tuesday's trial, which had been moved to Keyser because of a change of venue request due to alleged pretrial publicity.

Wye Oak Seedlings Available Now

This year only one thousand Wye Oak seedlings are being offered for sale on a first come, first serve basis by the Maryland Forest Service, Department of Natural Resources.

The seedlings, grown at the Buckingham Forest Tree Nursery at Harmans, Maryland, are from acorns gathered around the Wye Oak, Maryland's state tree. The Wye Oak, located in Wye Mills, Talbot County, Maryland, is the National Champion White Oak. It is about 440 years old, stands 95 feet tall and has a spread of about 165 feet. The trunk measures 50 feet around at its base.

Please print name and address where trees are to be sent. Designate the number of seedlings desired. Order now. These seedlings are in limited supply and great demand.

Elect Ernie Gregg

County Commissioner

This Week on Farming

New Conservative leadership for Garrett County

Garrett County is basically an agricultural community and farming is one of our most important industries. Our county government must be more responsive to the needs of county farmers.

I was born and raised on a farm and was an FFA star farmer. I treasure our land and farming industry and consider them the bedrock of this county. If elected, I mean to see that county government gives our farmers the support they need.

On the Issues

Tax Burden. Increased government spending has been supported by higher and higher assessments. The higher tax burden on farming land makes it harder for farmers to make a decent living. Agricultural land should never be assessed or taxed on any basis other than on its ability to produce crops. Reduced government expenditures will help relieve this burden.

Fair Assessments. I mean to use my position as commissioner to assure that assessments are fair and equitable to all.

Government Control. Farmers need more help, not government interference with their property rights. The Democratic incumbent supported a confiscatory subdivision regulation plan. When farmers and property owners tried to petition it to referendum, the incumbent opposed the right of the people to vote on the proposal. Thus, citizens had to spend thousands of dollars to defeat it. The support for confiscation of property in the Yough Corridor is another example.

Inheritance Tax. These taxes have broken up many family farms. If elected, I will use my influence to further reduce or eliminate this destructive tax on farms.

County Services. The Federal Department of Agriculture has become little more than a food stamp administration. Let's not allow that to happen here. Our County government has increased its welfare budget, but has all but ignored services for the farmer. In the 1978-79 budget, for example, the budget for public welfare, the bulk of which is for food stamp administration, increased from $37,878 to $46,645. During the same period, the budget for the local share of the Agriculture Extension Service actually decreased from $40,227 to $35,976. I would rather spend the money to help the farming industry.

Ernie Gregg

The Gregg campaign is open to everyone. If you have the time to help us, please call 334-2197. Watch these ads each week for a complete discussion of the issues.

A Forum On Public Issues

THE IMPACT OF ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

By Janet C. Wunderlick

Economic development is a major concern in Western Maryland with our high unemployment and high level of poverty. In 1975, Allegany County had 27% of the population living below the poverty level and unemployment during recent years has averaged as much as 16% annually. In Garrett County, 28% of the population were living below the poverty level in 1975 and unemployment has ranged up to 18% of the population.

The attraction of new industry and business is on the minds of community leaders, politicians and citizens. New growth and economic development make most of us think in terms of population increase, a greater money flow, and decreased public assistance programs. A second look at industrial growth and new business brings to mind concerns about the changing landscape, a change in population mix, an increase in demand for other public services and the effect that the growth of these businesses will have on existing business and the existing tax structure.

A still more sophisticated analysis includes a realization that some services will increase and other decrease. Certainly there is a cost to new growth and that cost usually takes the form of expanded need for water and sewer, roads and educational facilities. A question for public policy makers is whether a real savings would be realized in a diminution of less needed services such as unemployment, welfare, food stamps, and medicaid, or if those services would in fact remain at the same level of cost at a time when expanding services increase the tax burden.

An important question, and one to which community officials need to address themselves, is the nature of the financing of economic development and who will ultimately pay for the new services. The ideal situation is that the new industry and new families in the community would bear much of the increase in cost of services, or that those businesses that most benefit from the new growth share in the increased tax burden as opposed to the new expense being borne primarily by the pre-existing community.

The institutional arrangements (revenue sources) used by local government will determine in large part who pays the new taxes. For example, three institutional arrangements are often used to finance the extension of public services such as water and sewer. One of these is to float revenue bonds to raise the money for capital construction. The essence of revenue bonds is that the bonds will be redeemed by revenue collected from the water and sewer authorities.

A second method of financing public service construction is to float tax bonds. These bonds are repaid from the tax receipts of the governmental units.

A third method is to float a bond issue that is also based on taxes, but the taxes are levied only on those to whom the service is provided and not on all taxpayers in the local governmental unit. If a new water system is required to open up a new area for urban development, a special assessment will be made on property of landowners in the new area and the existing residents of the community will not pay for the new services.

If revenue bonds are used to finance the construction of public services, it is reasonable to expect that the existing users will pay part of the cost of extending the services to new customers. If tax bonds are used to finance the extension of a public service system, the cost of the new system is paid for by all the taxpayers in the community. On the other hand, if the special tax assessment is used, the cost of extending the system falls largely upon the users who will benefit from that system.

It is very important to keep in mind the types of revenue sources used to finance services for two reasons. One, the sources of revenue do affect who will pay for the new services, and two, the sources of revenue should not be taken as given by a community which is attempting to reach a decision on whether or not to allow a type of economic development to take place. The community can specify that it will allow the economic development only if the method used to finance the new services is one that will require the new plant and new families to pay for the services or that the segment of the community most benefiting from the new facility will pay.

The impact of economic development on grants received by the local government can be either positive or negative. For example, the local community may have had substantial unemployment before the new plant came in and was, therefore, eligible for certain types of state and federal grants, such as counter cyclical funds. If the new plant reduces unemployment to a level where the community is no longer eligible for these grants, the impact on economic development and revenue is negative, although the sources of revenue are more economically sound. On the other hand, if economic development is sufficient to stimulate the level of economic activity in the region to such an extent that the tax revenue of the community is increased, the community may receive more grants under the federal revenue sharing program.

Going through this list of taxes and making an honest attempt to evaluate the changes in revenue will provide a reasonably good estimate of the impact of economic development on revenues. Even though some of the estimates will be rough, the major reasons for error would be overlooking one of the sources of revenue or failure to identify the people who actually pay the tax.

Landscape changes resulting from economic development can be an asset or a detriment depending on the location, design of plant, and nature of business and industry attracted to the community. Positive improvement in local scenery could result from an increased economic base. New revenues could produce community beautification programs if taxes expand beyond the amount necessary to provide basic services.

Another interesting aspect of economic development is the potential for changing the population mix within the community. A 1977 survey of buying power conducted by S&MM identified that 39.5% of Allegany County had a household buying power of less than $8,000 per year. Only 22% of the households earned $15,000 and over, while 52% of Maryland households and 45% of U.S. households earn more than $15,000. In Garrett County, 43% of households had less than $8,000 while only 22.8% had incomes over $15,000.

Clearly the community could benefit from new jobs at all levels but, in particular, jobs which raise the standard of living for Allegany and Garrett county citizens.

There are many other indirect spin-offs from economic development. An increase in population would be beneficial to Western Maryland because it would allow for a broader range of services, both public and private, to exist within the community. Philosophers since Plato and contemporary urban planners are in remarkable agreement that the optimum population for a city is between 50,000 and 100,000.

America's planned "New Towns" (Columbia, Maryland, and Reston, Virginia) were designed for an average population of 73,000 and similar limits have been set for new communities in Great Britain, China, the Soviet Union, Israel and the Netherlands. So writes Kirkpatrick Sale, a writer specializing in politics and government. He maintains that U.S. law makers have an "unshrinkable obligation" to encourage settlement in smaller cities. Federal urban aid programs should favor smaller cities in the allocation of funds and offer incentives for business investment.

Surveys show that Americans want to live in smaller cities and this fact alone will be most beneficial to Western Maryland in promoting new investment and economic growth. What is important to our community is that the nature of financing, the aesthetic environment and the population, both in size and character, be considered as important factors in determining what kind and how much growth we want.

Janet C. Wunderlick, Community Resource Development Agent for the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service, is preparing a series of articles to inform the public in Western Maryland of various legislation, programs, laws, services and general issues that may, at one time or other, affect the lives of everyone. More detailed information is usually available on request. Ms. Wunderlick may be contacted through the Garrett County Extension office (334-2145) or at her Cumberland office at 11 Prospect Square (724-3320). She visits the Garrett County office at least once a week.

GROOMING YOUR HORSE

Grooming your horse provides a number of benefits besides a good-looking mount. Brushing stimulates circulation, distributes oil from glands under the skin, and maintains muscle tone. It also gives you a chance to get to know your horse a little better. Properly done, a good grooming job takes at least a half hour, and is hard work.

For a novice, the tendency is to start with the back and sides and work down toward the feet. Unfortunately, by the time the feet have been reached, fatigue may have set in and the temptation becomes great to rush to finish the job. This can be a costly error; foot trouble in a horse can be an expensive illness to correct. So begin grooming with the feet while you're fresh.

To start, face your horse, lean your shoulder against his left side, and push against him. The pressure will become a cue for him to pick up his foot. Until he gets the idea, slide your hand down the leg and pull up the hoof. Hold the hoof at the level of your knee and use a pick (a special pointed tool) to dig out all foreign matter until the entire sole becomes visible.

Each hoof should be carefully cleaned so there is no debris to bruise the "frog," the soft undersurface of the hoof. As you work, check for a foul odor or flaking of the frog. These are signs of thrush, a condition that develops after a horse stands in a damp, dirty stall or muddy pasture for a long time. A horse with an undetected case of thrush will rapidly go lame and need veterinary attention.

After you finish the horse's feet, gather together the basic tools you will need for grooming the body: currycomb, dandy brushes, sponges and toweling.

The currycomb is used to loosen and remove dirt from the horse's coat. Start behind the ears at the left side (usually called the "near" side) and move the currycomb against the lay of the hair to bring the dirt to the surface. Progress down the neck and toward the tail until most of the coat is free of dirt.

Pay special attention to areas where riding tack rubs against the skin — behind the ears, the middle back, the middle belly and between the front legs.

For tender areas like the face, rear belly and legs below the knee, a softer brush (the dandy brush) is necessary. A stiff dandy brush can also be used to smooth out the mane and tail.

After you have gone over the entire skin surface with a dandy brush again to remove any soil left behind, spread the skin's natural oil through the hair with a soft clean towel.

Last, wipe around the eyes and nose with a small damp sponge. Use a second sponge to wipe down the dock, or area at the base of the tail.

All this attention to your horse's coat may lead you to discover small cream or yellowish ovals glued to individual hairs on the horse's legs, shoulders or face. These are the eggs of irritating flies known as bots. Left undisturbed, the eggs hatch into small worms or maggots which enter the horse's mouth and migrate down to the stomach. The parasites cause tenderness and sores in the mouth, digestive upsets, and contribute to a dull coat. They can be eliminated by briskly rubbing the area with a cloth dipped in an insecticide approved for use on horses.

If despite all your efforts, your horse appears listless and his coat dull, consult with your veterinarian. A poor general appearance can be an indication of parasites or nutritional problems.

Scott Glotfelty Is One Of Thirteen Chancellor Scholars

Mrs. Ruth Glotfelty and son, Scott, of Bittinger, were among the guests at a dinner and reception September 19, at the home of Chancellor and Mrs. Robert Gluckstern, of the University of Maryland, College Park.

Scott is one of thirteen Chancellor scholars honored by the University in a program which started last year. Chancellor scholarships provide $500 a year for four years to outstanding students.

Also attending the dinner were other Chancellor scholars, parents and sponsors of the various scholarships, along with administrators involved and the selection committee.

Sponsor of Scott's scholarship was Mack Truck Company, Hagerstown. Robert Gorman was the company representative attending the dinner.

Scott was one of 1,200 students nominated from their respective high schools for Chancellor scholarships. He was also awarded a Dresser scholarship, based on results from the National Merit test, and is one of 30 students in the United States to receive a Dresser award. He also won an Elks scholarship and was the outstanding Elks male scholarship winner in the district.

Scott is a 1978 graduate of Northern High School, where he was class valedictorian. He was active in band, managing editor of The Viking newspaper, and a member of student government. He is also active in 4-H and church projects.

CURIOSITY SEEKERS

If you intend to implant a "For Sale by Owner" sign in your front yard, be prepared for the inevitable "CURIOSITY SEEKERS." You'll probably spend more time tramping through the house with curiosity seekers than showing it to firm prospects.

Your "For Sale by Owner" sign leaves you open to all types of people and problems For example, a visitor may present an offer to buy on which he doesn't intend to follow through. You may make plans based on accepting it, only to learn that the "prospect" had no intention of completing the agreement.

A Realtor has the experience to unmask the insincere offer and turn it away before it does any harm. In fact, the presence of a Realtor usually will discharge any attempts of that sort. He will qualify prospects in advance and allow only those who are definitely prospective buyers - not curiosity seekers - to inspect your home.

DNR Sets Waterfowl Hunting Regulations

Maryland's Department of Natural Resources announced this week that migratory waterfowl have begun to arrive in force in the state. Observers have reported large flights of Canada geese settling on both shores of Chesapeake.

Last year's wintering population totalled approximately 504,000, and totals have not been below 435,000 in this decade

The state is divided into two regions — eastern and western. Eastern region (Cecil, Kent, Queen Anne's, Talbot, Caroline, Dorchester, Somerset, Wicomico and Worcester) has an October 20 opening date while the western region (all other parts of the state) has a November 3 opening date. Bag limit is three per day in both regions.

Seasons and limits are as follows. Canada geese, eastern region, October 20-November 24 and December 4 to January — daily limit 3, possession limit 6.

Canada geese, western region, November 3-November 24 and December 4-January 20, daily limit three, possession limit six.

Snow geese November 3-November 24 and December 4-January 20, daily limit two, possession four

Brant season is closed

Maryland will use the point system for ducks, but canvasbacks and redheads may not be taken.

Ducks, coots and mergansers — November 9 through November 24, and December 4 through January 6; Bag limits — when the hunter bags the one duck that puts him at 100 points or over; possession — the maximum number of birds of species and sexes which could have been legally taken in two days

Points and species:

Seventy point ducks — hen mallard, black duck, wood duck, and hooded merganser.

Ten point ducks — blue-winged teal, green-winged teal, pintail, gadwall, shovelers, scaup, mergansers (except hooded), and widgeon.

Twenty-five point ducks — all other ducks which in Maryland would include drake mallard, ring neck duck, common goldeneye, bufflehead, and ruddy duck

Coot have no point value, but the daily bag limit is 15 and the possession limit is 30.

Scaup (special season in the seaduckzone only) November 25-December 2. Daily limit 5; possession limit 10

For those sportsmen who will be hunting waterfowl using raptors (birds of prey) the falconry seasons for waterfowl are as follows

Canada goose (Eastern Shore). October 12-January 26.

Canada goose (Western Shore) October 6-January 20.

Ducks. October 6-January 20.

There is a bag limit of three and a possession limit of six for all permitted nugratory game birds singly or in the aggregate.

All waterfowl hunters in Maryland must purchase a state waterfowl stamp, sign it and affix it to the hunting license. A Federal stamp also is required in Maryland.

Waterfowl hunting is permissible during the prescribed seasons from one-half hour before sunrise until sunset. There is no Sunday hunting

The Electric Light Orchestra, better known as ELO, welcomed thousands of exuberant fans from the tri-state area to Pittsburgh's Civic Arena last Monday evening.

Led by multi-talented Jeff Lynne, the group's music literally charmed the savage beast. Pittsburgh's sell-out concert crowds are generally not well-behaved, but ELO's cello solo by Hugh McDowell, "Flight of the Bumble Bee," and violin solo by Mik Kaminski, "Dance of the Sugar Plum Fairies," lulled the crowd into appreciative submission.

The only disappointment of the evening was the ommission of ELO's "space ship" stage set which highlights their 1978 tour. The sixty-foot aluminum alloy and fiber glass set is transported in eight tractor trailers and requires a 45 member crew to erect. Reminiscent of "Close Encounters," the ship was designed and constructed by Tele-Stage of England at a cost of $300,000.

But who needs spaceships? The only glittering trappings present at the Pittsburgh concert were lasers used to project dazzling designs in the air. Everything else spectacular emitted from the group's instruments.

With faithful renditions from their eighth album, "Out of the Blue," the group's repertoire included, "Standing in the Rain," "Night in the City," "Turn to Stone," "Can't Get It Out Of My Head," "Tightrope," "Telephone Line," "Rockaria," "Strange Magic," "Showdown," "Mr. Blue Sky," "Sweet Talking Woman," "Evil Woman," "Do Ya," "Living Thing," "Ma Beil," and "Roll Over Beethoven."

Unlike other groups, ELO dedicated this concert to the education of its fans. In deference to the group's dislike of having their music branded "Classical rock," it suffices to call it "classy rock." As always, the beloved favorites were performed eloquently and elegantly without the high-jinks others employ to excite their audience.

Pure music is enough and the over-dubbing, layering and expressive vocals gilded the lily admirably.

"Night in the City" — The Electric Light Orchestra, ELO, lit up the Steel City for tri-state fans Monday evening. Their eighth album, "Out of the Blue," had advance sales of $47 million in retail orders before the album had even been released. Pictured above, ELO's members are Mik Kaminski, violin; Hugh McDowell, cello; Richard Tandy, keyboards; Jeff Lynne, lead vocals and lead guitar; Kelly Groucutt, bass and vocals; Melvin Gayle, cello; and Bev Bevan, drums.

"Close Encounter" — The encounter could have been a little closer had ELO used their famous star-ship stage set during the Pittsburgh concert. As it turned out the ship's special effects would have been wasted on the thoroughly enamored audience. It is, however, interesting to note that the sixty-foot ship constructed of aluminum and fiberglass was the $300,000 creation of Tele-Stage of Bury-St. Edmunds, England. The extravagant set is manned by a full crew as lasers are projected through the glass portals producing the ELO logo in full color. The control board is an 80 channel lighting console which surrounds the ship in myriad rings of light. Portable generators produce the necessary 525,000 watts of power and a custom flying sound system of aluminum alloy completes the effect.

Probably the best job benefit I have is the fact that I can usually get into things that others can't (like trouble). Take rock concerts for instance. Even if they are sold out I merely call the group's manager, tell him I'm with the press and I'm home free. Almost.

My favorite group in the whole world is the Electric Light Orchestra which appeared in Pittsburgh Monday evening. When I learned all of the "good" tickets had been sold out, I just knew I'd die if I didn't get into that concert . . . so, I called New York.

"Fine, no problem, we got you covered babe," a recording-executive type assured me over the phone. "Where did you say you're from?"

"Oakland, Maryland," I replied.

"Oh yeah, Oakland, Maryland. (?)"

I received my press-kit in the mail a few days later with a letter telling me to pick up my tickets at the box office the night of the concert. So with high hopes, my friends and I set off for Tinsel Town humming the strains of "Roll-over Beethoven."

The trip up was uneventful and we made it to the Civic Arena in the nick of time. Of course I looked the part — my oldest blue jeans, my newest shirt with a navy blue sweater casually draped over my shoulders, tape recorders, cameras, strobe lights and lenses hanging from every available limb.

And right in front of me a big, sloppy, double-chinned security guard standing next to a large sign — "ABSOLUTELY NO CAMERAS OR RECORDING EQUIPMENT ALLOWED IN THIS ARENA."

"What's happening?" I asked him, (that's rock 'n' roll lingo).

"Grunt," he said pointing to my array of photo equipment.

"Oh, yes . . . . . I'm from Oakland, Maryland, and I'm here to cover the concert for the newspaper.

"Where'd ja say you're from?"

"Oakland, Maryland," I offered.

"Oh yeah, Oakland, Maryland. (?)" Stare.

"Uh," I stammered, "I'll bet you think these are cameras! Well — they aren't. They're Dolby Decibel Detection equipment. You see I have perforated eardrums and if the group gets above 110 decibels this equipment will warn me so I can get out in time.

Stare accompanied by frown.

"Ha, ha, ha," I chortled weakly, "just a little industry joke. You see I'm allowed to have these cameras — I'm with the press and if you'd be so kind as to allow us to get to the box office I'll just pick up my press passes and we'll be on our way."

Mr. Personality led us to the box office.

"High. — I mean Hello, I'm Jim Willis, from Oakland, Maryland, and there should be press passes reserved in my name from ELO's production manager."

"Where did you say you're from?"

"Oakland, Maryland."

"Oh, yeah, — Oakland, Maryland. (?)"

Miss Efficiency hunted everywhere.

"Sorry," she offered, "nothing here with your name on it. Try Gate Two, that's where the group and their guests enter."

"Thanks," I said. With my friends in tow I finally found Gate Two.

I bounced up to the doorman with cameras jingling, looking like the bionic man with a colostomy.

"Good evening," I gasped. "I'm Jim Willis from Oakland, Maryland and I should be on your guest list.

"Where are you from?" he asked.

"Oakland, Maryland."

"Oakland, Maryland. (?) . . . . . nope, sorry."

"Look buddy," I said, "we just drove 2½ hours to see this concert and I would really like to find my press passes."

No response.

About that time I decided to employ my best Woodward and Bernstein investigative reporting technique — lying.

"Sir, do you know who the lead singer of Electric Light Orchestra is?"

"Sure," he countered, "Jeff Lynne."

"Right, — how perceptive of you! And do you notice a certain resemblance between myself and Mr. Lynne?"

"Not the slightest."

"Well, we had different mothers of course, but isn't there something? That certain curl of the lip, a hint of sophistication perhaps? — the hair color? — the moustache?

"Nope . . . . . Look, no tickets, no see concert, capeesh?"

"Ah-hem. Thanks, you've been just wonderful. I hope . . .

"Tickets! You-all get your tickets here!"

"Hey, how many tickets do you have for sale?" I asked.

"Foh."

"Four. Perfect! We just drove all the way from Oakland, Maryland and we can't get into the arena," I explained. "How much do you want for them?"

"Fifty dollars, man."

Gasp, Choke.

"Oh well, here you go. Thanks a lot." I called as we started for the entrance.

"Hey man, where'd you-all say you from?"

"Oakland — Oakland, Maryland."

Yeah man, I can dig it. Oakland, Maryland.(?)"

GCC Receives Two Donations To Briner Scholarship Fund

Donations to the Charles L. Briner Memorial Scholarship at GCC were recently received from Mrs. Frances Hamill Matthews of Oakland, and Ms. Julia R. Hannan of Mt. The scholarship provides for an annual award of $600 to an outstanding business major sophomore. It was initiated during September in memory of the late Charles L. BIG TELESCOPES

Why are bigger telescopes important to astronomers? Telescopes are designed to gather light. The bigger they are the more light they can gather. Astronomers use light to gain information by breaking it into its component parts of the spectrum. By doing this, they can learn about a star's distance, physical properties, and chemical composition. The light from distant stars is so weak that with present telescopes it takes long periods to gather enough information for analysis. Bigger telescopes immensely speed-up this observation process, and also enables astronomers to gather light from more distant stars.

Pension May Cause Benefit Reduction

A new provision of the social security law may have an important effect on the retirement plans of working couples if one of them works in public employment not covered by social security, James E. Robertson, Social Security District Manager in Cumberland, Md., said recently.

Under the old law, the spouse of a person whose work was covered by social security could get a benefit as a husband or wife regardless of his or her pension income from sources other than social security.

Under the new law, the person's social security benefit as a dependent or survivor will be reduced by the amount of any pension he or she receives based on his or her own work in public employment not covered by social security. This work could be for the Federal government or any State or local government.

Under an exception in the law, a governmental pension will not affect a social security dependent or survivor benefit if the person becomes eligible for the pension before December 1982, and at the time the person applies for or becomes entitled to a social security benefit as a dependent or survivor, the person could have qualified for that benefit under the law as it was in 1977.

In January 1977 men had to prove they were actually dependent on their wives to be eligible for benefits as a husband or widower, Mr. Robertson said.

A governmental pension will have no effect on a person's social security benefit based on his or her own work covered by social security.

More information about the effect of governmental pensions on social security benefits can be obtained at the Cumberland Social Security Office, located at 316 Paca Street. The telephone number is 724-0970.

WITH A CHEERY WAVE OF HIS TOPHAT, chimmeysweep Earl H. George, of Swanton, prepares to demonstrate his craft. Mr. George has been involved in chimney cleaning since March of this year, but first became interested in the possibilities of such a business as early as 1955, when he read a magazine article which stated that there were only three sweeps in the United States at that time. This March he saw an advertisement for the August-West cleaning system, which includes a vacuum cleaner, and was in business. He has cleaned approximately 60 chimneys so far, and says knowledge of how flues are built is essential to his work. Cleaning can be done from the roof, or from the inside fo the house. He cautions fireplace users to burn only dry, seasoned wood and to let the fire get really hot for at least five minutes each day to help prevent buildups which cause flue fires. Mr. George plans to add the traditional tuxedo to complete his working costume very soon.

"Stress" Is Topic Of Institute On Medicine, Religion

The 12th annual Institute on Medicine and Religion, sponsored by Memorial Hospital, has been scheduled for Wednesday, November 8, and will be held at the new Thomas B. Finan Hospital Center.

Selected as the topic for this year's program is "Stress: Fighting the Wear and Tear."

The Institute on Medicine and Religion is held annually by Memorial Hospital to bring together members of the medical, religious and related professions for discussions on contemporary human concerns.

Rev. Ralph C. Ciampa, Memorial Hospital chaplain who is serving as general chairman, said an outstanding program has been planned to acquaint a broad range of workers and leaders in the medical and religious communities with an understanding of the role of stress in normal life, in undermining health, and in meeting the demands of the helping professions.

Speakers on the Institute program are Wayne E. Oates, Th.D., professor of psychiatry and behavioral sciences at the School of Medicine, University of Louisville, Ky.; Albert M. Powell Jr., M.D., clinical director of the Finan Center, and Samuel Trychin, Ph. D., director of psychological services at Finan Center.

The Institute will begin at 8:30 a.m. with registration and coffee and donuts, with program introductions scheduled for 9:15.

Dr. Oates will open the morning session at 9:30 with a presentation on "The Creative and Hazardous Aspects of Stress." Following a question-and-answer session and break, he will discuss "The Professional and Personal Management of Stress."

Lunch will be served at noon, then Dr. Powell and Dr. Trychin will present a two-part segment beginning at 1:00 p.m. on "Stress, Some Clinical Aspects."

At the conclusion of the Institute Program, persons attending are invited to tour the Finan Center.

The Institute is accredited for post-graduate certification for physicians and continuing education certification for nurses.

Persons planning to attend may register by calling the office of Chaplain Ciampa at Memorial Hospital, 777-4297.

The registration fee, which includes lunch, is $8.00 per person if received by Wednesday, November 1, or $10.00 payable at the door.

Three Sentenced After Investigation

One man received a three-year suspended sentence and three others received sentences, following presentence investigations, in Circuit Court. Judge Fred A. Thayer presided.

Russell Edward Tasker, Dennett road, Oakland, pleaded guilty of receiving stolen goods, the property of Roy Gregory on Ben DeWitt road in June. Judge Thayer presided at the trial and sentenced Tasker to three years to the Commissioner of Correction. The sentence was suspended and Tasker was placed on supervised probation for three years. He was also fined $250 and court costs. He is also to return the TV set after having made the necessary repairs. The case was transferred from District Court in July.

Michael Lee Kasecamp, James Howard Finzel, and Thomas Edward House, all of Cumberland, had pled guilty of storehouse breaking at the Rt. 40 School in February, at a trial August 7. Judge Thayer then ordered a presentence investigation. Last Wednesday, all three were sentenced to 18 months to the Commissioner of Correction to run consecutively with a sentence imposed in Allegany County the same day. Each is to pay one third of the restitution to the Parole and Probation Department on release from serving the terms.

Heart Association Chapter Seeking CPR Trainees

The American Heart Association-Western Maryland Chapter is seeking clubs and organizations whose members would like to be trained in CPR. CPR (cardiopulmonary-resuscitation) is a combination of mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and external heart compressions. If it is properly done, CPR could save the lives of some victims of heart attack, drowning, suffocation, electrocution and drug overdose, according to Robert H. Longnecker, CPR project coordinator.

Mr. Longnecker said CPR can be learned in one four-hour session. Classes for clubs and organizations can be scheduled on most weekday evenings.

Students in the course will also learn how to recognize the early signs of heart attack and how to prolong their own lives through prudent living.

For more information persons should write to the American Heart Association, 551 North Centre Street, P. O. Box 1114, Cumberland, Maryland 21502 or call 724-4011 any weekday between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Tips On Home Fire Prevention

National Fire Prevention Week is October 8-14. In light of that fact, A-1-O Inc., the world's largest integrated manufacturer of fire-protection equipment, has released the following article on home fire prevention.

Nearly every minute of the day, a fire breaks out in a dwelling somewhere in the United States.

Thousands of fires [illegible] each year as the result of careless smoking, [illegible] faulty heating equipment, and overloaded electrical wiring. Nearly 9,000 lives are lost annually in U. S. fires.

Observance of a few common-sense precautions can greatly reduce the risk of a household fire. To be safe at home, William G. Gilmore, senior vice president of A-T-O Inc., the world's largest integrated manufacturer of fire-protection equipment, recommends that you:

Keep a supply of large, deep-dish ashtrays throughout the home and be sure that all cigarettes are crushed out. When guests leave or before retiring, check each room for burning cigarettes. Most importantly, never smoke in bed.

-Cover all combustible materials such as gasoline, cleaning fluids and paint thinners before storing. Keep them in a safe place. When using volatile materials, be sure there is adequate ventilation to carry away the fumes.

Install a fire extinguisher in the kitchen and on each floor of a multi-level dwelling. Be sure all members of the family know where each extinguisher is located and how to use it. The extinguisher must be filled with the correct chemicals and fully charged at the proper level. Some extinguishers have a pressure gauge that you may have to check periodically, even if they have not been used. But in most models, refilling and recharging is necessary only [illegible] members of the family [illegible] how to use a fire extinguisher, it is suggested that the head of the family demonstrate its operation outdoors after buying it.

Have your heating system and chimney checked before each winter season, and keep oily rags, newspapers and other combustible materials far away from heating equipment and stoves.

- Keep young children out of the kitchen when no adults are around, and keep matches out of their reach.

- Avoid overloading your electrical system. If your electric appliances are slow in warming up, they may be starved for current by overloaded or inadequate wiring. Circuits forced to carry too much current can burn white hot, searing insulation and touching off hidden wall fires which can burn for days, emitting deadly fumes. Be sure your fuses are of the proper amperage. Many electrical fires are caused by overfused fuse boxes.

--Conduct family fire drills periodically so that everyone knows what to do in case of fire and the best routes for evacuating the premises.

Sleep with bedroom doors closed. If you smell smoke and the inside surface of the door is warm to the touch, do not open it. Instead, try to exit by another route or through a window.

Consider installation of fire and smoke alarms [illegible] family [illegible] time to [illegible] blaze.

[illegible] succinctly. If the fire cannot be reported by telephone, turn in an alarm at the nearest fire box. Be sure that all members of the family know where the nearest fire alarm is located.

- Call your local fire department to arrange an appointment for a fire-safety inspection. In many communities this service is provided for residents without charge.

"Fire safety precautions, together with early warning and knowledge of what to do in case of fire, are the best ways to make sure you and your family are safe at home," Mr. Gilmore concluded.

Summer Gasoline Use Up 4.5 Percent motorists in a single month, but it also continues the recent trend of larger than normal increases in the use of gasoline."

The record for gasoline consumption in Maryland for a single month was set in August 1977, when 180,425,979 gallons were used.

Because the months of July and August traditionally have the heaviest gasoline use, it is entirely possible that the summer of 1978 will break records for gasoline consumption and reflect the fastest growth in gasoline use in recent years," Mr. Goldstein said.

Motor vehicle fuel tax revenue also continues to grow at faster than usual rates. Total net revenue from fuel taxes for the months of July and August 1978, which reflect sales made in June and July, amounted to $35,142,903, up 5.98 percent over the $33.4 million collected during the same months of the previous year. A total of $34,663,334 has been distributed to the Transportation Trust Fund administered by the Maryland Department of Transportation. Part of this revenue is redistributed to Maryland subdivisions.

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein announced last week that gasoline use during the months of June and July 1978 exceeded consumption during the same months of 1977 by nearly 15.3 million gallons, or 4.5 percent, pointing toward a possible record gasoline use for the summer of 1978.

Maryland differed slightly from the national picture during the month of July 1978, when oil industry figures show the nation set a record in its demand for gasoline." Comptroller Goldstein said. "The 175,930,257 gallons of gasoline used by motorists in Maryland during July 1978 is the fourth highest amount ever used by

Small Farmers Recommend Solutions To Problems

TWELVE MARYLAND DELEGATES were among farmers from twelve states who attended the Northeastern Regional Small Farms Conference in Maine September 26-28, to discuss major farm problems and recommend needed reforms in government support to small farms. The conference was sponsored by the United States Department of Agriculture, action, and the Community Services Admmistration, three government agencies, and was one of five regional conferences held across the nation. Maryland delegates are, left to right, front row, Ruth Ann Johnson, Mae Custer, Marie LeBark, Vivian Jordan; back row, Philip Perdue, Philip Johnson, Hubert Custer, Pauline Routzahn, Jay Hull, and Alfred Jordan. Absent from the photo are Sam and Alice Beattie, of Caroline County.

Farmers called for zoning guidelines and cooperation and financial support from national, state and local governments in keeping agricultural land available for production and improving soil fertility. These were solutions in answer to problems facing small farms in the Northeast.

The Northeast Regional Small Farms Conference held September 26-28 in Poland Spring, Maine, was the forum for farmers from 12 states to discuss their major problems and recommend needed reforms in government support to small farms.

Attending the conference from Garrett County were Mr. and Mrs. Hubert G. Custer, Deer Park.

The conference was sponsored by three federal agencies, the U. S. Department of Agriculture, ACTION (the volunteer agency which includes Peace Corps and VISTA), and the Community Services Administration, and was the last of five regional conferences held in the United States.

Among major problems identified by the delegates were difficulty in obtaining FmHA loans, increasing production costs, too much influence of big producers on government regulations affecting small producers, discriminatory estate taxes, inability of farmers to compete for agricultural land against more affluent sectors of the economy, and lack of sources of additional on-farm income.

Additional recommendations included increased help from FmHA in obtaining guidance on the types of loans available and speedier processing of loans once they are granted.

In addition to the group discussions delegates met with Federal decision makers and heard three keynote addresses given by Pat Sackrey, the Northeast Regional Coordinator, and Federal agency representatives Mary E. King, Deputy Director for ACTION, and Alex Mercure, USDA Assistant Secretary for Rural Development.

Mercure defined a small farmer as one whose gross income is $40,000 or less. Of the two million farmers in this category, 75% have incomes of $15,000 and work outside the farm, Mercure said. Only a half million small farmers earn their entire primary income from the farm, he added.

Ms. King called farmers the "last of the rugged individualists." Although individualism is a strength, small farmers must have a unified voice in presenting their concerns to government, she said.

The 12 states represented at the conference were Maine, New York, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland and West Virginia.

Nina Bishoff Is Honor Student At Hood College

One hundred thirty-five students received Convocation Honors at ceremonies marking the beginning of the 86th academic year at Hood College. In addition, 72 students were named Hood College Scholars. Among the Scholars is Nina Bishoff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bishoff, Oakland.

Convocation Honors are awarded to students who took at least 24 credits and earned a 3.5 grade point average during the 1977-78 academic year. The grade point average is computed on a 4.0 scale.

Hood College Scholars have achieved Convocation Honors for two consecutive years.

Farmers Responsible For Grain Quality

"We hope Maryland farmers are checking the quality of their stored grain, under the farmer-owned reserve program," Paul A. Crowl, chairman of the Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee, said.

Because the farmers maintain ownership and responsibility of their reserve supplies, they are encouraged to check the grain regularly during the storage period, Crowl noted.

"We will spotcheck the grain and if we observe any problems, we will call them to the owners attention," Crowl said. "However, we emphasize that our inspections should not be relied on as a substitute for the farmer's regular inspections. Anytime farmers are in doubt as to the quality of the grain, they should contact the local ASCS county office at once."

"If farmers need more adequate structures, they also have the opportunity to obtain storage facility loans through ASCS to update or replace the structures, which also includes drying equipment," Crowl said. The loans carry a 7% interest rate and are repayable over an 8-year period if requested by the producer.

Cub Scout Leaders To Hold All-Day Training Session

Cub Scout Leaders from Potomac Council's three districts met at the Keyser Primary Middle School recently to plan an all-day training session called "Pow Wow" to be held at the Keyser Primary Middle School on Saturday, November 4. The "Pow Wow" is the largest training event of the year for Cub Leaders and offers new ideas and information from all parts of the Cub Scout Program.

Mrs. Audrey Liller and Mrs. Erthel Hinkle, both of Fort Ashby, will be serving as coordinators this year. They will be assisted by Mrs. Jane Schwab, Cumberland, who has served for several years on the "Pow Wow" staff.

During the day Cub Leaders will view and exhibit Cub Scout crafts and games representing all the different packs in the council. Six workshops will be conducted by volunteer trainers on the following topics: Pack Committee administration, Cubmasters, Webelos Leaders, Cub Scout Games, Cub Scout Crafts, and Skits.

The noon meal will follow the format of a model Blue and Gold Banquet, similar to the annual dinner each pack holds during February to celebrate the anniversary of Scouting. Potomac Council President David Nuzum, Keyser, will be the guest speaker.

Each of the workshops will be presented twice during the day, giving all leaders the opportunity to become familiar with more than one area of the program. Following the last workshop, members of the Pow Wow staff will present a model pack meeting.

Every Cub Scout pack in Potomac Council has been invited to attend the November event. Any persons interested in learning more about Cub Scouting are welcome. A pre-registration fee of $3.50 will be charged to help defray the cost of the literature and the meal. A limited amount of tickets will be available at the door at $4.00 each. Leaders have been urged to make reservations at least one week in advance.

Schroyer Reunion Slated October 8

The Schroyer Reunion will be held October 8 at Washington Monument State Park, 15 miles from Frederick on Old Route 40. A family picnic lunch is planned at noon. All friends and relatives of descendants of John Wesley Schroyer and Amanda (Sweitzer) Schroyer are invited.

For further information, contact Clayton Resh or Clayton Schroyer, Accident; Wade Schroyer or Bernadine Friend, Friendsville; Willard Schroyer or Inez Metcalf, Loch Lynn.

Assessment Answers

By James Burley

Q. Our home, which we built ourselves after much struggle and sacrifice, is on a corner. We have lived here twenty-seven years.

The local school, a relatively modest facility in the beginning, was conveniently distant from us. Over the years, it expanded until now there are several school buildings, and it has grown into a school complex. The school grounds abut ours at the side rear of our property. On the front street side, there are two houses between us and what has become the school access and egress.

Due to the problems of traffic, noise, trespassing, littering, lights, dust, and pollution that this kind of situation causes, these two homes have deteriorated drastically in recent years. The present owners do not maintain their homes well, and they have also contributed to the problem by their own misuse and abuse of their properties. Their properties are, to put it mildly, unsightly.

We have tried to maintain our home properly, and each year the assessment on it goes up reflecting, we are told, market trends.

We know that property values have risen through inflation and other factors, but we fear the situation in our immediate neighborhood would definitely have a negative affect on the sale of our home were we to decide to sell. We feel this fact should be taken into consideration when our property is assessed.

We look to retirement in a few years, but the shadow of increasing assessments and greater taxes hovers over us, and we fear we may not be able to meet our expenses. Can you advise us? Thanks.

A. The way you have described the situation, you have enough evidence that should be considered in evaluation. One of the purposes of a periodic physical review of property, which is mandated by law, is to enable the assessor to observe and weigh these exceptional influences.

Therefore, contact your assessments office and request that the assessor make an on-site investigation. He should be made aware of and recognize these problems.

No doubt, consideration has been given to depreciation, but obsolescence should be considered just as much as normal depreciation.

The economic obsolescence factor that is external to your property line is apparent through the encroachment of the school environment and the peripheral problems that ensue.

Another factor affecting the value of your property is recognized through what is called the principle of regression which simply means that, whenever there are dissimilar properties of the same general classification and within the same area, the better property will be adversely affected and its market value will fall. The condition of the adjacent and neighboring properties suggests this situation prevails. You should not have to sell your home to prove it.

The market analysis will only tell the assessor that, all conditions being normal, this is what the property should sell for; but an allowance should be given for these detracting factors which are problems that are not inherent to the property. Any competent assessor recognizes this. If, in a court case, the assessor could not prove an acknowledgement of this influence, the assessment, most likely, would not be upheld. The undesirable aspects of the school influence and degenerating condition of your neighbors' properties should entitle you to an appropriate allowance for loss in value after the theoretical market value has been established.

The property tax is not designed to be a punitive tax, and those who keep their property up should not be taxed at full replacement value under these conditions. Good luck in your meeting with your assessor.

Questions or letters of general interest on assessments and the property tax should be addressed to 'Assessment Answers-James Burley' in care of this newspaper. They will be answered through this column to the extent that space allows.

This column was written with the co-operation of the Maryland State Department of Assessments and Taxation.

It was a record-smashing year for Suzuki's GS-1000.

First year bike shatters Pro-stock world records.

It didn't take long for Suzuki's new GS-1000 to become King of the Superbikes.

When it hit the streets, riders and writers raved about it. And when it hit the tracks, racers like Terry Vance set records on it.

Recently, Terry and his RC Engineering GS-1000 blistered the quarter in 9.24 seconds and reached a top speed of 144.92 mph! Both numbers are now IDBA Pro Stock world records.

Yet, it is not the bike's blazing speed that has folks buzzing. Rather, its all-around performance.

For instance, it corners like a factory road racer. Not surprising, with air forks up front. And five load settings plus four damping adjustments in back. Result: the most advanced suspension system around.

Go-power is supplied by the mighty 4-stroke DOHC 4-cylinder mill. And stop-power is provided by big disc brakes front and rear.

In short, the GS-1000 has it all. And that's why it can do it all.

NOTICE

PROPOSED FLOOD ELEVATION DETERMINATIONS FOR THE TOWN OF LOCH LYNN HEIGHTS, GARRETT COUNTY, MARYLAND

AGENCY: Federal Insurance Administration, HUD.

ACTION: Proposed rule.

SUMMARY: Technical information or comments are solicited on the proposed base (100-year) flood elevations listed below for selected locations in the Town of Loch Lynn Heights, Garrett County, Maryland.

These base (100-year) flood elevations are the basis for the flood plain management measures that the community is required to either adopt or show evidence of being already in effect in order to qualify or remain qualified for participation in the National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP).

DATES:

The period for comment will be ninety (90) days following the second publication of this proposed rule in a newspaper of local circulation in the above-named community.

ADDRESSES: Maps and other information showing the detailed outlines of the flood-prone areas and the proposed flood elevations are available for review at the Loch Lynn Heights Town Hall, Loch Lynn Heights, Maryland 21550.

Send comments to: Honorable Charles H. Tressler, Mayor of Loch Lynn Heights, 1610 Route 135, Mountain Lake Park, Maryland 21550.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Mr. Richard Krimm, Assistant Administrator, Office of Flood Insurance, (202) 755-5581 or Toll Free Line (800) 424-8872, Room 5270, 451 Seventh Street, SW, Washington, D.C. 20410.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Federal Insurance Administrator gives notice of the proposed determinations of base (100-year) flood elevations for the Town of Loch Lynn Heights, Garrett County, Maryland in accordance with section 110 of the Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973 (Pub. L. 93-234), 87 Stat. 980, which added section 1363 to the National Flood Insurance Act of 1968 (Title XIII of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 (Pub. L. 90-448)), 42 U.S.C. 2001-4128, and 24 CFR 1917.4(a).

These elevations, together with the flood plain management measures required by Section 1910.3 of the program regulations, are the minimum that are required. They should not be construed to mean the community must change any existing ordinances that are more stringent in their flood plain management requirements. The community may at any time enact stricter requirements on its own, or pursuant to policies established by other Federal, State, or regional entities. The proposed elevations will also be used to calculate the appropriate flood insurance premium rates for new buildings and their contents and for the second layer of insurance on existing buildings and their contents.

The proposed base (100-year) flood elevations for selected locations are: in respective order, Source of Flooding, Location, Elevation in Feet National Geodetic Vertical Datum, Little Youghiogheny River, Upstream Corporate Limits, 2,392; Downstream Corporate Limts, 2,391.

Eagle Marching Band of Francis Scott Key High School

Eagle Marching Band To Compete In Local Field Show Competition

The "Eagle" Marching Band of Francis Scott Key High School, Union Bridge, will be one of the bands to compete in the Western Maryland Tournament of Bands, October 14.

The band, which first entered into competition in the fall of 1977, will participate in field competition for the first time at the Autumn Glory Festival. The band consists of 63 musicians, a band front of 30 and a drum major.

Last fall the band won first place in the Junior-Senior High School Division of the Alsatia Mummer Parade in Hagerstown. A second place was awarded the band in its second competition, the Govans VFW Memorial Day Parade of 1978 in Baltimore.

The director of the band, Susan H. Paxton came to Francis Scott Key in 1976. She received her BS degree in Music Education from Western Maryland College and is presently completing a Master degree in the same from Towson State University. While at Western Maryland College, she was the Director of Halftime Activities and the Band Drum Major for two years. Ms. Paxton taught in the Baltimore County school system until the fall of 1976.

Francis Scott Key is a rural high school located near Union Bridge in northern Carroll County. Near the birthplace of Francis Scott Key, author of our National Anthem, it is surrounded by some seven small communities and is attended by approximately 978 students in grades 9 through 12.

Mr. And Mrs. John Wolf Receive Life Membership In Heart Chapter

Life memberships were granted to three volunteers of the American Heart Association-Western Maryland Chapter at a recent board of directors meeting, according to Dr. Harold J. Cordts, president.

Receiving designation as life members were Mr. and Mrs. John H. Wolf, of Oakland, and G. Louis Speerl Jr., of Cumberland. The new life members join Mrs. Mortimer M. Nebring, elected in 1972, and James W. Bishop, who was named in 1974. All have received the Gold Heart Award for distinguished service to the Heart Association.

Life membership is granted to persons who have given "unselfishly of their time and talent over many years of volunteer activity." The designation grants the right to fully participate and be a voting member of the Heart Association.

Mr. Wolf is a retired personnel and general operations manager for H-P Stores Inc., and is active in school, church and civic affairs. He served as general campaign chairman for Southern Garrett County in 1969 and has maintained a close liaison with Heart Association activities since that time. He is presently serving on the executive committee and is a member of the policy and chapter relations, fund raising, advisory and budget and finance committees.

Mrs. Wolf became a member of the board of directors in 1971 and served as her husband's campaign chairman in 1973. She is a member of the fund raising committee.

The local Heart Association was founded June 26, 1948, by Dr. Samuel M. Jacobson and a group of local service and civic club members. The first officers were Dr. Jacobson, chairman, F. Allan Weatherholt, co-chairman; Mrs. Arthur C. Bright, secretary, and Gilbert Rehbeck, treasurer. The first executive director was Mrs. Betty Kirk, RN, who served from 1948 to 1965. Mrs. Ora Mae Lewis, the present executive director, is completing her 23rd year of service, having been hired November 11, 1955. Dr. Jacobson, president-elect, will assume the office of president again in June, 1979.

The Heart Association has grown to full chapter status and is a member of the American Heart Association-Maryland Affiliate and the American Heart Association.

Festival of Opportunity

Several months of hard work by numerous individuals will culminate this week with four days of festivities. The Autumn Glory Festival has indeed improved over the years and, with the addition of a few new activities this year, perhaps the 1978 festival will be the finest ever.

The Autumn Glory Festival does not just happen. The success of anything depends directly upon the amount of work and planning which goes into it. In fact, the persons responsible for the ground work and most of the decision making, such as members of the promotion council, will begin work in the next month or two for the 1979 festival. It is this planning and organization that makes the difference between a good festival and an uneventful one.

The Autumn Glory Festival does indeed provide an abundance of opportunities, such as, the opportunity to promote our county and to show outsiders that we can truly entertain, the opportunity for many "foreign" dollars to be spent in Garrett County, the opportunity for civic and service organizations to raise money for worthy causes, the opportunity for many people and organizations to work together, forming a common bond and a common goal between them, the opportunity for families to get together and collectively delight in the various activities. The festival gives each and every one of us the opportunity to "get away from it all" and settle down for some real fun.

Autumn Glory offers something for everyone. Our best advice is simply to enjoy.

Barbara Flinn BPW "Woman Of The Year"

Mrs. Barbara Flinn, president of the Garrett County Business and Professional Women's club, will be honored by that group October 17 as its "Woman of the Year" during special festivities to observe National Business Women's Week.

Mrs. Flinn, employed by the Garrett County Board of Education as a Title I resource teacher, has been a BPW member for more than 20 years, serving once before as president. In addition to club and work activities, Mrs. Flinn is a willing worker for St. John's Lutheran Church, Red House, where she and her husband Eugene are members of the choir.

Each year the local Business and Professional Women's club honors women who have distinguished themselves in their careers and communities. Presentation of the award is generally scheduled to coincide with National Business Women's Week the third week in October, to help call attention to the contributions women make in the business world.

Mrs. Flinn and the other 29 state "Women of the Year" will be guests of honor at a banquet at the Washingtonian in Gaithersburg October 21. Miss Mildred Worik is chairman of this year's "Woman of the Year" committee.

Members and their guests are invited to honor Mrs. Flinn at the October 17 meeting of the local club, beginning with dinner at 6:30 p.m. at the Will o' the Wisp.

Public TV To Tape Shows Here During Autumn Festival

"Maryland Weekend" and "In Person," two popular programs broadcast weekly on TV 22, 28, 31, 67 — stations of the Maryland Center for Public Broadcasting — will be in Garrett County this month for the taping of programs that will be aired in November, according to Adele Ennis, producer for the State's public TV system headquartered in Owings Mills, Maryland.

"For 'Maryland Weekend' we're going to record highlights of the Eleventh Annual Autumn Glory Festival, held in Oakland October 12th through the 15th," said Ms. Ennis. "We want to show the rest of the State's citizens how much they're missing in beautiful Garrett County, including the brilliant Fall colors that make our Western Maryland mountains look like a spectacular Joseph's Coat. We'll focus on the major features at the Festival, too, including the Five-String Banjo Competition, the Fiddlers' Championships, the Tournament of Bands, the Antique Show and Sale, and the Autumn Glory Grand Feature Parade."

"In Person," a weekly half-hour interview program hosted by Rick Breiteafeld, executive director of the Maryland Center for Public Broadcasting, will tape two programs on October 16. One guest will be Alta Schrock, Ph. D., the Garrett County biologist and teacher at Frostburg State College who has made significant contributions to the preservation of the heritage of Appalachia. The other guest will be Frederick Augustus Thayer III, former Garrett County State's Attorney (1962-74) and currently associate judge on the Fourth Judicial Circuit Court.

METTIKI MINE DEDICATED — Robert E. Thomas, founder and Chief Executive Officer of MAPCO, pictured left, unveils a dedication plaque at official opening ceremonies of the huge Mettiki coal mine last Thursday. The mine is located between Kempton and Table Rock on the Kempton Road. Assisting Mr. Thomas are three Japanese Steel company executives whose companies will be purchasing most of the coal mined at Mettiki. They are, left to right, S. Tanaka, Executive Vice President of Nippon Steel; K. Toji, representing Kobe Steel; and Y. Hashimoto, of Kanematsu Gosho Steel. When the mine is in full operation in 1980, it will employ 500 persons and have an annual payroll of $12,000,000. (See story on page seven).

State May Approve Changes for Yough Corridor Rules

Emergency regulations which would reduce the Youghiogheny River scenic corridor from 11,000 acres to 8,000 acres and make other changes in land use restrictions may be implemented soon by the state.

Louis N. Phipps, Jr., deputy secretary of the Department of Natural Resources, has asked the Joint Standing Committee on Administrative Executive and Legislative Review to implement the regulations as soon as possible.

Support of the regulations by DNR comes more than a year and a half after the Youghiogheny guidelines were advertised for public hearings. Despite a hearing on the regulations in Garrett County in the summer of 1977, the state has yet to act on the rules.

Changes in the emergency regulations, particularly narrowing the corridor by approximately 3,000 acres, are proposed to make the rules more palatable to property owners along the Youghiogheny.

In a letter to Del. Carter M. Hickman, chairman of the joint legislative committee, Phipps said DNR feels it is imperative to enact the regulations for two reasons.

Although hearings were held some 16 months ago, DNR believes the testimony is still valid.

Some landowners have filed requests for exception to the regulations and it is difficult for DNR to evaluate their requests while proposed revisions are pending.

According to State Sen. Edward J. Mason, the new regulations not only will reduce the corridor size but they will also affect 69 properties, as compared to 112 which would be covered if the corridor remained at 11,000 acres.

One section of the revamped regulations states that the rules will not require plans or approval for:

Placement of signs pursuant to Regulation 16.

Operation of a home professional office and home occupation pursuant to Regulation 017.

Change of interior color and interior configuration of structures.

Routine maintenance, such as painting of structures that does not increase the visibility of the structure from the river.

Minor changes in road alignment or other routine road maintenance activity that does not increase the visibility of the road from the river.

Another section of the rule changes states that land acquired within the scenic corridor before May 26, 1976, which does not meet the development and use specifications of the regulations, such as minimum set-back and lot size requirements, will be treated as a special circumstance under the regulations.

Phipps' letter to Del. Hickman asking that the regulations be approved was sent to the joint legislative committee this past week.

AUTUMN GLORY QUEEN — The 1978 Autumn Glory Queen and her court were presented at Southern High School Sunday. The coronation was performed by Theresa Hinebaugh, last year's queen and the ceremonies were presided over by Cindy Hanks, executive director, Deep Creek Lake Garrett County Promotion Council. The Southern High School choruses entertained throughout the program with selections from the musical, "I Love America," under the direction of Carolyn Lambert-Will. The Autumn Glory Queen and Court are sponsored by the Junior Woman's Civic Club of Oakland. Pictured above, left to right, are flower girl, Marci Stemple; Woman's Civic Club of Oakland. Commissioners Postpone Decision In Railey, Inc. Rezoning Request

The Garrett County Commissioners have agreed to postpone until the end of the month a decision on rezoning land owned by Railey, Inc. along Deep Creek Lake and Route 219.

The commissioners discussed the matter at Monday's meeting with W. Marshall Rickert, county administrator; attorney Jack Turney, Tim Dugan, county planning director, and Railey's attorney Thomas Dabney before deciding to postpone the decision.

Raileys have requested that a portion of their property north of the Route 219 bridge be re-zoned from lake residential to town center. The commissioners have conducted two public hearings on the request, and will continue to evaluate statements made during these hearings prior to making their final decision.

Two weeks ago, Tim Dugan presented the Planning Commission's recommendations regarding the property rezoning, saying that at this time the Planning Commission feels insufficient grounds have been presented to approve the zoning change requested.

Mr. Dabney requested that the Commissioners further evaluate the original conditions leading to the decision in 1975 to classify the land as lake residential, arguing that the original zoning ordinance contained a mistake regarding lake residential classification of the firm's property.

Railey's Inc. wants to permit development of a small shopping complex on the property.

Mr. Dabney also requested that the commissioners defer action until his clients could be present. The Commissioners acceded with the request and will consider the matter for final action October 30.

In other events Monday, the commissioners were notified that the Department of Natural Resources has indicated it will publish a notice of intent in the October 20 Maryland Register, to issue a draft discharge permit for the new Deep Creek Lake sewer system.

Design for the system, which will provide a sewer treatment station for approximately one-fifth of the Deep Creek Lake area, is being prepared for the Garrett County Sanitary Commission by the consulting firm of Hammel, Klepper and Kahl.

Trout Unlimited, a sportsmen's group dedicated to preserving fishing habitat, had expressed concern about the project and its effect on the lake and the Youghiogheny River delaying it for one year, but had made no further remarks about this draft discharge permit prior to the October 9 deadline.

Dick Nace, representing the Garrett County Sanitary Commission, advised the commissioners that the standards of the permit were feasible from an engineering standpoint and met the verbal conditions negotiated at a meeting in Baltimore six weeks ago. Also attending the meeting at that time were Mr. Rickert and Jack Turney.

The Commissioners unanimously voted to endorse the draft permit as presently worded by DNR.

Tim Dugan then presented a memorandum from the Planning Commission outlining amendments to the draft of the Garrett County junkyard ordinance as presented at a public hearing August 28. The August 28 meeting was the second of two held by the commissioners to hear statements concerning the new ordinance.

As a result of the input received from the two hearings, and after the county attorney had reviewed the draft ordinance for legal sufficiency and advised that the ordinance met desirable standards, the commissioners Monday unanimously voted to adopt the ordinance, effective November 6.

Commissioners, Town Officials Decide Terms of Gas Revenue Repayment

The Board of Commissioners met with representatives of county municipalities at Garrett Community College Monday evening to decide ways to repay the towns for revenues which had mistakenly been given to the county by the Department of Transportation.

All towns except Mt. Lake Park were represented at the meeting, and all were agreeable to a plan to repay the monies over a four-year period beginning with the next fiscal year. The county owes the towns $203,658, which would be paid back at approximately $50,000 per year.

The commissioners told the town representatives that they would be able to repay the amounts without loss of services. Currently the county has budgeted $1.2 million anticipated from gasoline tax revenues.

The county owes Accident $7,477; Deer Park $1,144; Friendsville $26,175; Grantsville $32,580; Kitzmiller $13,095; Loch Lynn $7,092; Mt. Lake Park $23,922; and Oakland $98,660.

The proportion of gasoline tax revenue divided between the county and the towns is determined by a DOT computer, which had apparently made an error in 1969 which was not found until the beginning of the fiscal year 1978. Various other counties in the state also must pay funds to municipalities, and in some instances, towns owe the counties, for mis-distributed funds. Cumberland owes Allegany county $11,000.

Gasoline tax revenues are used by the various towns to pay for road maintenance, sidewalk repair, street signs and stop lights.

The Maryland Municipal League and the Maryland Association of Counties are meeting this week to see what alternatives may be worked out on a statewide basis. If no more acceptable solution is forthcoming from these organizations, the county plans to proceed with the four-year, $50,000-a-year plan devised Monday evening.

Firemen Respond To Two Fires Near Deep Creek

Deep Creek firemen were called out Monday to two fires located in residences near Deep Creek Lake.

At 12:17 p.m. Deep Creek and Accident firemen went to the residence of Mark Nichols, a student, on Deep Creek Drive. The fire was caused by an overheated oil stove.

Robert H. Shriner, fire investigator for Garrett and Allegany counties said damage was confined to the attic area. He added that the flue pipe was installed too close to combustible materials.

At 5:11 p.m. a trailer fire was reported on old Route 219, near Deep Creek Lake.

The trailer, owned by Leon Sites and rented to Cheryl Peterson, sustained moderate damage to the kitchen. The fire reportedly started when the oven in the gas stove malfunctioned.

Parking Lot To Use Honor System Of 10¢ An Hour

The Liberty Street parking lot in downtown Oakland will operate on an "honor system" as the result of cooperative efforts by the Oakland Mayor and Town Council and the Downtown Merchants' Association.

The parking lot, formerly the location of Naylors Hardware & Appliance stores, and Mammy's Restaurant, was leased this past Spring by the Mayor and Town Council to provide additional parking in the central business area. Conditions of the lease called for an annual rental equal to the amount of local taxes that would have been paid by the previous owners, and that the parking lot realize revenue for the Town of Oakland.

James R. "Smokey" Stanton, president of the council, stated that one of the frequent suggestions Oakland taxpayers made on a questionnaire was the addition of more parking spaces in the business district. The "Kwik-Park" spaces located throughout the shopping area were the first step in providing easy parking, and the Liberty Street lot in addition to the Municipal parking lot provide much needed spaces for merchants, businessmen and their clients.

Funds for the lot were donated by members of the Downtown Merchants' Association to purchase an automatic gate. However, the cost of such a gate, combined with Oakland's severe winters, made a mechanical gate impractical. Other methods such as meters, gate attendants and a numbering system were considered. These options included problems with snow removal, and maintenance costs, or increased costs due to beating and manpower.

The funds donated by the Oakland Merchants will be used to erect a sign stating that the lot is available for downtown users and customers and will utilize an Honor System of ten cents per hour or a portion thereof, with a maximum of four hours parking. In addition, any remaining funds will be used for improvement to the parking lot such as the installation of a time ticket unt early in the Spring.

Rentals for reserved spaces will continue on a monthly basis for a charge of $15. Persons wishing to rent a space should contact the Town Hall.

The Merchants' Association approved the parking lot system at their regular meeting held last Thursday.

Sir:

During a recent visit to my home town, Oakland, Md., I was shocked to miss a beautiful old landmark that set on the side of a hill. A building that proudly stood for many, many years overlooking the city of Oakland (the Oakland Courthouse).

It is sad to think this beautiful building with its eagle perched atop, that gave the appearance of a protector over the city, "will be no more". The eagle now will be looking over a modern building. A fancy (hotel) jail, housing prisoners, that it was trying to protect the Oakland citizens from.

I have met a few people here in California that got married in Oakland. They mentioned how they will always remember the courthouse and how beautiful it looked standing on the side of the hill.

The people of the United States are constantly fighting to preserve the old landmarks/buildings. I do not understand how a decision could be made to destroy a piece of art like the courthouse. To hide it from view, by adding a modern building to its front.

The party and/or parties that made the decision to destroy the courthouse, also destroyed Oakland. It will never be the same. Here is hoping the parties involved can sleep at night, knowing that the courthouse has been relieved of its post overlooking the city of Oakland.

Dear Sir:

In last week's paper one of the candidates running for County Commissioner ran an ad which has me a little more than perplexed.

He states that he will "use my position as commissioner to assure that assessments are fair and equitable to all." The assessment rate has been set by the State of Maryland at 50% of the property value. The commissioners control the tax rate not the assessment. As a commissioner he will be able to do nothing about the assessment — this is controlled by the State.

Concerning inheritance tax he states "if elected, I will use my influence to further reduce or eliminate this destructive tax on farms." Inheritance tax is controlled by the State and Federal governments. Again, as a commissioner he would have no control over it.

I would like to know does Mr. Gregg think we are uninformed enough to believe that a county commissioner directly influences either of these areas or does he not know who controls assessments and inheritance tax. In either case, I think it would behoove him to "bone up" on the duties and authority of a commissioner and also reassess his thinking concerning the intelligence of the Garrett County voter.

Sincerely,
Not As Ignorant
As Some Think

Dear Sir:

The complete turnabout of Maryland's Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor on the issue of state-facilitated Medicaid funding for abortions was not only more "politics as usual", it was morally reprehensible. Having staked out a firm anti-abortion position only a few days earlier with the statement, "I'm certainly not going to deny my conscience for four years, just because I'm Harry Hughes' lieutenant governor", Samuel Bogley caved in to the pressure placed upon him by the pro-abortionist Hughes and a coterie of militant feminists who had been pressuring Hughes to "silence" Bogley for his anti-abortion views. And once again the strident demands of a vocal minority were met with the firm resolve of the proverbial wet noodle, as Bogley obsequiously agreed to set aside his anti-abortion views for at least the next four years! What courage! What devotion to principle!

In retrospect, however, it is fortunate that these feminists exerted this pressure on Hughes, forcing his pro-abortionist views into the limelight. Otherwise this political parvenue who shot to political stardom almost overnight could still mask as a political moderate. Nor, without it, would we have learned of the crass shallowness of principle embodied in the Hughes-Bogley ticket.

It is now required that Mr. J. Glenn Beall, Hughes' Republican gubernatorial opponent, declare his position forthrightly on this issue, so that Marylanders can know whether he represents a choice or an echo on this truly life or death issue. For when all euphemisms are set aside, abortion is pure unadulterated murder!

Sincerely yours,
Anna Hohl

Dear Sir:

Your editorial of September 27, "Another Rathole" concerning the House Assassinations Committee and unnecessary projects is in line with the Liberty Analysis Committee — U.S.A. Their project, House Joint Resolution #23, is known as the Liberty Amendment. This is more extensive than Proposition 13 in California and extends from New York to California. This is a nation-wide effort, through petitions, to have Congress pass the Amendment.

This amendment will force the Federal Government to eliminate all of its 700 government corporations and Federal Agencies. It will return to the states and the private sector, activities such as HEW, which were unconstitutionally usurped by the Federal Government. It will reduce the cost of government and remove the unconstitutional restrictions on private business. It will repeal the Federal Gift Tax, Federal Inheritance Tax, and Federal Income Tax. It will increase the take-home pay of every wage earner and it will put the Constitution back into full force and effect.

Now, I know there are those who will ask, "How are we going to operate our government if we eliminate the income tax?" This is taken care of in the U.S. Constitution. Read it and study it!

More information on the Liberty Amendment can be found on petitions which have been placed throughout the county. Make an effort to acquaint yourself with this amendment and with your signature help Congress pass on this important piece of legislation. This, in turn, will reduce our Federal Government to a size which we can live with.

Petitions are located at the following places: Grantsville Ford, Buckel's Market, Casselman Motor Co., U & W Cloverfarm, Schlossnagle's Store, Fratz Mart, Matthews Food Store, Walt's General Store, Hawkinson Tread Service, Craig Motor Service, Ahern's Barber Shop, Oakland Auto Parts.

If more information, or more petitions are needed, please call 387-5830.

Respectfully yours,
Charles H. "Skeeter" Bowman

Drug Conviction Brings Five-Year Sentence To Man

A Millersville man received a five-year sentence on a drug conviction, as levied by Judge Fred A. Thayer last week in Circuit Court. Another received a suspended sentence for passing a forged document.

John Jeffrey Hall, Millersville, pleaded guilty of possession with intent to distribute phencylide, a narcotic drug. He was sentenced to the Commissioner of Correction for five years. This sentence is to run concurrently with a sentence he is presently serving as the result of a conviction in Worcester County.

The incident involved, occurred at the intersection of U. S. Routes 50 and 219 last November. Tfc. L. N. Smith M.S.P. investigated a stopped car with the lights on and found the subject passed out at the wheel. Drugs were found in the car when it was searched at the time it was stored for safety. Hall had been released from jail after posting a $20,000 corporate bond, following the arrest.

Curtis Richard Clary, Holley Lane, Mt. Lake Park, received a three-year suspended sentence following a presentence investigation. At an August trial he pleaded not guilty of passing a forged document, public document U. S. Currency. He was found guilty by Judge Thayer and the investigation was ordered. The incident involved the altering a one-dollar bill by pasting "20" over the "one." The bill was passed at Wynlyn's Edge in April. Clary's pleas of "not guilty" of forgery was sustained.

Two Injured In Previous Accidents

Two auto mishaps injured two persons last Tuesday and Wednesday, one near Bloomington and the other near Friendsville.

David Allen Conant, PO Box, Bloomington, was driving east on Maryland 135 just west of Seldom Seen Road about 8:15 a.m. Wednesday. He had started to pass a slow moving truck. In doing so, Conant lost control on the wet road, spun around and struck the embankment and rolled over. He was apparently slightly hurt. Tfc. E. J. Upole investigated.

Just past noon last Tuesday, the driver of the pick-up, one of two vehicles, received slight injury in a mishap about two miles east of Friendsville. Mattzon Miller, RD 2, Accident, in his pick-up, was headed east on the Accident-Bear Creek Road at the same time David D. Uitel, RD 1, Addison (Md.), was westbound in a heavy duty truck. Miller crossed the center line of the road and struck the truck driven by Uitel. The heavy truck then continued on to the right and struck an embankment. The pick-up then went off the road to the left. Tfc. Gary Resh charged Miller with driving while in an intoxicated condition. Both vehicles were considerably damaged.

Two less serious accidents were noted as happening Thursday.

About 10:30 a.m. Gurney E. Rosenberger, RD 2, Frostburg, was northbound on Md. 495 about two miles south of Glendale Road. The driver went off the road to the right and lost control of the vehicle. When he attempted to get back on the road the car crossed the road and ran off the road on the left side and struck a wire fence. He was charged with failing to keep to the right side of the road by Tfc. L. N. Smith.

Another accident occurred on the Accident-Bear Creek Road at County Road No. 341 about 8:40 in the morning. James W. Limnger, Walnut Street, Friendsville, was westbound, rounding a sharp left curve. Rohyn L. Garlitz, RD 1, Salisbury (Md.), failed to yield the right-of-way and the two vehicles collided.

Parking Topic Of Merchants' Meeting

Parking spaces were the chief topic of discussion Tuesday at the meeting of the Downtown Oakland Merchants' Association.

First on the agenda was approval of an honor system, at ten cents per hour, for use at the Liberty Street parking lot. Funds previously donated by the Oakland Merchants will be used to erect a sign stating the lot is available for downtown users and any remaining funds will be used for improvements such as installation of a time ticket unit, possibly early next spring.

The second discussion centered around the proposal to ask the town of Oakland to re-erect parking meters on spaces on the east side of Third Street, from Western Auto to Third Street. Although this is part of the State Highway System, the town retains the right to erect meters at its own discretion.

Mettiki Mine Is Officially Opened In Ceremonies Held Last Thursday

Dedication of the huge Mettiki Mine of MAPCO Inc., of Tulsa, Oklahoma, between Table Rock and Kempton, took place last Thursday, October 5, at 11 a.m., with approximately 500 people attending.

Those present included the mine superintendents, officials of MAPCO, Japanese buyers of the metallurgical coal that will be mined there, railroad and public officials, miners employed in the multi-million dollar complex and their families. Some of those individuals are pictured above. The Southern Highlander Band also performed.

A luncheon, catered by an Oakland restaurant, was served following the ceremony in the eight-story high preparation building. MAPCO president Robert E. Thomas then led those attending on a tour of the facilities.

Mettiki is expected by 1980 to produce 1.8 million tons of coal a year which will be shipped to Nippon and Kobe steelmakers of Japan through the Port of Baltimore via the Western Maryland Railway.

Some coal has been mined to date at Mettiki to test the cleaning plant. On September 21 a trainload of coal was shipped from the plant, with the tipple able to load an 80-ton hopper in only three minutes. The first shipments to Japan are expected to begin later this month.

William P. Colliton — President of Western Maryland Railroad.

The dedication of Mettiki Mine marked the first opening of deep mines in Garrett County in many years. Three years ago another Tulsa energy company, Anchor Coal Company, took leases on mineral rights to 6,000 acres south of Grantsville, but after spending nearly $25,000 on engineering and at various governmental hearings, temporarily dropped the project.

MAPCO will mine the Upper Freeport Seam which runs up to eight feet in thickness. Continuous miners, machines with cutters that move horizontally along the coal face, load coal into shuttle cars, and then move it to the preparation plant where it is cleaned.

Presently, 125 miners are on the payroll, but when full production is reached in 1980 there will be 500 on the payroll. This will create an annual payroll of nearly $12,000,000.

MAPCO has named its mine Mettiki because it will be producing metallurgical coal. This is in keeping with the firm's five Kentucky mines which have names like Dotiki and Martiki. "The legend of the Tiki" is a Polynesian good luck tale, MAPCO said.

Final Plans Made For Road Rally

The Garrett Association for Retarded Citizens has made final plans for its Sunday, October 15, 1978 Autumn Glory Festival Road Rally.

The Rally combines the features of a Fall Sunday drive with the driving and navigational skills required in an auto competition. The Rally route is designed to take the participants past many of Garrett County's natural and historical points of interest.

A Road Rally is a competition to determine which car comes closest to the actual mileage of the route. Each car must have a licensed driver and a navigator. Directions for the route will be in the form of written clues. An entry fee of $5.00 per car will be collected and registration for the Road Rally will be from 10:00 a.m. until 2:00 p.m.

Cars will be started on the Road Rally route from 11:00 a.m. until 2:00 p.m. The Road Rally will end promptly at 6:00 p.m.

Trophies will be awarded to the top three cars that finish the route. In addition, each participant will be presented with a practical souvenir.

If any of the contestants get lost, they may open the sealed envelope that contains the final destination point of the Rally. Automobile and driver safety will be emphasized throughout the Road Rally.

Proceeds from the Rally will be used to pay expenses and finance the Garrett Association for Retarded Citizens activities in promoting the rights of and assisting in providing services for the mentally impaired people in Garrett County.

The trophies for the winners are now on display at Helbig' Sport Shop in Oakland.

Theft Reported For Shock Value

A thief must have had a change of heart, or the items did not fit, according to a report made by a Crellin woman to the Garrett County Sheriff's department.

Mrs. Lillian Jordan, Crellin, reported to deputies that someone had taken shock absorbers from her Dodge Dart during the night of September 27. Mrs. Jordan did not report the theft, however, until October 3. On the evening of the 3rd, she had gone to her door in response to a knock and found, not a visitor, but her missing shock absorbers. She also found several other small items which also apparently had been taken from her property.

Thomas B.
DABNEY, JR.
for State's Attorney

Re—Drug Problems

Dear Fellow Garrett Countians—

Drugs in our schools and community continue to be a problem. Four years ago when I ran as the Democratic candidate for State's Attorney, I promised the voters that, if elected, my top priority as State's Attorney would be to crack down on the sale and distribution of drugs.

Four years ago when I campaigned, the drug issue was one everyone agreed should immediately be dealt with. During the campaigns, I personally talked with parents, teachers, police officers, school officials and civic leaders all over the county.

Little has changed in four years. Our youth continue to be exposed to drugs at school and in the community. Parents and teachers continue to complain, some even in anger, about the total lack of action and concern.

Police officials are also concerned, but they need the cooperation and assistance of the State's Attorney's office. They need the State's Attorney to help coordinate and plan in the enforcement procedures to be used. They know that drug dealers are devious and that drug dealers will use all legal and illegal methods available to avoid detection and arrest.

I renew my promise to you now — the arrest and conviction of drug sellers and distributors will be my number one priority.

Drugs are a danger to you, your family and your neighbors. A vote for me on November 7th will be a vote for vigorous enforcement of the drug laws.

Sincerely,

Thomas B. Dabney, Jr.

Democratic Candidate for State's Attorney

Grantsville School Plans Halloween Social October 27

Grantsville Elementary School is planning its annual Halloween Social Friday, October 27 as a community effort under the direction of the Parent-Teacher Association.

Judging of costumes will take place promptly at 6:30 p.m. in the Grantsville Fire Hall. Trophies will be awarded in four categories: scariest, funniest, prettiest, and most original. Children will be divided into age groups as follows: pre-school; kindergarden and first grade; second and third grade; fourth and fifth grade; and, there will also be a prize given in the adult category this year. Immediately following the judging, a parade will leave the fire hall and proceed to the school.

The social will consist of a white elephant sale, bake sale, spook house, games and prizes. This year there will also be raffle prizes donated by local businesses. Harvest Basket winners will be drawn that evening. The school students will be selling these Harvest Basket tickets prior to the social. There will be tickets on sale at the school that evening for games and refreshments. They will sell seven for $1.00 or 15 cents apiece. All the proceeds from the social go to the Parent-Teacher Association and are used for school improvements.

Community support is encouraged for the success of the Halloween Social, since children in Grantsville do not go door to door trick or treating because of the weather and unsafe conditions such as the lack of street lights. Boxes have been placed in local businesses for contributions for anyone interested.

Huskies Defeated 42-7 By Shade

Galen Kamp raced for his second long kickoff return for a touchdown in as many games, averting a shutout as the Northern High School Huskies endured a 42-7 loss Friday evening at the hands of Shade at Northern. Shad High School is located near Uniontown, Pa.

Northern, swallowing their fifth defeat of the season, were amply defended by Tom VanSickle and Neil Garlock, both of whom registered numerous individual tackles and assisted on others.

Kamp's kickoff return for a touchdown covered 90 yards and it came in the final minutes of the fourth quarter following the visitor's 42nd point.

Shade's John Kolonich scored two touchdowns, on runs from scrimmage of seven yards and one yard. Shade led at halftime by a 23-0 score.

SHADE RUNNING BACK, Dave Tomlinson, crashes through the Northern Huskie defense and across the goal line for one of six Shade touchdowns last Friday night on the Northern field. The Huskies have yet to win a game this season. Also identifiable in the photo are Huskies' Tom VanSickle, #60; Neil Gerkick, #61; and Dave Durst, #74.

NORTHERN HUSKIE, Larry Edgar, #21, looks for running room behind a host of Huskie blockers in last Friday night's contest against the Shade High School Panthers. The visitors proved to be too tough for the Garrett Countians, defeating them 42-7. Also in the photo are Huskies Phil Workman, #12; Ron Keisten, #24; and Galen Kamp, #32.

LET HOUSE CUT TAX BILL
Your home should be, besides your nest of dreams, an income tax saver. From the moment you take title to the day you turn over the key to the next inhabitants, you are endowed with opportunities to minimize your tax bill.
While you own the home, your two major annual deductions are property taxes and the interest on the mortgage. These can be considerable deductions.
Keep in mind that it doesn't matter whether you pay property taxes directly or through an escrow account held by the bank. In either case, you deduct the sum actually paid to the local taxing authority.
Also, using part of your home for business purposes constitutes a deduction for that portion of the home expenses used for the business. It is based on the square footage of space used for business. However, it must be used exclusively for business.

Bowling League For Handicapped Formed Recently

The Appalachian Adult Activities Center has announced the formation of a Handicapped Bowling League. Jodie Bennett of the Appalachian Adult Activities Center stated that the league's formation has been possible due to the cooperation of the local community.

"There have been a number of cases recently reported sighting discrimination with handicapped bowlers. Recently there was a news article in this newspaper stating a case of accused discrimination concerning a handicapped bowler in Cincinnati, Ohio. We are extremely fortunate to have the fine cooperation that we do in the county. Our community has always been open and attentive to the needs of the handicapped." Ms. Bennett said.

The Handicapped Bowling League will consist of six teams which will bowl at Par-Matt Lanes twice monthly.

The team members are as follows: 1. Southern States, consisting of Gary Shafer, Virginia Simon, Dorothy Rounds, Bill Faulkner and Pat Foley; 2. Browning's Foodland, consisting of Ruth Speicher, Ralph Friend, Abbott Stiles, Lyn Dean and Roberta Barnard; 3. Hampshire Storms Over Rams, 27-6

In a 27-6 decision, host Hampshire High rolled over Southern last Friday evening.

Trojan Quarterback, Steve Brock connected with Jeff Cunningham on a pair of touchdown plays and Kirby Smith gained 65 of his 141 yards rushing on a first quarter TD run.

Hampshire overwhelmed the Rams by a 288-152 total offense yard margin. In the game's opening, Kenny Adams scored on a 40-yard run, but the Rams retaliated as Mike Bolding dove from the one to even the tally, 6-6.

Smith then broke loose with a 65-yard spree and in the second quarter, Brock hit Cunningham for a three-yard TD pass play to settle Hampshire in a 20-6 halftime advantage.

The Brock-Cunningham combination was utilized again in the third period to achieve the final scoring play.

Smith gained his 141 yards on 19 totes while Adams tallied 84 yards on 13 carries and Brock was 31 for eight. Steve Haines and Duane Heishman led defense for the victors.

God Created The Redwoods . . .
Dehus Makes Redwood Creations

IT'S NOT DRIFTWOOD — Mike Dehus stores most of his wood in his workshop. This pile of burled Redwood root is used mainly for table bases. Mike stated that all of his wood has been exterminated to prevent insect infestation of a home.

A JUMBO SLAB — Mike says the Redwood root slabs come in small, medium large, extra large, and jumbo sizes. When Mike bought the slabs they were measured from point to point and priced accordingly. This slab measures 7'3" from point to point; Mike estimates it to be 300 years old.

By Beverly J. Sincell

The Redwoods of California — giants in their own right which date back over 130 million years when dinosaurs still roamed the earth — some standing today are 3800 years old, some reach 360 feet in height, the champion stands at 367.8 feet. They hovered over the Indians when they roamed free over the countryside, they watched as the early settlers settled on the land, many fell by the saws of the loggers in the mid to late 1800's.

Near the Russian River in California, the great Redwood Forests were cleared at the turn of the century to make way for vineyards. The roots, considered useless debris, were hauled to a deserted stretch of seacoast where craftsmen found them 100 years later. These craftsmen found a value in the wood — using their skills and creativity they used the wood to make various items such as clocks, wall sculptures and cocktail tables. Mike Dehus, of Oakland, is one such craftsman.

Mike, a native of Uniontown, Pa., was first introduced to the handcrafted Redwood furnishings three years ago but did not develop an interest in the craft as a profession until later. He and his wife, Oakland-born Jan (Jones) Dehus, bought pieces of the wood to refinish for themselves making a coffee table and clock. This past April, after many requests from friends to build similar pieces, Mike and Jan launched into the business of building furniture from Redwood and opened Redwood Expressions, their shop located at the Bottling Plant in Oakland.

Woodworking was nothing new to Mike now 24 years old who came from a line of woodworkers. His grandfather was a craftsman in making cabinets and did intricate wood work for church pieces. His father continued the tradition by working with wood as a hobby. "I learned the basics from them," Mike said. He went to Philadelphia for two weeks to study some of the specialized techniques needed in his craft used at a company that builds Redwood pieces. Philadelphia is also the eastern center for Redwood shipped from California and where Mike buys his wood.

In his workshop, located behind his house on Oak Street, Mike begins the process of creating a piece which will take approximately two weeks to complete. "You can put in around 100 man hours for one large table," he said.

Mike starts with the unfinished cut pieces of wood which he may cut down further, depending on his intended use for the wood. After planing the wood, he uses a specialized process of sand blasting to completely sand the edges of the wood. Next comes a series of eight different types of sanding followed by handrubbing six to ten coats of Urethane into the wood. For the finishing touches, as Mike described it, he waxes "the piece with the finest imported pastewax, giving it a lustrous finish, resistant to alcohol and water.

Mike enhances the natural wood in every way possible, even to preserving natural cracks in the wood. He inserts a butterfly-shaped piece of metal on the underside of the crack to prevent it from further cracking.

In constructing a table, Mike works to complement the base with the tabletop, which sometimes means taking pieces of the burled root and cutting away or adding to it to shape it to the top. He uses an epoxy to seal the base to the top, which Mike calls "rat seal" and guarantees will always hold secure.

Mike's finished product is not to be confused with many redwood items found in furniture stores that are thickly coated with plastic resin. "My main objective is to offer high quality furniture made specially to suit each individual's needs and tastes," said Mike.

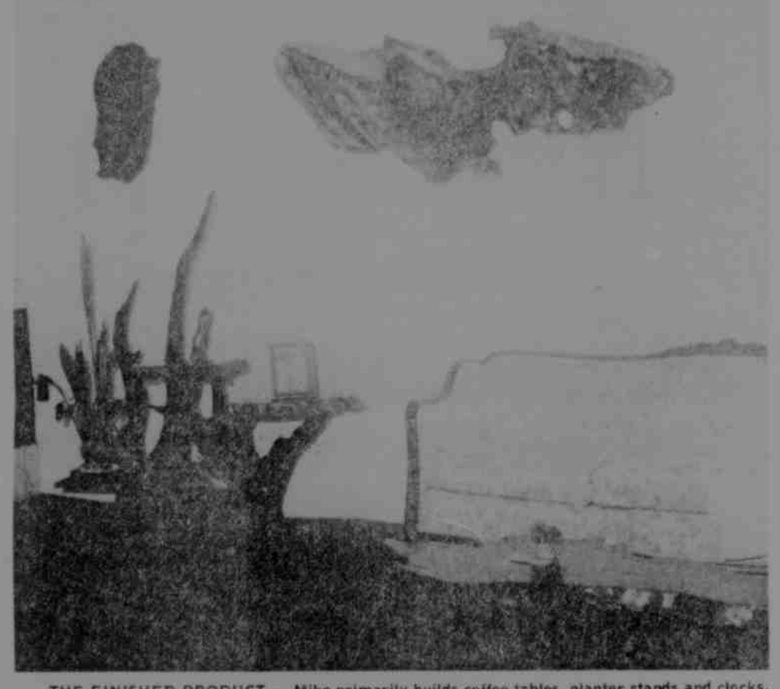
Mike concentrates on making tables, planter stands and clocks, but he says there is no limit to what he can make. "Just use your imagination," he said.

The burled redwood root Mike uses has a special beauty because of the one hundred years of exposure to ocean spray. "The chemicals from the water," Mike explained, "produced a unique range of colors — from blonde to touches of deep purple — in the wood. The surface of the burled roots, which may be 20 feet in diameter and weigh several tons, is dirty grey. But laterally slicing the roots reveals swirling elemental forms and the different colors, which are brought out and enhanced by sanding and finishing."

Although Mike works mainly with the burled root of the redwood trees, he also uses three kinds of walnut — English, French and Black — and one of the rarest hardwoods in the United States, myrtle wood. But his supply does not end there, he also can use India Rosewood, imported from India, Buck-eye Burl and, well, about any type of wood available.

Subscribe to The Republican

AND NOW, THE NEXT STEP — After planing the slab of wood, Mike begins the process of sanding. By sanding it eight times with eight different grades of sandpaper Mike ultimately exposes the grain and coloring in the centuries-old wood.



THE FINISHED PRODUCT — Mike primarily builds coffee tables, planter stands and clocks, although he says he is not limited to these.

A CENTURIES-OLD CLOCK — At least the wood is. Mike built this clock out of black Redwood. The wood turned black as a result of being burned in a forest fire and then exposed to ocean spray for one hundred years. Holding the clock is Mike's wife, Jan Dehus, a native of Mt. Lake Park.

Fire Prevention Association Gives Rules For Coal, Wood Stove Users

As a result of the energy shortage, many people are using or seeking alternative sources of energy. In some cases their purpose is two-fold: to provide supplementary heat to offset the scarcity of the fuel they normally use, and to provide for standby heat during an emergency, such as a power outage in an ice storm.

Since the fuel crisis includes a shortage of fuel oil and kerosene, many people are turning to coal and wood burning stoves and fireplaces as alternate sources of heat.

Unfortunately, very few people know how to select, install, operate and maintain solid fuel heating equipment. Safety depends on knowing all of those things, and safety is of the utmost importance, according to the National Fire Protection Association. In an attempt to eliminate potential losses from the misuse of coal and wood fuels, The Republican is cooperating with the state fire marshal's office in presenting information on the selection, installation, use and maintenance of coal and wood burning equipment as well as their chimney connectors (stove pipes) and chimneys. In addition, specific fire hazards associated with solid fuel burning equipment will be reviewed.

This week's article reviews selection of equipment.

SELECTION OF EQUIPMENT

Many homes already have fireplaces; thus the question of what to use as an alternate heat source in those instances can be easily answered. (Tests made by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Agricultural Chemistry and Engineering, indicate, however, that an ordinary fireplace is only about one-third as efficient as a good stove).

But in the absence of a fireplace the homeowner must turn to some other heating device for backup warmth. Unfortunately, there may be little to choose from, since the fuel shortage has caused a "run" on the available supply of solid fuel stoves. Therefore, unless a prospective purchaser is willing to wait several months, his selection of equipment will be severely limited.

Nevertheless, there are several factors that affect safety and that should therefore be considered in the selection of an alternative heating source. These are:

1. the condition of an existing fireplace and its chimney;
2. the condition of an available stove;
3. the available means for venting; and
4. whether coal or wood is to be used as fuel.

EXISTING FIREPLACE AND CHIMNEY

Some fireplaces are merely for "show" as part of the decor; they may or may not have a chimney flue. Naturally, a false "fireplace" which has no chimney flue must not be used, unvented toxic products of combustion are deadly. The same thing is true, of course, though less obvious to many householders, regarding unvented solid fuel grills, etc. But even a real fireplace that has never been used, together with its chimney, should be thoroughly inspected for compliance with Chimneys, Fireplaces and Vents (NFPA No. 211 — 1972). Unfortunately, chimneys with walls too thin and without flue linings or without proper clearances from combustible structural members of the building have been built in many areas.

If the fireplace has been previously used, it and its chimney should be inspected before being reactivated to see that the chimney is clean; that the damper is in working order (if there is a damper — some chimneys have been built without a damper); that the chimney, fireplace, and hearth are in good repair (there may be loose mortar, etc.); and that no alteration to the structure has been made in the immediate vicinity of the fireplace, such as partition changes, the addition of cabinets or bookcases, and similar alterations that will affect heat transfer from the fireplace to combustible materials. The fireplace must have a tight fitting screen to prevent sparks and hot coals from popping out.

STOVES

A used stove should be checked for cracks or other defects that may require repairs with stove cement, as well as for more obvious defects, such as faulty legs, hinges, draft louvers, etc. If there are severe cracks, they should be welded by an expert; or, preferably, a stove in better repair should be sought. If the stove is for use with coal, it must have grates in good repair.

A new stove should be made of sturdy, suitable materials, such as cast iron, and preferably purchased from a reliable dealer that has stove experts on his staff. Several types of stoves are illustrated in Figures 1 through 3. They are made in various sizes.

FLUES AND CHIMNEY CONNECTORS

Venting must be provided for the stove selected. Maybe an existing chimney with a blocked off flue entrance is available. Otherwise, a complete chimney in addition to a chimney connector will be needed.

TYPE OF FUEL

Although fireplaces and stoves can usually be adjusted or altered to burn either coal or wood, the stove selected must either be suitable or altered so that it will be suitable for the fuel to be used. For example a stove and chimney connector equipped to burn coal may need a heavier flue lining if used to burn wood; and a fireplace or stove must be equipped with grates if coal is to be burned. (A wood burning fireplace usually has andirons).

Next Week:
Installation (Part I)

Firemen Will Inspect Heating Systems During Annual Fire Prevention Week

During the fall and winter seasons, area residents will be putting into use their furnaces and wood and coal burning stoves. As this is National Fire Prevention Week, members of the Oakland and Deer Park Volunteer fire departments are urging all residents to check their heating equipment to be sure it is in proper working order and will operate in a safe manner.

During fire prevention week, residents in the Oakland and Deer Park running areas are urged to have firemen to give free inspections of their heating equipment. Inspections may be arranged by calling 334-9402.

The local firemen suggest home owners check filters in their furnaces regularly, and clean and replace dirty filters as needed.

Those with wood and coal heaters are asked to make sure flues are effective, properly vented and the flue pipe placed away from combustible materials. Only seasoned wood should be used, and flues cleaned at least twice a season to make sure residue does not build up inside.

Additional suggestions to help prevent home fires as listed by the firemen and the National Fire Prevention Association, include:

Defective electrical wiring and appliances account for 36 per cent of residential fires. Installing or extending home wiring is not a do-it-yourself job. Call in a qualified electrician.

Have a family escape plan which includes a pre-arranged meeting place outside the house. Many parents have died in fires as a result of rushing back into a fire after a missing child. The child, in the meantime, may have been safely outdoors on the other side of the house.

Nearly half of all residential fires begin as a result of cooking accidents. Grease should always be cleaned from the range. Curtains should not be near enough to the range to blow into or near the flame. Dishcloths, potholders and other flammable materials should not be placed carelessly near a flame.

Leave a door or window slightly open when using a portable gas or oil heater. This allows the oxygen it uses to be replaced. Do not leave the heater burning during the night.

Do not clean clothing with benzine or gasoline. It's better to spend a little money at the local cleaner than risk losing your home in a fire.

Never use kerosene or other flammable liquids to start a fire in a furnace, fireplace, or wood burning stove.

Do not use your basement, closets and attic as a storage spot for newspapers, old furniture and other trash which may easily catch fire.

Helga Caruthers Is New Citizen

There is at least one Garrett County resident who does not take citizenship for granted — in fact, she worked and studied for over a year to become a bona fide citizen.

Mrs. Helga Caruthers, from the Table Rock area, was among the 873 men, women and children from 77 countries who participated in a naturalization ceremony in Baltimore Civic Center September 14. Helga (Felsch) Caruthers is a native of West Germany, and moved to the U. S. eleven years ago on October 7 with her husband David, a native of Pennyslvania.

The couple's two daughters, Patricia, 10, and Susan, 9, both are students at Red House School. They received special permission from their principal to attend the ceremonies for the new citizens in Baltimore, to watch their mother take the oath of allegiance.

The September naturalization ceremony was the largest ever held in Baltimore, and, according to Bruce M. Barrett, attorney for the Immigration and Naturalization Service, was one of the largest classes ever in this country.

Sen. Charles McC. Mathias, Jr. (R., Md.) was the guest speaker for the ceremonies and repeated the famous words of President John F. Kennedy, "Ask not what your country can do for you, ask rather what you can do for your country." Joseph H. Young, of the U. S. District Court in Baltimore, was the presiding judge. Since the number of new citizens was so large, court clerks passed out the citizenship certificates rather than individuals receiving them from the judge on the stage.

Mrs. Caruthers, after studying the necessary laws and history, the Constitution and the Bill of Rights, took the exanunation April 11, and was told that day that she had passed. The ceremony in September was simply the crowning touch to her achievement.

Mrs. Caruthers said her decision to become a citizen grew gradually over the past eleven years, as she learned more about the United States and grew to like this country very much. Her chief feeling after being told she had passed the citizenship exam was one of accomplishment, as though she had drawn a final line under something she had worked for years to complete.

The Caruthers family enjoys outdoor activities and both senior Caruthers are enthusiastic scuba divers. She is secretary of the recently-formed Deep Creek Scuba Diving Club. They raise German shepherds as a hobby, and also enjoy camping. The family attends St. Peter's Catholic Church, Oakland. Mr. Caruthers is employed at Vepco's Mt. Storm facility.

The new citizen registered to vote for the first time October 5, escorted by her good friend Brenda Butscher, enacting one of her first duties as a citizen. She refused to divulge, however, just whether she had joined the Republican or Democrat political ranks.

Helga made her first visit to her homeland, where her father and brother still live, in June of this year. She said that she enjoyed the visit, but that it had made her realize the rightness of her decision to become a citizen and stated she had no doubts left after her visit. "Home is where the heart is, and my heart is here," she declared with a big, proud smile.

Spot Checks Reveal Area Businesses Have Illegal Wares

Spot checks of several Oakland area stores by the state fire marshal's office have revealed that stores were offering for sale appliances which do not comply with the electrical consumer products law which went into effect July 1, 1973.

The law provides that anyone who knowingly or willingly violates the provisions is guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined no more than $5,000.

The term electrical consumer product includes all electrical products which are not part of the pernnanent wiring of the structure, including such equipment as extension cords, heat tapes, lamps, kitchen appliances, Christmas tree lights and ornaments, hair dryers, makeup mirrors, and typewriters.

Storeowners with appliances which do not comply with the law were asked to remove the items from their shelves, and the fire marshal's office will continue to make checks to make sure the items do not reappear.

The consumer products law requires that all electrical consumer products be labeled, marked or stamped with the symbol of a certified testing laboratory in order to be sold or distributed in the state.

Among the laboratories which have been granted provisional certification for testing and labeling are Applied Research Laboratories of Florida, Inc.; American Gas Association, Canadian Gas Association; City of Los Angeles Electrical Testing Laboratory; Electrical Testing Laboratories, Inc.; Factory Mutual System, Maryland Electrical Testing Co., Inc.; Underwriter's Laboratories, Inc.; and Underwriters' Laboratories of Canada.

The local affiliate of the American Diabetes Association will sponsor a free diabetes detection clinic on November 4 at Gregg's Pharmacy from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. The program is in conjunction with National Diabetes Month activities which the national organization sponsors throughout November.

The National Commission on Diabetes warns:

—Diabetes, with its complications, is now recognized as the third leading cause of death in the U. S. It claims over 300,000 lives annually.

—Approximately 10 million Americans now have diabetes and the incidence is increasing rapidly.

—On the average, diabetes decreases life expectancy by approximately one-third.

—Diabetes is a family of diseases which has an impact on virtually all systems of the human body.

—Diabetes is now the leading cause of new cases of blindness (diabetics are 25 times more prone to blindness than nondiabetics.

—People with diabetes are 17 times more prone to kidney disease, over five times more prone to gangrene (often leading to amputation) and twice as prone to heart disease and stroke.

—Diabetes lessens the chance of a successful pregnancy and increases the frequency of birth defects and death of the newborn.

—The economic toll of diabetes — excluding its complication — is estimated to be $5.3 billion annually.

The American Diabetes Association provides information on the two types of diabetes, the juvenile-onset and the maturity-onset. The society also reports that although anyone may develop diabetes, it occurs most often among: people who are overweight; people with diabetic relatives; people over thirty-five; and women may be more likely than men to have diabetes.

Milk Producers To Receive 80 Percent of Parity

Manufacturing grade milk produced during the 1979 marketing year will be supported at 80 percent of parity, according to Paul A. Crowl, Chairperson of the Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee.

Milk must be supported between 80 and 90 percent of parity, by law, to reflect changes in the cost of production, assure an adequate supply, and to assure dairy farmers an income that will help them maintain adequate production.

Crowl said the exact support price and the purchase prices will be released very soon since USDA's agricultural prices report was released September 29. "The support price could be either $9.57 per hundredweight for milk with a fat content of 3.5 percent, compared to the present $9.21." For milk of U. S. average test, the support will be either $9.73 or $9.80, which compares with the present $9.43 support.

Under the Dairy Price Support Program, the government buys butter, cheese and nonfat dry milk to enable manufacturing plants, on the average, to pay producers at least the support price for their milk.

Two officers of the First National Bank of Oakland graduated from the 1978 National Installment Credit School in September. The school is sponsored by the Installment Lending Division of the American Bankers Association (ABA).

Dennis L. Sanders, Assistant Cashier and Manager Installment Loan Department, and Clay Bosley, Assistant Cashier and Manager of the Mid-Towns Plaza Office, were among 275 bank officers to graduate from the two-week resident session at the University of Oklahoma. The school utilized lectures, casework and seminar discussions to educate new and experienced bank employees in consumer lending. The faculty comprised banking officials, businessmen, attorneys, government officials and academicians.

Mr. Sanders has been with First National Bank for over 11 years. He has completed eight college courses relating to banking through the American Institute of Banking. He and his wife reside on Broad Ford Road, Oakland.

Mr. Bosley has been with First National Bank for seven years and has completed five college courses in banking through the American Institute of Banking, and the Dale Carnegie Course in Human Relations. He is married and the father of four children. The family resides in the White Rock section near Friendsville.

ABA statistics show that bank installment lending departments currently are providing more than $80 billion of the total $163 billion outstanding in individual consumer credit.

Influenza Vaccine Recommended For High-Risk Groups

Dr. Neil Solomon, Secretary of Health and Mental Hygiene, announced last week that the recommended influenza vaccine for the protection of Maryland's high risk population this year will be a three-in-one shot offering seasonal immunity against Type A Russian, Type A Texas and Type B Hong King influenzas. These three flu strains are considered to be the major influenza threats this coming season.

High risk individuals are all persons more than 65 years of age, persons of any age having chronic heart, lung, or renal diseases; those persons who are under treatment for metabolic disorders such as diabetes; and, certain persons under a drug therapy that weakens their immunity to disease.

The vaccine was developed under the guidance of the Advisory Committee of Immunization Practices of the U. S. Public Health Services and will be offered to high risk individuals in specially scheduled public clinics in some counties to be announced by local health departments. The vaccine will also be available from private physicians. The public should check their local health departments for arrangements in their area.

Under the federal grant to Maryland, funds are available to help support the staffing of a limited number of flu clinics for high risk groups, the purchase of vaccine for distribution to clinics and participating private physicians. Private physicians will be given free vaccine provided they charge only for their services and not the vaccine.

Influenza is a viral disease of the respiratory system that is frequently associated with deaths in excess of the number normally expected in the high risk population.

Democrat Candidates Map Campaigns

Several of Maryland's Democratic candidates for office met with the Garrett County Democrat Central Committee Thursday evening at Starlite Restaurant to make plans for this year's election campaigns.

Attending were Louis Goldstein, Comptroller; Ashley Reed, representing Steve Sachs, candidate for Attorney General; Sen. Victor Cushwa, representing Harry Hughes, candidate for Governor; Phil Carolan, candidate for state senator; Col. R. C. Browning, Delegate candidate; Frank Finch, Register of Wills candidate; three county commissioner candidates, Wayne Hamilton, Earl Opel and David Beard; and Tom Dabney, state's attorney candidate.

Plans for staffing the Democrat State Central Committee headquarters at 225 E. Alder Street were discussed, as well as plans to recruit persons who would help in introducing candidates to persons in the Garrett County communities.

Motto of the group is "If the voters in Garrett County will give four weeks of hard work to electing good government people, these people will give four years of hard work to serve their constituents." This importance of local participation was stressed, as the only effective means of permitting candidates to be concerned with the whole electorate, rather than special interest groups.

Central committee members present were Jonas McKenzie, George Brady, Arthur Coddington, Ellis Cogley and Clint Englander, chairman.

"You don't have to be a company to get Blue Cross and Blue Shield's low-cost group rates."

"The availability of group Blue Cross and Blue Shield coverage is one of the advantages of being a member of our Farm Bureau."

The Worcester County Farm Bureau offers a lot of services to its members, and Secretary-Treasurer Joanne Mariner feels that Blue Cross and Blue Shield coverage is one of the important ones. That's because it's not always easy, particularly in more rural areas, to get protection against the cost of hospital and medical expenses at reasonable prices.

But Blue Cross and Blue Shield provide a viable way to get that coverage, even for independent farmers and the businessmen serving them. Through the Farm Bureau, they get good protection and save money, too. More than 11,000 farmers and farm suppliers across Maryland receive Blue Cross and Blue Shield protection as members of their local farm bureaus.

"They just feel like it's an old friend."

"We have other health care coverage programs available, but most of our members choose Blue Cross and Blue Shield." In Mrs. Mariner's words, "The biggest selling point of Blue Cross and Blue Shield is the reception it gets when you enter the member hospital. You don't have hassles with records or reports. You don't have to pay the money out of your pocket. I think that's their strongest asset. We just feel like it's an old friend."

"When we began to get a feeling that our people wanted more coverage, we decided it was time to ask them."

Joanne Mariner
Secretary/Treasurer
Worcester County
Farm Bureau

The Worcester County Farm Bureau has kept its coverage up with the times, giving its members the additional protection of an improved basic Blue Cross and Blue Shield plan plus the option of Major Medical for catastrophic illnesses. Although the Bureau is governed by a board of 16 members, the total membership was polled prior to each major change in their coverage and near unanimous agreement was obtained. Today, their modern plan gives up-to-date security to more than 1,200 members throughout the county.

"A real plus for us in this particular area is those two employees over in Salisbury."

The Better To See You

When Grandma wants to get a good look at you, she takes off her glasses. She needs them for reading and for needlepoint, but not for distance. Her sister, however, wears glasses for distance, but takes them off when she reads or sews.

Our physical vision spells out the way we see, yet it is our mental vision that determines the way we look at things. We form opinions, we judge according to our background, education, experience, the way we were taught when we were young. Like our eyesight, the way we think becomes a part of us.

Sometimes we are wrong. Sometimes we judge too quickly. In our humanness we need help, guidance, particularly when the going gets tough.

The Church, remember, is there for all times — good and bad. Have you visited it recently?

JUST SHORT OF MURDER

Lesson for October 15, 1978

Background Scripture:
Exodus 20:13;
Matthew 5:21-24;
Romans 13:7-14;
1 John 3:9-15.
Devotional Reading:
John 10:7-15.

It is probably safe for me to assume that no one reading this column has ever been guilty of murder. So, it would seem that we might justifiably skip over the commandment, "you shall not kill."

Rev. Althouse

Right? Wrong? But don't feel too badly, for that's what many of Jesus' contemporaries — thought too — that is, until Jesus helped them to view this commandment in a new light.

But I Say To You...

The trouble started when Jesus began to interpret the Ten Commandments in terms of what he held to be God's intention.

You have heard that it was said to the men of old, "You shall not kill, and whoever kills shall be liable to judgement," but I say to you that everyone who is angry with his brother shall be liable to judgement. (Matthew 5:21,22)

In its original form the commandment did not touch lots of people. They had never murdered anyone and they were not likely to do so. But as Jesus reinterpreted the original meaning of this commandment hardly anyone could escape its judgement. Who has not been angry with a brother or insulted him or shouted, "you fool!"

If anyone thought that perhaps they had not understood Jesus correctly in this pronouncement they had many other of his sayings to support it. They had the testimony, too, of men like Paul who admonished the Romans, "Owe no one anything except to love one another, for he who loves his neighbor has fulfilled the law." (13:8), and John, "Any one who hates his brother is a murderer." (1 John 3:15)

First Be Reconciled

These would seem to be among the "hardest sayings" in the New Testament and to some minds they may seem somewhat irrational. Hating as evil as killing? But Jesus and his disciples were not attempting to fix penalties or degrees of guilt, but rather to demonstrate that hate and murder are tied together. Murder begins in hate and even hate that never is expressed physically tends to "kill" because spiritual forces are just as potent — even more so — than physical ones.

The real purpose of God, then, Jesus is saying, is not simply to avoid murder and killing, but to give one's heart over to love and to hold that love back from no one. The worshipper may not have any murders to confess, but if he comes with something in his heart against another, then says Jesus, "leave your gift there before the altar and go, first be reconciled to your brother, and then come and offer your gift." (Matthew 5:24)

It is possible to stop short of murder and still break the commandment of God.

POLICY + PERFORMANCE = LEADERSHIP

Government touches our lives in many different ways. In sharp contrast to his opponent, Wayne Hamilton knows that many of the most important public agencies are only indirectly subject to the authority of the County Commissioners — and Wayne clearly understands the subtle limits of that authority.

The TRUE LEADERSHIP that comes from EARNED RESPECT is especially vital when a County Commissioner is trying to influence the decisions of an independent agency such as the Board of Education or the Hospital Board. Wayne Hamilton HAS that leadership, and has effectively used that influence for a better Garrett County.

This ad continues the list of Wayne's accomplishments. It discusses the subject of Health Care — perhaps the most important service in maintaining the high quality of life we share in Garrett County. It is not only important in itself but also has tremendous impact on whether or not new business locates in the County.

HEALTH CARE

Wayne's Policy

For decades, Garrett County suffered from insufficient health care services — too few doctors, dentists, and other health professionals; not enough clinics, or modern equipment, or emergency services. Dedicated effort enabled us to overcome these deficiencies, and the effort must be continued.

Garrett Countians must have the best quality health care we can afford. Because our own public and private financial resources are limited, we must be as effective as possible in obtaining and using State and Federal assistance that helps us help ourselves.

We must guard against excessive government intervention in the performance of health care services. Government's role should be to aid in providing the necessary facilities so that private practitioners and community organizations retain their control over the delivery of the services.

Wayne's Performance

Because of his leadership record, Wayne Hamilton has consistently been in a position where he could influence decisions on behalf of better health services for Garrett County. As Chairman of Tri-County Council, as a County Commissioner, and as the founding President of the Western Maryland Health Systems Agency, Wayne has helped to start or to obtain funds for implementing:

- Construction and equipping of Grantsville Health Center
- Out-reach Clinics in Friendsville, Kitzmiller, Bloomington, Oakland
- Ambulances and other equipment for both Rescue Squads
- "Dial 911" emergency-response telephone system
- Replacing open garbage dumps with Sanitary Landfill system
- Occupational therapy services
- Equipment for Garrett Memorial Hospital
- Health aides in both County High Schools
- Full-time County Health Officer
- Radio system for Emergency Medical Services
- Increase from 5 to 14 doctors in Garrett County
- Rubella vaccination program
- Resident pediatrician's program
- Preventive Health Services for pre-school children

Wayne's demonstrated knowledge and leadership in health matters has also been recognized by his appointments to serve as a strong voice for Garrett County and all of Western Maryland on:

- State Mental Health Advisory Committee
- Western Maryland Health Services Agency
- Statewide Health Coordinating Council (SHCC)
- Health Services Review Committee of SHCC
- Legislative Committee of SHCC

HOSPITAL EXPANSION

Wayne's Policy

Twice in the past twenty years the Garrett Memorial Hospital has been expanded to meet the growing need for better services. Our needs are continuing to grow. The County's population is increasing, both in numbers and in demands for ever-better health care. The number of physicians in the County has nearly tripled in the past eight years.

Nearly 40% of the patients at Garrett Memorial are senior citizens. It is essential to maintain the Hospital's eligibility so that our elderly citizens will not be deprived of their Medicare services.

The Hospital is a completely independent, not-for-profit corporation, with its own Board of Directors. The Board has a responsibility to plan carefully for meeting present and future demands in the most cost-effective manner. The Board has been fulfilling this responsibility through exhaustive study of alternative ways to assure that the Hospital's services continue to meet contemporary standards. The Board has not yet approved expansion of the Hospital, and should not do so until the need for change is clearly demonstrated.

Wayne's Performance

For many years, operation of the Hospital was subsidized by County tax dollars. As one of the 16 members of the Board of Directors, Wayne has helped to build the improved management team that has brought staff salaries up to par and, at the same time, has ended the drain on County taxpayers by making the Hospital completely self-sufficient financially.

Wayne has the foresight and common sense to recognize that the continuing study by the Board of Directors might demonstrate the need for better equipment or new facilities at the Hospital. Through his leadership on the Tri-County Council, more than a million dollars in Appalachian Regional Commission grant funds have been reserved for future use at our Hospital. If and when this money is needed, Wayne's leadership action assures that Garrett Countians will be spared that much of the cost burden.

Wayne is also an active member of the State committee that makes the final "Certification of Need" decision for all new health facilities in Maryland, and Wayne knows that we cannot and should not expect to act until our needs are clearly proven. On this committee, however, Wayne is in a strong position to secure approval once we are able to show the necessity for proceeding with changes.

POLICY + PERFORMANCE = LEADERSHIP

Government touches our lives in many different ways. In sharp contrast to his opponent, Wayne Hamilton knows that many of the most important public agencies are only indirectly subject to the authority of the County Commissioners — and Wayne clearly understands the subtle limits of that authority.

The TRUE LEADERSHIP that comes from EARNED RESPECT is especially vital when a County Commissioner is trying to influence the decisions of an independent agency such as the Board of Education or the Hospital Board. Wayne Hamilton HAS that leadership, and has effectively used that influence for a better Garrett County.

This ad continues the list of Wayne's accomplishments. It discusses the subject of Health Care — perhaps the most important service in maintaining the high quality of life we share in Garrett County. It is not only important in itself but also has tremendous impact on whether or not new business locates in the County.

HEALTH CARE

Wayne's Policy

For decades, Garrett County suffered from insufficient health care services — too few doctors, dentists, and other health professionals; not enough clinics, or modern equipment, or emergency services. Dedicated effort enabled us to overcome these deficiencies, and the effort must be continued.

Garrett Countians must have the best quality health care we can afford. Because our own public and private financial resources are limited, we must be as effective as possible in obtaining and using State and Federal assistance that helps us help ourselves.

We must guard against excessive government intervention in the performance of health care services. Government's role should be to aid in providing the necessary facilities so that private practitioners and community organizations retain their control over the delivery of the services.

Wayne's Performance

Because of his leadership record, Wayne Hamilton has consistently been in a position where he could influence decisions on behalf of better health services for Garrett County. As Chairman of Tri-County Council, as a County Commissioner, and as the founding President of the Western Maryland Health Systems Agency, Wayne has helped to start or to obtain funds for implementing:

- Construction and equipping of Grantsville Health Center
- Out-reach Clinics in Friendsville, Kitzmiller, Bloomington, Oakland
- Ambulances and other equipment for both Rescue Squads
- "Dial 911" emergency-response telephone system
- Replacing open garbage dumps with Sanitary Landfill system
- Occupational therapy services
- Equipment for Garrett Memorial Hospital
- Health aides in both County High Schools
- Full-time County Health Officer
- Radio system for Emergency Medical Services
- Increase from 5 to 14 doctors in Garrett County
- Rubella vaccination program
- Resident pediatrician's program
- Preventive Health Services for pre-school children

Wayne's demonstrated knowledge and leadership in health matters has also been recognized by his appointments to serve as a strong voice for Garrett County and all of Western Maryland on:

- State Mental Health Advisory Committee
- Western Maryland Health Services Agency
- Statewide Health Coordinating Council (SHCC)
- Health Services Review Committee of SHCC
- Legislative Committee of SHCC

Wayne's Policy

Twice in the past twenty years the Garrett Memorial Hospital has been expanded to meet the growing need for better services. Our needs are continuing to grow. The County's population is increasing, both in numbers and in demands for ever-better health care. The number of physicians in the County has nearly tripled in the past eight years.

Nearly 40% of the patients at Garrett Memorial are senior citizens. It is essential to maintain the Hospital's eligibility so that our elderly citizens will not be deprived of their Medicare services.

The Hospital is a completely independent, not-for-profit corporation, with its own Board of Directors. The Board has a responsibility to plan carefully for meeting present and future demands in the most cost-effective manner. The Board has been fulfilling this responsibility through exhaustive study of alternative ways to assure that the Hospital's services continue to meet contemporary standards. The Board has not yet approved expansion of the Hospital, and should not do so until the need for change is clearly demonstrated.

Wayne's Performance

For many years, operation of the Hospital was subsidized by County tax dollars. As one of the 16 members of the Board of Directors, Wayne has helped to build the improved management team that has brought staff salaries up to par and, at the same time, has ended the drain on County taxpayers by making the Hospital completely self-sufficient financially.

Wayne has the foresight and common sense to recognize that the continuing study by the Board of Directors might demonstrate the need for better equipment or new facilities at the Hospital. Through his leadership on the Tri-County Council, more than a million dollars in Appalachian Regional Commission grant funds have been reserved for future use at our Hospital. If and when this money is needed, Wayne's leadership action assures that Garrett Countians will be spared that much of the cost burden.

Wayne is also an active member of the State committee that makes the final "Certification of Need" decision for all new health facilities in Maryland, and Wayne knows that we cannot and should not expect to act until our needs are clearly proven. On this committee, however, Wayne is in a strong position to secure approval once we are able to show the necessity for proceeding with changes.

Deborah Holland Is July 3 Bride Of Donald Bean At Swanton Church

Wedding vows were exchanged on July 3 by Miss Deborah Ann Holland and Donald Keith Bean.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Jay Six at the Swanton Methodist Church.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Holland, Oakland, and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Dillsworth, Swanton, and Mrs. Beulah Holland, Loch Lynn, and the late Daniel Arch Holland.

The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Bean, Cross, W. Va.

Pre-wedding music and the wedding march were provided by Mrs. Francis Green, a cousin of the groom.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a full-length gown of sheer organza trimmed with Venetian lace. The lace bodice had a high neckline which dipped in front to a white bow. Sleeves of organza were puffed to the elbows, ending with 18 buttons and a ruffle. The gown had an empire waistline and full skirt, ending in a ruffled chapel train.

A Camelot headpiece held a finger-tip length mantilla. The bride's bouquet was a mixture of multi-colored flowers. Her only jewelry was a small cross pin belonging to her grandfather.

Matron of honor for her sister was Julie Mae Fike, who wore a full-length gown of blue flowered print with an empire waistline. Bridesmaids were Miss Gail Marie Bean, sister of the groom, and Miss Sherry Lynn Hardesty, cousin of the bride. They wore yellow and pink dotted Swiss gowns styled like that of the matron of honor.

All three attendants wore picture hats and carried bouquets of silk carnations and apple blossoms.

The gowns were made by the mother of the bride, Mrs. Margie Holland, and sister of the groom, Mrs. Linda Radcliffe. Mrs. Donald Baker made the three silk bouquets.

Dave Bean, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were Rick Pennington, Elk Garden, and Danny Holland, Oakland, brother of the bride.

Groom and best man were dressed in navy blue tuxedos with white ruffle shirts trimmed in blue. Ushers wore green suits.

87 Certified In Explosives Course

At a reception held by the Western Maryland Coal Association at Frostburg State College on September 20, 87 miners were certified to use explosives for surface coal mining in the State of Maryland. The certification, which is valid for three years, came at the end of a seven-week course offered through Allegany and Garrett Community Colleges. The course, which was open to anyone over 21 years old and with a minimum of one year of experience with explosives, was designed to meet the needs of the mining industry in the Western Maryland region.

The course resulted from the Maryland Bureau of Mines' effort to create a program to "train, examine, and certify blasters (for surface coal mines)." In an immediate response, Allegany and Garrett Community Colleges, the Maryland Industrial Training Program, the Maryland Fire Marshal, in cooperation with the State Bureau of Mines jointly planned and implemented a course in the safe and legal use of explosives. The classes were held at Frostburg State College, a location accessible to miners from Allegany and Garrett Counties.

In addition to the regular course, a three-hour seminar on the same topic was delivered to a group of representatives from several vendors of explosives that do blasting for Maryland surface coal mining companies.

The instructor for the course was Howard Rigg, an engineer with over 25 years of experience with explosives. Mr. Rigg used lectures, demonstrations, audio-visuals and guest speakers from vendors to state and federal agencies to deliver the information. Topics included the types of explosives, principles of blasting, handling, storage, and transportation of explosives.

Safety was emphasized in the lessons. Harry Buckley from the Maryland Bureau of Mines explained that safety is a primary concern since blasting of this nature is now done closer to buildings and towns than in the past. He stated that, "this course emphasizes that blasting is done correctly."

The response to the blasting course has been overwhelming, according to a spokesperson from the colleges. In answer to this, the colleges plan to repeat the course in the fall or winter terms. Other plans include the development oa an apprenticeship program for those without the minimum of one year of experience in explosives. This program would precede the certification course and prepare a person to enter the advanced course.

Also in the planning stages is a refresher course to be given annually. Prior to being recertified, blasters must complete an eight-hour refresher course every three (3) years. This renewal is required to help keep those working with explosives up to date with the latest safety information and technical advancements in the field. All future courses will be publicized by the colleges.

Goldstein Attends Rally, Endorses Wayne Hamilton

State Comptroller, Louis Goldstein, was in Garrett County last Wednesday to attend a meeting of "Wayne Hamilton for Commissioner" workers who gathered at the Hilltop Inn in Grantsville.

Commenting to the group, Mr Goldstein spoke of Commissioner Hamilton's "unique" relationship to State Government and endorsed his candidacy for re-election.

As Goldstein talked informally with individuals at the gathering, he noted that many in attendance were from different political parties.

"This is an excellent commentary," the Comptroller said, "not only on Wayne Hamilton, but also on your willingness to look at candidates fairly and honestly. It's one of the things I've always loved about your mountain independence. It's this kind of thinking that makes government work."

Also in attendance at the rally were Col. Richard C. Browning, Democratic candidate for the House of Delegates and David C. Beard, Democratic candidate from District 1 for county commissioner.

"Of all the things you wear, a smile is the most important."

Much information is available on many aspects of home economics: Clothing, food, nutrition, home furnishings, home management, child care and human development. I receive up-to-date information every day on these topics and I feel that this weekly article will enable me to share this valuable information with you.

This week I would like to give you some tips on today's fashion.

—Hemlines are dropping. Along with this, heels on shoes are getting higher.

—Natural fibers such as wool and cotton are coming back into the fashion scene.

- Some of the most stylish fabrics for fall and winter are: Velour, corduroy, velveteen, and chenille.

—Fashion is swinging in two opposite directions; either the very soft feminine look or the tailored more masculine look.

- Two of the best articles to have in your wardrobe this season are a blazer and a vest.

Skirts and dresses are very popular this year, although pants are still very "in."

I hope these tips will help you in working with your wardrobe during this fall and winter season in making it more fashionable. Adopt what makes you feel comfortable – fashion is what you want it to be. Just a special note to home sewers: a garment which you construct yourself costs approximately ½ of what the same ready-made garment costs — a real savings! Just a few food notes:

Apples are the largest cash fruit crop for farmers in Maryland. Many apples are sold through pick-your-own orchards or at roadside stands. When buying apples, remember that good color usually indicates good flavor. Firmness is a sign of high quality; beware of bruises and decay spots. Increased supplies of this all-American nutritious fruit should mean lower prices for consumers this fall.

You might want to try this recipe:

APPLE MUFFINS

2 cups sifted flour
2 tsp. baking powder
½ cup sugar
½ tsp. cinnamon
1 egg beaten
1 cup milk
1 tbsp. melted shortening
1 cup finely chopped raw apples

Sift the dry ingredients and moisten with the combined egg, milk, and shortening, stirring only enough to blend thoroughly. Add the chopped apple, turn into well greased muffin pans, and sprinkle the surface of each with cinnamon-sugar made with 2 tablespoons of sugar mixed with ½ teaspoon cinnamon. Bake in a moderately hot oven (350°F) 25 minutes.

Byron Receives "Watchdog" Award

Congressman Goodloe E. Byron (Md.-6) has received the "Watchdog of the Treasury" Award from National Associated Businessmen, Inc. (NAB).

Congressman Byron qualified to receive NAB's gold bulldog symbolizing the "Watchdog" Award by voting 75 per cent of the time to reduce wasteful government spending during the 95th Congress. He also received the award during the 94th and 93rd Congresses.

In special ceremonies honoring Rep. Byron on Capitol Hill, NAB Chairman Arthur Roth said, "The people of the State of Maryland are extremely fortunate to be represented in Washington by a legislator whose concern with the inflationary impact of excessive government spending is so clearly reflected in his voting record."

NAB has been rating Members of the House and Senate on their votes for fiscal responsibility since 1964, Roth said. The "Watchdog of the Treasury" Award is presented each Congressional session to those Members who vote at least two-thirds of the time for economy in government.

Hay And Straw Buyers And Sellers Directory Planned

A Maryland Department of Agriculture project will be continued this year in an effort to assist in a time of plenty.

The project is MDA's "Operation Maryland Haylift" which is matching, through a directory, of those who have hay and straw to sell with those who are in need of the products.

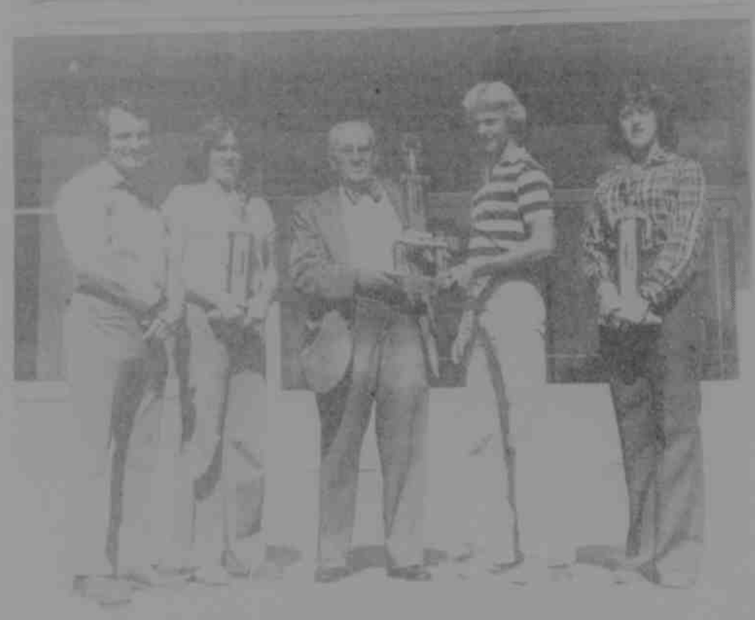
Last year, MDA began the project in response to drought-reduced supplies of hay. This year there is plenty of hay, the quality is good, and the need to match buyers and sellers continues.

Farmers who have a supply of hay and/or straw which they would like to offer for sale should contact MDA's Division of Marketing, Parole Plaza Office Building, Annapolis, Maryland 21401 (Telephone 301-269-2181).

Deadline for inclusion in the first edition of the directory is October 13, according to Bradley Powers, Marketing Specialist, who is compiling the directory.

Information is needed as to the types and amounts (tons, bales, etc.) of hay you have for sale, the type and amounts of straw you have for sale, other roughages you might wish to sell as well as your name, address and telephone number.

There is no charge for farmers to be listed in the directory. The question of price is left up to the seller and buyer.



MORE TROPHIES — The Southern Highlander Marching Band, under the direction of Richard Clever, recently traveled to Baltimore to compete in the annual "I am an American" parade. The band captured second place overall, while the Southern High Color Guard and Majorettes each took first place trophies. There were 12 bands and over 25 color guards and majorette groups in the competition. Pictured left to right are Mr. Clever; head majorette, Val Jean Herndon; Edward Price, who made the trophy presentation; drum major, Dave Eberly; and color guard captain, Angie Lewis.

Century III Leaders Program is an available scholarship opportunity for students. Administered by the National Association of Secondary School Principals, Century III awards $250,000 each year. The grand national winner will receive a $10,000 scholarship while each of the 102 state winners receive $1,500 scholarships. State winners will also go to Williamsburg, Virginia for three days in March, expenses paid. Each student must take a current events quiz and apply. Applications are available in the Guidance Office from Mrs. Peddicord. The deadline for applying is October 14.

Southern's Ski Club is selling chances for a 25-25-50 drawing. Two winners will be drawn October 24 by a Ski Club officer. The club will keep 50% of the total amount collected and each winner will receive 25%. Chances may be purchased from any club member; the cost is 15 cents each or 2 for 25 cents.

Highlander Yearbook sent out surveys Monday and Tuesday to the student body. The survey asks for comments on the 1977-78 yearbook and asks for suggestions for improvements. The staff will take orders for yearbooks November 2 at an assembly.

Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA) held a membership meeting today at 3:30 p.m. in Room B-203. They will have an initiation dinner Tuesday, October 17 in the Foods Room at 12:00. Students interested in joining FBLA should contact Mark Raynovich, Lisa Teagarden, or Mrs. Corile Wilhelm as soon as possible. FBLA offers secretarial services for teachers at Southern. Any interested teacher should contact Mrs. Alice Eary, Mrs. Corile Wilhelm, or Mark Raynovich.

Girls Athletic Association will meet in the cafeteria every Tuesday after school. The theme for Homecoming, Photographs and Memories, was chosen at the last meeting. Performing at the dance, October 28, 8-11 p.m., will be the band "Survivor."

Student Council announced the Homecoming Parade route on October 3. Every club is to be represented in the parade to be held October 27 before the game held against Keyser. A pep assembly will be held Friday, October 27, in the afternoon to encourage attendance and spirit at the game. Student Council will collect for UNICEF in the National UNICEF Day/Halloween Campaign.

The class of 1980 is selling mums for Homecoming in the lobby. The cost of the flower is $3.50. Sales will continue through October 3.

Health Careers Club will start the Candy Stripers Program on October 17. Stripers will start meeting at the Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Four Delegates To Conference Named

Four delegates have been named to represent Garrett County at the Governor's Conference on Libraries and Information Service at College Park on October 12-14. They are:

Mrs. Marianne Green, Larry Kaufman, Dr. Raymond McCullough and Mrs. Elisabeth P. Thayer.

Local delegations from all 24 Maryland subdivisions were named by local selection committees.

The Governor's Conference will identify the major issues facing Maryland libraries and make recommendations on the appropriate resolution of these problems.

Similar conferences are being held in all states and territories in preparation for the White House Conference on Libraries and Information Service scheduled for September of 1979.

Maryland Fiscal Condition Reported

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said this week that the State's actual unencumbered General Fund Surplus at the close of Fiscal Year 1978 amounted to $79,421,000. "I am urging that the recommendations of the Capital Debt Affordability Committee, including the use of approximately $57 million in surplus revenue to fund capital construction projects, be adopted. This would result in State property tax savings of more than $82 million," Mr. Goldstein said.

Based on past experience, an additional $15 million is expected to be used by the 1979 Session of the Maryland General Assembly to fund deficiency and supplemental appropriations. "The State General Fund Surplus could be $7,421,000 if these measures are followed," the Comptroller said.

During its 1978 session, the General Assembly obligated the use of $105,731,000 in surplus revenues to fund the extension of various property tax relief programs, to provide additional aid to education and police protection, to fund health care programs, and to provide income tax relief.

Higher than anticipated revenues from the State Lottery's Daily Numbers Game provided the largest single part of the State surplus. In addition, higher interest rates in effect during Fiscal Year 1978 produced higher than expected interest on State investments.

"In addition, corporation taxes also produced higher than anticipated revenues, indicating a growing and dynamic economy," Comptroller Goldstein said.

WHAT'S YOUR ANSWER TO THE ENERGY PROBLEM?

By Janet C. Wunderlick

Scientists working for the Department of Energy in Washington are in general agreement that no matter what we do now there is an inevitable energy crisis coming in the mid 1980's. That is to say that any predictable investment in energy technology research or degree of conservation practices undertaken would not prevent an energy crisis in next ten years. So said Dr. Morris Levitt, Director of the Fusion Energy Foundation, at the Mid-Atlantic Energy and Economic Development Conference held in Cumberland on September 26. I, for one, hope that they are wrong.

Kirk Renaud of the Division of Solar Energy, U. S. Department of Energy, believes that we don't have an energy shortage, we have a technology shortage. We know that the worldwide and national supplies of non-renewable fuels is running low. Of our current fuels, natural gas is in shortest supply in the U. S. and expected to last approximately 10 years at the present rate of usage, petroleum is expected to last 31 years worldwide; and coal another 200 years, according to C. Malcolm Allen, consultant to Batelle Columbus Laboratory.

On the other end of that spectrum it is projected that energy from nuclear fusion will be commercially available only at the end of this century. Geothermal energy, when fully developed, will probably provide only 1% of our total need. Wind generated energy, while there are some localities where wind is harnessible, is 75% to 100% more expensive than nuclear energy because of storage expense. The tidal potential is not currently believed to add up to much. The primary energy resources that will replace oil and natural gas are coal and coal derived fuels, nuclear, and hydroelectric power. Water power offers 800 times the efficiency of wind because it has 800 times the density. There are some 52,000 dams in the United States not now equipped with electrical generators. These could be converted to generate power, says Lester Brown, President of the Worldwatch Institute in Washington, D. C., and he indicated that the Chinese "are way ahead of the entire world" in small-scale hydroelectric generation.

Coal can be burned twice as efficiently without dangerous sulfur emissions by a technology called MHD. Magnetohydrodynamics was invented in this country but is being developed on a commercial scale in the Soviet Union. The U. S. Department of Energy has recently begun devoting more time and money to MHD research and will open a small pilot plant in Butte, Montana next year. Further development of this technology on the eastern seaboard would greatly enhance the marketability of Western Maryland coal.

The greatest potential of unlimited energy sources are nuclear fusion and solar, both which need great refinement before becoming readily available and practical. Let's take a closer look.

All forms of solar energy could collectively take care of our energy needs, according to Malcolm Allen. However, the sun's rays are so diffused upon entering the earth's atmosphere that earth bound collectors as we presently know them would have to cover large land areas to supply all but small energy systems. Collectors placed in outer space could receive the sun's rays much more intensely on surfaces as thin as aluminum foil which is far more promising. However, at the current time it would be prohibitively expensive to place these collectors in outer space on a large scale.

Nuclear fusion offers a potential for unlimited energy at minimum expense beyond the initial investment of power plants. Fusion occurs naturally within the sun. We are advancing steadily toward producing it here on earth but experts agree that it will be 20 years before being readily available, even though a recent breakthrough at Princeton reduced development time by approximately 12 years.

This country needs a three phase energy program that includes immediate conservation, transitional technologies to replace petroleum and natural gas, and development of futuristic technology with the potential for unlimited energy at reasonable rates. We have important choices to make in the years ahead.

Janet C. ST. JOSEPH THE WORKMAN

THE ARTS

by jim willis

A special exhibition of paintings by the late Reginald Douglas Chalfonte will be unveiled this week as a part of the Autumn Glory celebration. The collection consists of 30 paintings valued at $50,000.

The Ruth Enlow Library, Oakland, will host a segment of the exhibition beginning Tuesday, October 10. The display will remain at that location for two weeks.

A formal presentation of the collection will be held at the Garrett Community College Library, McHenry, on Thursday, October 12 from 9 a.m.-3 p.m. and the paintings may be viewed there for two weeks.

Reginald Douglas Chalfonte, 1903-1974, was born in Hot Springs, South Dakota and at the age of four his family located in Chadron, Nebraska. His father, an artist, encouraged young Reginald to draw still-lifes with a drawing pad and charcoal. When his interest in that medium waned he switched to wood carving.

At the age of eight, Reginald placed first in the Nebraska State fair with a still-life.

Following high school, he continued his art studies at Chadron State Teachers College where he graduated with high scholastic standing. He was also the first student to attain letters in five sports-baseball, football, golf, tennis and swimming.

Chalfonte later attended Creighton University, Nebraska and obtained a law degree. His schooling was financed with an athletic scholarship as well as the sale of art work to local merchants.

During this time he became friendly with Father Flannigan of Boys Town fame and painted several displays for the priest.

In 1930, Chalfonte ran for the State Legislature while practicing attorney. He married Marguerite Field and they adopted two children and moved to Lanham, Maryland where, until his retirement, he worked as an artist for the Government Printing Office.

The year 1959 brought letters from Pope Pius XII to various congregations asking that they counteract the effects of Russia's May Day by some devotion to the dignity, labor and workmanship of the free man. Inspired by this, the Josephite Fathers commissioned Chalfonte to paint an oil commemorating this message. The result, was entitled "St. Joseph the Workman." (Pictured at left)

When Joseph Cardinal Pizzardo, prefect of congregations for universities and seminaries visited Baltimore to view the painting he expressed a desire for a copy. One year later two representatives from the Josephite order transported the 16"x20" original to Rome where it now graces the foyer of the Cardinals Palace.

Among Chalfonte's other accomplishments are "St. Ignatius Loyola at Manresa," a large 38"x50" canvas. The painting received the Archdiocesian Popularity Award in 1959. It now hangs in the lobby of Gonzaga High School in Washington, D. C.

Another series of paintings portraying the life of Joseph and the Holy Family hangs at the Josephite Fathers House of Studies, Baltimore. Included in the collection is the beautiful, "Flight into Egypt."

In 1962, the artist experimented with a new art form which led to "Fourteen Stations of the Cross." These were accomplished with a combination of Portland cement and epoxy resin cast together to form a square cross. An insert depicting the stations was cast in the center of each cross, reminiscent of the style popularized by Georges Rualt.

Encouraged by the medium, Chalfonte began using pliable lead strips, called "Cames" to outline his designs. The interior spaces were filled with rough colored stones to complete the terrazo effect.

Chalfonte's final painting, completed at age 65, was an intricate oil titled "Neglect."

Whip 340 & 440

These are facts:

- Coast to Coast Endurance Champion
- Tops in Reliability
- 1,000 Mile Endurance
- 24 Hour Record Setter
- Tops in Owners Survey

The list goes on and on and they are all facts! The Scorpion Whip has proven itself to be the most reliable snowmobile year in and year out, mile after mile. On Dec. 4, 1977, Fritz Sprandel left Westport, Washington on a 1978 440 Whip heading East. On Feb. 4, 1978, he reached Eastport, Maine, setting a U.S. Coast to Coast Endurance record. His stock Whip covered more than 5,000 miles of trails, mountains and ditches. In 1977 a group of snowmobilers, members of a club in Gun Lake, Michigan, drove two stock 440 Whips around a slush filled lake for 24 hours and set of record of over 1,100 miles each! In 1975 and 1976, Snowgoer Magazine ran a test for six companies running a single machine each for 1,000 miles and checked the results. You guessed it! Scorpion's family machine, the Whip ... was outstanding. Owner's surveys show without question just how satisfied customers are with their Whips ... Study the facts and you'll choose a Whip, cuz, when you get right down to it ... Nothin' really comes close.

WE CAN HELP YOU BUY, SELL OR TRADE A HOME ANYPLACE IN THE NATION

OPEN LINE

By Congressman Goodloe Byron
Maryland—Sixth District

This regular column serves as another vehicle to keep in touch with the citizens of Central and Western Maryland. You may send your questions to me, in care of the U.S. House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515. While space is obviously limited for printing all replies, I will answer each of you who writes. The following questions are typical of those asked of me in recent weeks;

How do you see your position on the Armed Services Committee as being of help to the people of the 6th District of Maryland?

As a member of the House Armed Services Committee, the Subcommittee on Military Installations & Facilities, and the Subcommittee on Seapower and Strategic & Critical Materials, I have taken a special interest in the many defense-related programs particularly affecting the residents of Central and Western Maryland. As you know, the 6th District includes the Fairchild plant in Hagerstown where much of the work is done on the A-10 and other planes. The Westinghouse plant in the Baltimore area is where the E-3A Airborne Warning and Control System is made. In addition, our area is also the home of Fort Detrick in Frederick, Fort Ritchie in Washington County, Allegany Ballistics Laboratory near Cumberland, and the Johns Hopkins University Applied Physics Laboratory in Howard County.

What steps do I take to apply for a Service Academy appointment?

From now until October 30th, I will be accepting applications for appointments to the United States Service Academies for the class entering July, 1979. Nominations are open to the Naval Academy, Military Academy, Air Force Academy and the Merchant Marine Academy. Interested candidates should write me, care of the U. S. House of Representatives, 1232 Longworth Building, Washington, D. C. 20515. Applications will be sent to prospective nominees who will later be subject to written and physical examinations and an interview by my Academy Selection Board.

What is the maximum FHA insured mortgage amount for houses?

The Department of Housing and Urban Development has increased the maximum FHA insured mortgage amount for one-family residences from $45,000 to $60,000 and has also reduced the amount for down payment.

Do you have any information available on the "OTEC" ship which you have discussed in the past?

"OTEC" is an acronym for Ocean Thermal Energy Conversion plant ship. This is one of the more exciting and promising programs in our nation's efforts toward development of new energy sources and energy independence. These OTEC plant-ships would be located in tropical waters near the equator and use the differences in temperature between the warm water on the surface of the ocean and the cold water several thousand feet deep to drive a turbine and generate electricity, in turn, would then be used to produce large amounts of liquid fertilizer which are currently produced by use of gas. Eventually aluminum and other products could be produced by the self-sufficient OTEC ship. The research and development of these plant ships is being done right in our 6th District at Johns Hopkins' Applied Physics Laboratory in Howard County. The entire Maryland Congressional Delegation has worked hard to obtain funds to begin work on the first prototype OTEC ship and I shall keep you advised of its status.

What legislation have you sponsored to improve the efficiency and effectiveness of the Federal Government?

In action designed to cut red tape and bring the bureaucracy under control, I have co-sponsored legislation to give Congress the power to veto agency regulations. This will prevent the enactment of rules that would impose unreasonable requirements on our citizens and businesses, or are contrary to the intent of Congress and the public. I have also introduced "sunset" legislation which would automatically terminate federal agencies unless Congress studies their operations and votes to extend them. Finally, I supported the Executive Reorganization Act, which gives the President the authority to reorganize the federal government with the approval of Congress. This should lead to a reduction in the number of agencies that currently lack coordination, duplicate each others functions, and thwart effective and efficient government.

"Filstrup that suggestion you dropped in the box last month has enabled us to save 3 million. Please accept our heartfelt thanks."

Are the gas mileage ratings published by the Environmental Protection Agency accurate?

Many people today are puzzled by EPA gas mileage ratings which seem generous when compared to actual everyday driving. However, according to a government survey, over half of all drivers report achieving gas mileage within two miles per gallon of the EPA estimates. The remaining ten percent report that they are getting five or more gallons per mile less than EPA ratings. The new edition of the GAS MILEAGE GUIDE is out now and, in addition to giving you mileage rating to compare the fuel economy of new models, it also tells you how and why your actual mileage can vary from the results of the tests conducted by the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency. For your free copy of the GAS MILEAGE GUIDE, send a postcard to the Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

What is the average Social Security Income for a Retired Worker?

During 1977, the average payment for a retired worker with no other dependents receiving social security benefits was $2,800; and for a retired worker and wife, it was $4,700. A disabled worker with a wife and one or more children received an average annual payment of $6,100.

Please explain your bill which would aid small businesses.

I have co-sponsored a measure to provide tax relief to small businesses by establishing a graduated income tax rate for small businesses. I have also introduced the Targeted Tax Relief Act of 1978 which encourages business to locate or to expand in designated labor surplus areas, such as Garrett, Allegany, Washington, Carroll, Howard and Baltimore Counties. The provisions of this measure include an additional 10% investment tax credit, accelerated depreciation allowances, and double deduction of state and local real property taxes applying to newly acquired property to be used for manufacturing purposes.

By Dr. Matthew Tayback

It's a fact that 30,000 older Americans die every year from accidents.

It's a fact that one million elderly suffer disabling injuries every year from accidents.

And it's a fact that elderly people spend far too much time in hospitals as a result of accidents.

There is something that you as an individual can do to reduce these ugly statistics. You can learn to handle yourself with care. You, after all, are your own most precious possession. You should treat yourself accordingly.

Since nearly half the accidents they experience occur in or around their homes, the home is where older people should first identify hazards, and practive accident-prevention.

Fires, falls, and poisonings rank as the three major killers, with falls taking the lead.

There is a myriad of precautions you can take to prevent falls. Here are just a few:

Get rid of scatter rugs, especially those at the tops or bottoms of stairways. Put non-slip pads under other rugs or carpets. Put non-skid mats or safety strips in bathtubs, too, and install grab bars both in tubs and beside toilets.

Keep the traffic lanes in your house or apartment clear at all times. Don't clutter stairways by using them as storage areas. Don't clutter storage areas either. Cuts from concealed knives or blows from falling pots or pans are far less likely to happen if those items are stored properly.

More precautions: Don't wear floppy slippers. Don't leave housecleaning equipment — especially things with long handles — lying about when not in use. And don't walk casually into dark rooms. Always light your way first.

There are many simple precautions you can take to reduce the chance of fire, too. Here are some:

Never smoke in bed or when drowsy. Turn off all burners and appliances (even heating pads) when going to sleep. Check all your electric cords and replace any that show signs of wear.

Since more fire victims are killed by fumes than by flames, never sleep in a tightly closed room. Open a window a bit at night. Then too, close your bedroom door before retiring. This will prevent deadly smoke and fumes from reaching you before you have time to escape.

Carelessly stored rubbish, flammable cleaning fluids, rags and the like are potential breeders of fire. Discard what you don't need and store the rest properly before they become troublemakers.

In the kitchen, never wear loose clothing while cooking over hot burners. When pots are on top the stove, keep their handles turned inward so they cannot be inadvertently knocked over. Remember that foods or liquids that boil over can smother flames, allowing gas to seep into the house.

If you are the least bit concerned about the condition of the wiring in your residence, have it checked by a reputable electrical contractor. One indication that your circuitry isn't adequate to handle the demands you're making on it is the momentary dimming of lights when major appliances are first turned on.

Poisons come in many guises. Foods, for instance, can sometimes kill. Don't keep things in the refrigerator too long. Immediately discard swollen cans or anything that smells suspicious.

Store medicines systematically, and, as in the case of old food, discard old medicines. Sometimes their chemical composition alters significantly with age. Never take medicines in the dark, and never keep more than one medicine on your nightstand. It's very easy to confuse little bottles in the fog of half-sleep.

There are two medicine-related habits you should try to develop. One: read labels twice, in a good light, before taking what's behind them. The second: when pouring liquid medicines, hold the bottle with its label up. That way dripping won't obscure its instructions.

If you've reached the conclusion that most of the tips we've passed on are just good common sense, you're right.

But what conclusion can you draw when the fact remains that accidents are still the third biggest killer of Americans over 65?

Assessment Answers

By James Burley

Q. I thought that last year, when our taxes doubled and more, that it was stated that assessments could not be increased more than fifteen percent per year. We did receive a refund last year that put our taxes in line with this figure, but now we have received this year's tax bill, and the assessment is more than double what it was two years ago.

Total assessment for 1976-77

+ 15% 687

$5,267

Should this have been the assessment for 1977-78?

$5,267
+ 15% 790

Should this not be the assessment for 1978-79?

Actually the assessment for 1977-78 was $11,175. However, I said they did make a refund on these taxes. The one that I'm wondering about is this year's assessment which is $10,060. Can they make such an increase in a two-year period, or should the limit be the amount I figured above.

A. Your calculations are correct, but you and many others are confusing the credit with the assessment.

The assessment will reflect the estimated market value of your property expressed as a percentage — now 45% — of that value.

The law that confuses so many is the one that provides for a property tax credit to the homeowner if the assessment increases by more than fifteen percent over the previous year. This tax credit is available under certain restrictions. Apart from the fact that the dwelling must be the owner's principal residence, there must not have been any extensive improvements, any substantial change in the use of the property and the property must have continued under the same ownership during the previous year.

The credit you received last year was based on your example. The assessment this year of $10,060 reflects the ten percent rollback. It also means that your property was not reassessed this past year. The credit that you receive this year will be based on the difference between the $10,060 and the $6,057.

"Of course it's a police dog."

Q. If I fill out the property tax credit form and get a credit cut, will this have any effect on my property price after my death? Will my sons be made to return a portion of this when they sell my house? I understand my neighbor received the "circuit breaker" for over sixty, and I never found out if indeed anything was deducted. I am under sixty and have a $7,000 income and pay near $600 in taxes.

Thank you for any answer you can give.

A. The Homeowners' Property Tax Credit — not to be confused with the Homestead Credit for Residential Property Exceeding 15% — has no bearing at all on the selling price of your house. The credit has been allowed to you as the homeowner and is based upon the relationship between your residential property tax and your income.

Your sons, or any other heirs, will not have to return any portion of any credit that you may have received for an earlier taxable year.

If, perchance, the ownership of your home changes through your bequeathing it to your sons or for any other reason; then you, the homeowner, would still be entitled to the tax credit for that portion of the year that you actually owned the home. In-as-much as property taxes are paid one year in advance, such a situation could only apply to the current year.

The tax liability on an income of $7,000 is limited to $165. The difference between this and your taxes of $600 is $435. Half of this is $217.50, which is what your credit would be as a "partial credit" homeowner. These are homeowners such as you, who are under sixty.

Q. I filed my application for a property tax credit last June, but I still have not heard anything. When can I expect the credit?

A. Those eligible homeowners who filed an application for a tax credit by August 31, 1978, should receive a credit voucher some time during the month of October. If they are found to be ineligible, they will receive a letter of denial. Those who filed an application during the month of September but before the deadline, October 1, 1978, should receive a voucher during the month of November.

Either way, whether you are eligible to receive a credit or not, you should receive written notification — a tax credit voucher or a letter of denial — by November 30, at the very latest.

Q. I just heard the other day from friends about the property tax credit program for the elderly. As I am over sixty, can I still file, and if so, where?

A. For this year, the deadline for filing applications by both the under and the over sixty homeowners was extended to October 1, 1978. Normally, September 1, is the final date. Since October 1, fell on a Sunday, applications were accepted on the following Monday if they were received in the tax credit office by that date. Applications that were mailed in were also accepted if the envelope was postmarked no later than October 2, 1978.

The tax credit office says it cannot accept any applications that are received after this date, and those who file late will be sent a letter of denial for this reason.

The purpose of the property tax credit program is to give relief to homeowners whose incomes are fixed or limited. While the need for a cut-off date is understandable for some, there is always the possibility of mitigating circumstances. The homeowner could have been in the hospital and unable to file. A way must exist to protect people from losing the credit through no fault of their own. If a homeowner, in such adversity, files after the deadline and is turned down, he can still appeal this decision to the Appeal Board. The Appeal Board will hear the case and make a decision as to whether the circumstances warrant a waiver of the fact that the filing date requirement was not met. In fairness to those who meet the deadline, the burden of proof will be the homeowner's.

Questions or letter of general interest on assessments and the property tax should be addressed to 'Assessment Answers-James Burley' in care of this newspaper. They will be answered through this column to the extent that space allows.

State Highways Claim 16 Lives

Sixteen persons lost their lives on Maryland Highways according to the Weekly News Release compiled by 2nd Lt. M. I. Morgan of the Maryland State Police. Of the persons killed, ten were drivers, five were passengers and none were pedestrians.

In the opinion of the investigating officers, six of this week's deaths could possibly have been prevented had seat belts been in use.

Persons killed through October 8 total 505 as compared to 499 for the same period last year.

Paul S. Frank, Jr.

HUNTER'S MOON

The first Full Moon after the Harvest Moon is called the Hunter's Moon. The moon rises an average of about one-half hour later each day during the period immediately preceding and following the Harvest Moon. During this period, the earth once again receives bright moonlight during the evening hours. This light illuminates the autumn fields and forests for the hunter and others enjoying this season during the evening.

MOON

Full Moon will be occurring at 2:09 a.m. on Monday morning. During most of this week, the moon will be waxing. Moonrise varies during the week from 4:05 p.m. today to 7:46 p.m. next Tuesday.

The closest the moon will approach earth this month is 368,888 kilometers (229,286 miles). This perigee, about 2,000 kilometers (3,100 miles) further from earth than last month's perigee, occurs today at noon.

VISIBLE PLANETS

Venus, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn are visible in the sky this week. Venus is very low in the southwest at sunset. Mars is not far from Venus, but is very dim against the evening twilight. It is among the stars of Libra. Jupiter is seen with the stars of Cancer, rising near midnight. Saturn rises about [illegible] hours before the sun. It can be found among the stars of Leo.

DAYLIGHT DECREASES

Fifteen minutes less daylight will be with us next Tuesday. Sunrise was at 7:23 a.m. this morning. Sunset will be 11 hours 22 minutes later at 6:45 p.m. Tuesday the sun will rise at 7:29 a.m. and set at 6:36 p.m.

The Almanac

Today is Wednesday, October 11, the 284th day of 1978 with 81 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase.

The morning stars are Saturn and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Mars, Venus and Mercury.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Libra.

Anna Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, was born October 11, 1884.

On this day in history:

In 1811, the first steam-powered ferry in the world started its run between New York City and Hoboken, N. J.

In 1868, Thomas Alva Edison filed papers for his first invention — an electrical vote recorder to tabulate floor votes in Congress in a matter of minutes. Congress rejected it.

In 1962, Pope John XXIII opened the 2nd Vatican Ecumenical Council in St. Peter's Basilica in Rome.

In 1975, Vice President Nelson Rockefeller urged a swift federal loan to help New York City avoid economic bankruptcy.

Thought for the day: Anna Eleanor Roosevelt wrote, "You gain strength, courage and confidence by every experience in which you really stop to look fear in the face."

VOLUME 102 | OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MD., WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 18, 1978 | PER COPY 20¢ | NUMBER 41

Thanks Goodloe . . .

The death of Congressman Goodloe Byron is indeed a genuine loss, not just to those of us who live in his district, but also for the rest of the country. Goodloe Byron did his job well. He thought of others first and voted the way the majority wanted him to vote. He did his best to make life better ,or all of us. Many government officials, including President Carter, were saddened by his death and commented on how well he represented his district.

One of Washington's best known correspondents, Joseph McCaffrey, speaking at the Friends of Garrett County Dinner last week, stated that the main problem with Congress is that nearly every member has his or her absolute solution to the various crises of the country and each member is convinced that his or her answer is the only answer. There is little compromise, there is a definite lack of working together.

Having the answers, even though they might be the correct answers, is only part of doing a good job. Being able to see another's viewpoint, being able to work together is a major part of doing a good job. The idea of teamwork should be stressed to the members of Congress more often.

Goodloe Byron was one of the few Congressmen who sought out the viewpoints of as many citizens as possible before making a decision. He worked with them. He based his decisions not solely on what was in his own head, but also on what was in the heads of the people of his district. He represented. It is sadly ironic and almost puzzling as to why a person of his caliber should have to be the one who dies so young. We need a lot more people like him in our government.

If everyone did his or her job well, as did Goodloe Byron, just imagine how much better this old world would be. We thank you, Mr. Byron.

Commissioners, School Board Discuss School Capital Improvement Program

The county's five-year capital improvements program for school construction was a chief topic of discussion at Monday's Board of Commissioners meeting.

Dr. William Buser, superintendent of schools, Herbert Harman, president of the Board of Education, and Dr. Jerome Ryscavage met with Commissioners Edwards, Bender and Hamilton to discuss the bidding of the new Grantsville Elementary School and the renovation of Dennett Road Elementary School. Bids should be opened in the near future for this project.

The proposed Accident Elementary School was also a topic, and the educators reminded the commissioners that funds will be required in next year's budget for design. The county is required, under new state school construction guidelines, to pay costs to design new schools, in addition to paying for land acquisition.

The Commissioners withheld formal action pending evaluation of the information presented.

Arrangements were made with the state Department of Natural Resources to close part of the county right of way through the Mt. Nebo Wildlife Refuge west of Route 219. In return the DNR will provide additional right of way near Nest Lack to bring that right of way up to minimum county standards. Harold Harman, manager of Mt. Nebo, and Dave Wineland, from DNR, discussed the matter with the commissioners.

There were no attendees at a hearing on county participation in the Maryland Department of Transportation highway bond program. The commissioners have now decided to participate in the amount of $1.4 million in the state program, and will be using the county's share of the proceeds of the bond sale to replace worn out roads equipment and to pave additional county roads.

Bonds would be amortized through the state highway gasoline tax collections from this county.

Tim Dugan, county planning director, introduced Vernon Fahlie, Harvey Joiner and David Slater, who are doing an economic development transportation study for Garrett County. The study, requested by the county, is being performed by the state to determine the feasibility of a new north-south highway corridor in the eastern portion of Garrett County.

The county plan, formulated in 1974, recommends that a corridor be developed along the ridge of Meadow Mountain to provide additional north-south access.

Two Receive Terms For Larceny, Forgery

Judge Fred A. Thayer sentenced two men to jail last week, one for larceny, the other for forgery.

Raymond Blaine Minnick, 22, of Deer Park, was sentenced to three years following a presentence investigation. Minnick pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny at a trial September 1. A charge of burglary was dismissed. The sentence was to begin as of October 8. The incident grew out of taking of goods of Harold Upole at Deer Park in May.

Gary Wayne Jenkins, RD 1, Markleysburg, Pa., was sentenced, following a presentence investigation, to five, one-year, concurrent terms to be served in the Allegany County Jail. Jenkins pleaded guilty to five charges of forgery of checks which occurred in the northern part of the county in March and April. Two charges of uttering were dismissed.

Funeral Services For Rep. Byron Held Saturday

Funeral services were held Saturday, October 14, for Rep. Goodloe Byron, 49, who was stricken with a heart attack Wednesday in the midst of his campaign for a fifth term from Maryland's 6th District.

Interment was in Antietam National Battlefield.

Beverly Byron, the congressman's widow, left after the funeral for a brief vacation in Florida, a family spokesman said. When she returns to Maryland, she will start campaigning for her husband's congressional seat.

Mrs. Byron, 45, received the Democratic nomination for the seat Thursday night at the first meeting of the recently elected State Central Committee. The action was supported by Acting Gov. Blair Lee III and Democratic gubernatorial nominee Harry R. Hughes.

The new candidate has some reservations about taking her husband's place.

"I don't think I am the best person for the job," Mrs. Byron said, "but the staff seems to think so and the family seems to think so."

She quickly added, however, that she wants her husband's job.

"Why bother with it? Because it seems to be what my family wants," Mrs. Byron said. "Goodloe had strong feelings toward the 6th District. I think the primary showed the 6th District had some feeling toward him."

After the nomination, Mrs. Byron said: "As far as I'm concerned, I want to get through the weekend first. I'm happy and pleased."

The central committee's action did not give Mrs. Byron the vacant seat. Maryland law requires a special election to fill an unexpired term. State officials say they do not plan to hold one because of Congress' upcoming adjournment and the closeness of the general election.

No New Leads Reported In Oil Company Larceny

No new leads have been turned up by Oakland City Police in the breaking and entering and larceny at the Oakland Oil Company, W. Liberty Street, Oakland, last Tuesday night.

The oil firm was reportedly entered between 10 p.m. Tuesday and 2 a.m. Wednesday. One of the truck drivers was preparing to leave for Baltimore when he discovered the property damage and larceny.

According to Oakland police, intruders slit the screen and reached in to open the jalousie door. Missing were a small safe, weighing about 200 pounds and containing a check for $1968, $25 in cash, truck titles, several outstanding bills and accounts receivable.

No other damage was reported although papers were scattered on the desk and drawers were ransacked.

Payment has been stopped on the check, according to Oakland Police, who are being assisted in their investigation by the Maryland State Police and the Garrett County Sheriff's department.

Police Checking Pond Run Larceny

Chilly weather must have prompted a breaking, entering and larceny at the trailer home of Jay Condon on Pond Run Road during the night of October 14.

According to the sheriff's report, someone pried open a front door of the trailer and made off with Mexican blankets and a jacket. Total loss value was set at $198, including damage to the door.

Charles Burgess, Kitzmiller, reported to police that while he was hunting off Short Run Road in the early morning hours October 12, someone had caused damage to his vehicle parked along the road. Scratches were made in various places on the vehicle, with an estimated $80 damage to the paint.

Two Are Arrested By State Police

Two men were apprehended recently one on a charge of forgery and another on false report according to State Police reports.

John Edward Hockman, 21, Addison, Pa., has been charged with forgery. He took a Federal tax refund check from the mail box of a neighbor, Owen D. Fazenbaker, forged Fazenbaker's signature and cashed the check at Grantsville Foodland, in the amount of $72.10 in March. When Fazenbaker realized that he had not received his refund, he notified the Federal Government. An investigation followed that revealed Hockman had forged the check and cashed it. Hockman is free on $50 bail. Trc. C. H. Hinnant investigated and made the arrest.

Another man is free on his own recognizance having been charged with making a false report. Michael Ray White, Bethlehem Road, had driven his car along U. S. 219 at Gortner and wrecked it. He then left the scene and reported his car had been stolen. White has been charged for making a false report by Tfc. D. H. Ruggleman, who made the investigation.

Education Board Discusses Reading Competency Tests, Bus Contractors

At the regular monthly meeting of the Garrett County Board of Education last Thursday, October 12, Robert Rodeheaver, Supervisor of High Schools, discussed some of the major issues related to guidelines for implementing the functional reading test requirement which will be expected of the current ninth grade students in Garrett County and throughout Maryland.

He indicated one of the major problems in implementing the requirements was making a guideline that would not penalize too severely students who are able to achieve their required credits for graduation but, for some reason or other, are not able to pass 80% or more Maryland's functional reading test.

This matter will be explored by the local high schools and proposed guidelines will be presented to the Garrett County Board of Education at its November 9 meeting.

In other curricular matters, the school board received a report on the Title I program and an instructional equipment report for the schools of the county. The Board gave the staff approval to proceed with a Title IV project proposal which would seek state funding for personnel, in-service activities, and materials for implementing the curricular priorities, including Project Basic, of the Garrett County School System. The Board was informed that the special education funding proposal had been approved and that the staff will be hiring additional employees to implement this program. The Board approved the elementary science scope and sequence for grades K-12 as recommended by the science committee for implementation in the Garrett County schools.

The Board took action at this meeting to invite the PTA officers to the November meeting.

Board Considers Change in Awarding School Bus Contracts

The Board also discussed the problem of getting good, qualified contractors under the financial formula as provided by the state to bus contractors. Buses frequently change ownership due to contractors feeling that they are not adequately reimbursed by the state for operating their buses. The superintendent presented a policy which, if finally adopted by the Board, would permit granting a second and third contract to contractors if a qualified single owner contractor is not available.

Eugene Flinn, Supervisor of Transportation, informed the Board that the average bus contractor in Garrett County may receive as much as $100 to $167 less next school year than he received this year.

Leuschner Trial Scheduled For Washington Court

Convicted murderer Ellwood Leuschner is to be tried December 11 in Washington County Circuit Court on charges of killing and sexually assaulting a ten-year-old Salisbury boy.

Garrett County Circuit Court Judge Fred Thayer set the trial date this week after agreeing to move Leuschner's trial in the death of Troy Krause, 10, of Salisbury, to Washington county because of pre-trial publicity.

Leuschner, a former soup company employe, was convicted in June by a Garrett County Circuit Court jury of murdering and sexually assaulting Rusty Marine, 9, also of Salisbury. Leuschner is serving a life prison term for that conviction.

Leuschner was charged with the murders after the boys' bodies were found last fall buried near one another on an Eastern Shore farm.

Both cases were to be tried in Wicomico County Circuit Court but the Marine case was moved to this county because of pre-trial publicity.

Letters to the Editor

Sir:

Since some California residents seem so concerned about Garrett County and our beautiful old landmarks, I feel obligated to express some of my thoughts.

First, it is too bad that those Californians don't have anything else to worry about in their state and feel obligated to express their deep concern about our County. I seriously wonder sometimes who actually motivates these letters.

Recently upon a visit to the Courthouse, I was amazed at the poor conditions and outmoded facilities of this building. I felt that this certainly was an "eye-sore" and we could not show much respect for ourselves if we leave the County Courthouse in such a state of need for improvement. Personally, that old cannon just didn't do a thing for me. When we let an issue like the Courthouse project become the major issue in a campaign, we are once again displaying a narrow-mindedness that we should be trying to get away from in Garrett County.

Since my 27 years of residence in Garrett County, I have seen a great advancement in all areas. Never have we seen our roads in such good condition; our schools are constantly improving; a Community College; better police protection, recreational and industrial development. Garrett County is finally becoming more in time with the rest of the world. I feel that our present county administrators have been the best that we have ever seen in this county. They have worked together for the betterment of all of us and I say "A Job Well Done." I hope to see leadership in this county move towards more progressiveness.

For all those sentimentalists, I suggest that you take your mode of transportation out of Oakland and travel in from Rt. 219 North and park your "pony" along the road and just sit and gaze at that beautiful old landmark until the nostalgia fades away.

Ruth Glotfelty

Dear Sir:

Thieves Love Darkness! Therefore, Mr. Resident and merchants, please replace the lights in your home or place of business. This will help your Police Department check your premises more thoroughly.

Also, if you're going out of town, please give us a call and let us know so we can make checks on your premises while you're gone.

Thank you for your help in this matter.

Oakland City Police Department

Dear Mr. Sincell:

From time to time a letter appears in The Republican concerning the courthouse project. On several occasions, such as the week of October 9th, a concerned individual from out of the area has taken time to respond to local activities. I commend the individual for his interest. On the other hand, as one who lives here, has taken time to explore the facts, and has had occasion to transact business at the courthouse, I must disagree with the content of such letters as being nothing but hog wash.

The current county commissioners were under pressure from higher government agencies to improve the deplorable conditions that existed within the confines of the orginal structure.

Whether one is a visitor to our county or a truly concerned local citizen, I suggest that a visit be made to the courthouse once it has been completed. Take time to explore the decision-making process the commissioners exercised. Take a moment to weigh the alternatives.

Why the courthouse project has become such a heated issue is somewhat bewildering to me. When the facts are examined and alternatives weighed, then the commissioners should feel a great deal of pride in what they have accomplished. Something had to be done. I for one must commend our elected officials for involving the community and exercising judgment that shows concern for preserving the best of the past and creativity enough to allow for the future growth of Garrett County.

One from Friendsville
Who is Pleased with the Decision

Dear Editor:

Maryland has lost one of its best, with the death of our Congressman Goodloe E. Byron.

He did not become a Master of the people as many do in his position, but remained a humble servant to his constituents, offering to help in any way he could.

Congressman Byron stood for reducing Government spending and rendering services to the people.

The Opel family will certainly miss his personal relationship, as will the citizens of Garrett County in his close contacts and productivity in many of our problems.

Our condolence is expressed to his family and his many, many friends.

Sincerely,
Mr. and Mrs. Earl E. Opel

Dear Sir:

The decision of the County Commissioners to use supporting real estate for needed office space at the Courthouse was a good decision.

First, it should be observed that anyone familiar with the increased county work load knows that the need for space is great. We should be glad that Garrett County is a strong, growing and sound community. Moreover, we should be heartened by the determined strength of our local government to continue the control of local affairs.

Second, from an architectural point of view, it is a matter of taste. I believe the current work enhances the beauty of the original structure. Most of Oakland is on raised elevations and the view of the Courthouse is unimpaired. In the immediate front, on Third Street, most of what one saw before was the wall and steps.

Third, the financing was handled in a manner that protects and recalls for Garrett County its own tax dollars, previously taken by the Federal government.

Fourth, I would like to point to a similar problem in another county — namely Albemarle County, Virginia. There, as in Oakland, the Courthouse building was treasured. After all it was the forum for lawyers like Thomas Jefferson, Patrick Henry, James Monroe. There too the County had increased needs and built a second building nearby. But this proved inadequate. Now Albemarle has the jail many miles away; soil conservation is in the fourth building; building and zoning in a fifth location and other court activities are literally all over the place. Our local Commissioners faced this same issue intelligently and with foresight. The decision was faced with political courage because some have chosen not to understand. Our children will be glad the jail is not in Crellin; the Sheriff in McHenry; the Assessor in Kitzmiller. I salute the Commissioners.

Franklin W. Peters

Sir:

The letter last week by a person who signed, "Not So Ignorant as Some Think", may not be so smart either.

The Boards of County Commissioners have some part in selecting the County Assessors. Thus, they can, and do, have some influence upon our local assessment officials.

In regard to Inheritance Taxes, the writer of that letter ought to know that high valuations set by local assessment officers can result in higher inheritance taxes. Although the assessed valuation is not the only consideration, such figures are generally taken into account by real estate appraisers when they go out to set valuations for inheritance tax purposes.

Just as higher assessments have resulted in higher real estate taxes, they also bring about higher State taxes and higher state and federal inheritance taxes. There is no way of avoiding the extra burdens that stem from higher assessments.

Our officials here have encouraged our assessment officers in every possible manner to set the top figure valuations on most of our properties. It would be good to have a Board of County Commissioners who would be satisfied with the bottom figure assessments.

Also it will be good if after November 7, we can have a new Board of County Commissioners. This present Board is continuing to waste and spend. Since the Primary Election they have purchased 51 acres of land at Accident, paying three times its market value. They have borrowed from the banks to the hilt, and they have mortgaged the county to the State. They are trying to create additional debts. They have tried in every possible manner to usurp the prerogatives of the next Board of County Commissioners.

Clifford Friend,
Accident, Md.

Accidents Injure Several On Weekend

Friday and Saturday vehicle accidents injured several persons, mostly in the southern end of the county.

Donald Leroy Gore, Buena Vista Road, Oakland, was conveyed to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by a private party. He was northbound on Table Rock Road and noted an unreported traffic accident. He swerved to miss the vehicle involved, ran off the road and struck a tree. Tfc. D. H. Riggleman investigated the mishap, being about a mile south of Fairview Church Road, in late afternoon.

Shortly before this Ronald R. Likin, New Creek, W. Va., was taken to Potomac Valley Hospital by the Tri-Towns Ambulance. Randall S. Minnick, Keyser, W. Va., in a large truck, was eastbound on Md. 135 at the railroad bridge in Bloomington and had just started from a stopped position due to road construction. Likin, in a large truck, was also eastbound when his brakes failed and intentionally struck the Minnick vehicle in order to stop. Tfc. L. N. Smith investigated.

Two persons were injured in a Saturday afternoon mishap on U. S. 219 just south of Jasper Riley Road. Elizabeth and Judy Stemple were riding in a car driven by Alfred L. Stemple, all of Aurora, W. Va. John D. Ours, Thomas, W. Va., in a small truck, was northbound on Rt. 219 following the Stemple car. Stemple slowed to make a left turn into a gas station. Ours failed to reduce speed and collided with the Stemple car. Stemple said he had his turn signal on but Ours said 'no.' Tfc. Smith investigated.

Later in the afternoon, Douglas P. Thayer, Mt. Lake Park, a passenger in a car driven by James W. Reckart, RD 2, Oakland, was taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Southern Rescue Squad. Reckart was southbound on U. S. 219 just south of Paul Friend Road and attempted to pass another southbound vehicle. In doing so, he went off the left side of the road and struck a ditch. Tfc. Riggleman made the investigation.

Later that evening, Debra Diane Beckman, RD 3, Deer Park was also taken to the hospital by the Southern Rescue Squad. She was northbound on Rt. 219 just south of Gortner. The car went off the road, due to tire trouble, and struck an embankment. Tfc. Riggleman investigated this one also.

Real Estate
By DON CARSTENS
Deep Creek Realty

A REALISTIC APPROACH

During inflation (and we're in it), there's an excellent case for investing in real estate. Most of the investment is paid for with borrowed money. Someone else's fixed-dollar savings provides your mortgage money. Even though home prices have risen several notches each year, a mortgage loan is the only way the average consumer can borrow long-term money.

This, then, is your big chance to turn inflation to your advantage. Your mortgage gives you full-price dollars to work with today. You then pay them back with cheaper dollars you will be earning for the next 20 to 30 years. On top of that, with an average 6% inflation rate, home values double every 12 years.

This isn't a cynical approach. It's realistic. In fact, it's one of the main reasons why many wealthy individuals continue to make big real estate investments. And you can do the same with a home that you own and need anyway.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone one of our offices:

TV Workshops On Business Scheduled

Through the Appalachian Educational Satellite program, the Appalachian Regional Commission and the Small Business Administration have launched a pioneer television project to provide residents of 45 communities with information on how to build a successful business.

Locally, the project is being coordinated through the efforts of the Institute for Small Business of Frostburg State College, the Regional Education Service Agency (RESA), and Garrett Community College.

A pilot series of three TV workshops will continue to air on October 23 and 30 from the University of Kentucky studio in Lexington and be carried by NASA satellite to receiving sites in the 13 Appalachian states. Teletype and toll-free lines will allow for two-way exchanges during the broadcasts between workshop participants and a panel of experts in a central studio in Lexington.

The receiving station here is at the Allegany County Vocational-Technical Center near Cresaptown.

Filmed presentations by authorities on various aspects of small business will open each one-and-a-half-hour session, led off by SBA's Chief Counsel for Advocacy, Milton D. Stewart, and Dr. Pat Burr, Assistant Administrator for Management Assistance.

The second workshop will be on marketing techniques; and the third on financing. A panel will discuss the problems and issues of each subject area and answer questions from participating viewers.

More information can be obtained from the Institute for Small Business calling 689-4417 any week day from 8:30 to 4:30. Dave Berry, Management Assistance Specialist, is also available in Oakland each Thursday at the Garrett Community College Oakland Center, 104 East Center Street, from 10 to 2. He can be reached for additional information regarding the program by calling 334-8266.

Spiritual Program To Be Offered At St. Peter's Church

A new spiritual program will be offered at St. Peter's Catholic Church, Oakland, called Genesis 2. The opening night, a sample session, will be held this Sunday, October 22, at 7 p.m. at the church.

Genesis 2 is said to be one of the most successful new programs in the Catholic Church today, and very popular. More than 75,000 Catholics have experienced the program. The intent of the program is to fulfill the urgent need for adults to continue their spiritual journeys and find greater meaning in their lives.

Genesis 2 consists of film, audio cassettes and a complete leader's manual for guidance. Participants form small groups which are self-lead and self-sustaining, using the manual. The program is theologically sound, persuasive and proven in over 800 parishes and religious houses.

After Sunday evening's session, participants can decide whether or not to take part in the remainder of Genesis 2 sessions. The program is being offered by the Total Christian Education Center for Western Maryland. To register in Oakland call 334-2202 or in Grantsville, 895-5877.

The program was created in 1975 by a panel of priests, religious educators, film makers and consultants.

When active, the Paricutin volcano in central Mexico could spew 4 million pounds of rock and lava into the air in one minute.

Center For Public Broadcasting Motto Is "Plenty Of Action"

By Carol Canan

What It Is And Does

The Maryland Public Broadcasting system, in a nutshell, is a non-commercial broadcasting system funded by the Maryland General Assembly providing educational, informational and cultural programs carried by four stations in the state, and by many privately owned cable services in the immediate five-state area.

The heart of Maryland's PBS is located in the middle of a state game farm, at Owings Mills near Baltimore, and houses all divisions of the system.

Because the PBS does not sell air time to advertisers, it is able to offer a variety of program services to specific audiences and to explore new programming ideas. Some of the shows appearing in the past year included "Wall Street Week," "Nature's Trail," "The Critic's Place," "Maryland Weekend," and "The Electric Company." Specials included "Baltimore Clipper: The Ship That Launched a Port" and "David Copperfield: Once Upon A Classic."

Some of the shows have won awards from such sources as the National Association of Educational Broadcasters, Chicago '77 Design Competition for Promotional Art Work, Maryland Agricultural Safety and Health Federation Safety Award, Office of Tourist Development, and Corporation for Public Broadcasting.

The Center's annual budget includes General Funds appropriated by the General Assembly, and special funds generated by the Center itself. Center memberships increased by almost 50 percent during the past year, and more than 25,000 Maryland families bought memberships for $15, $35, $50, or $100. In addition, various corporations such as Black and Decker, the Bendix Corp., C&P Telephone, and many others are underwriters for part of the cost. Approximately 40 percent of the annual budget comes from sources other than the government.

Public television in this state is the responsibility of the Maryland Public Broadcasting Commission, whose 11 members are appointed by the governor for five-year terms. The commission is the FCC licensee for all Maryland public television stations and oversees the operations through its prime institution, the Maryland Center for Public Broadcasting.

Approximately 60 series are broadcast each schoolyear on state public TV stations for use in classrooms across the state and a substantial portion of these are produced at the Division of Instructional Television at the Maryland Center.

The Maryland Center also has a common curriculum of televised college credit courses. Students enroll in the nearest participating college, take courses on television at home, and then return to the college for examinations. Semester enrollments in Maryland exceed 3,000.

An unusual project at the Center is the broadcast of training courses for employed to undertake at their place of work. These courses, concentrating on management skills, are part of the training program for many Baltimore-Washington area businesses, government agencies and other organizations.

The Center also established in 1974 a department to provide video-cassettes of programs for non-broadcast use. The programs are available for purchase or rental at moderate fees, and a complete catalog of all currently available programs is offered by the Center.

What Public Broadcasting Means To Garrett County

Right now the Maryland Center has four transmitters on the air across the state, one at the center, one for station WMPB in Salisbury, one for WWPB in Hagerstown, and one at WAPB in Annapolis.

At present, plans are in the research and funding stage for a fifth transmitter, in the Table Rock section of Garrett County. The Center is presently awaiting an FCC construction permit, the legal document needed to build a UHF channel.

A decision has not yet been made, however, on whether the PBS will erect a transmitter, at a cost of a third of a million dollars, or a translator which simply picks up signals from another broadcast channel. The transmitter would be operated remotely from the Hagerstown station, which would mean operating funds are needed each year. A translator, however, is much less expensive to erect and requires only maintenance funds rather than operating funds. The signal quality would not be significantly altered, according to Richard Breitenfeld, Jr., executive director.

All television owners on the local cable system and most antennas would be able to pick up the UHF wavelength. At the present time, the Center hopes to have either a transmitter or a translator in operation he by next summer.

Continues on Page Eleven

Frederick Breitenfeld, Jr., executive director for the Maryland Center for Public Broadcasting, interviewed Judge Fred A. Thayer at his home Monday afternoon. Dr. Breitenfeld and his crew had prepared an interview earlier in the day with Dr. Alta Schrock, county biologist and historian and a teacher at Frostburg State College. Questions asked Judge Thayer in the unrehearsed taping were about his family, which settled here about 1818, his career, east vs. west Maryland customs and economic factors, young people and job opportunities here, and the county's "mixed blessing" role as Vacationland.

This remote field recording unit, fondly called "the truck" by the Maryland Center crew, may be unwieldy in size, but it makes the film crew self-sufficient and keeps thousands of dollars camera equipment including screens and control panels, accessible to almost any filming site.

Don Toms, TV director, helps get all in readiness for an interview at the home of Judge and Mrs. Fred Thayer. Don is seated at one of the control centers in the remote field recording unit, which is completely self-contained (including all necessary power) for any type of television filming.

Lugging camera and audio equipment in, and then back out is all part of the daily scene for crews working with the Maryland Public Broadcasting System. Crew members all seemed to work well together, with the ease of practice, and not even chilling rains could keep them from their appointed jobs.

What A Filming Weekend Can Be Like

Lives of television filming crews are not simply "Lights, camera, ACTION" roles. Being involved with television is a lot more complicated, and crewmen must be just as prepared to move furniture and rearrange rooms as to stand behind a camera.

Much advance planning is necessary, and for the Maryland Center for Public Broadcasting, this is started at the headquarters in Owings Mills. The staff has brainstorms to determine what new personalities to interview, what festivals or projects, crafts or ideas should be featured.

Contacts with necessary people are made, and schedules worked out detailing when and where the crew will be sent. Just this past weekend the crews combined two activities, interviews and festivals, with Autumn Glory highlights and talks with Dr. Alta Schrock, Grantsville, head of the Penn Alps complex, and Fred A. Thayer III, Associate Judge of the Sixth District, from Oakland.

The crew, consisting of engineering and production personnel, got into their various cars and the remote field recording unit (thereafter called truck) and came up here on Thursday.

As a sampling of their Autumn Glory workout, they arrived late Thursday, set up three cameras at the Southern gym Friday night for the banjo show, then on Saturday struck (moved) two cameras and all related equipment to the athletic field for the Tournament of Bands, then took these two cameras to the antique show, then to the parade, and then carted them back to the Southern gym for the fiddlers' contest. Sunday was a deserved day of rest, and then Monday there were interviews at the northern and then southern ends of the county. All crew members seemed to agree Garrett County is beautiful, and even the damp and chill did not dim their enthusiasm.

A crew of fourteen was needed here for all stages of a production this size from helping rearrange the furniture to create a proper stage for the show, to setting up all the audio and camera equipment and to monitoring and controlling the tapings.

The central control is located in the truck, which contains a generator and also pulls a larger generating unit so that the crew is totally self-sustaining as far as power. The truck has logged over 38,000 miles in the past months traveling all across the state and even to Roanoke, Va., where the crews recently taped an outdoor gospel revival.

Simply to set up the equipment requires over an hour, sometimes two. Expensive, complicated and sophisticated equipment is carried around and set up, plugged in and tested. Audio is checked, and then the cameras are "sighted in" with cards with gradients of black, gray and white so the color will be perfect. If necessary, some of the production crew assists those who are to be filmed with touches of makeup so they look their best on camera.

Who are these people who spend their time going from site to site lugging heavy equipment and preparing interviews? First of all there is Dr. Breitenfeld, the executive director. Adele Ennison was the producer for the shows taped here, Susan Weaver project assistant, and Don Toms, TV director. Bob Hamm, Phil Wroy and Paul Wilkerson manned the truck, and cameramen and assistants are Steve Grayden, Charles Cardwell, Barry Oxendine, Tim Shaffer and George Fridel. Anthony Giuffre is remote production supervisor.

The two interviews filmed Monday will probably appear over the public broadcasting station in December, as part of the "In Person" interviews which appear weekly. A one-hour Special will focus on major events of the Autumn Glory festival, and will probably appear early next year.

This is the time of year to start thinking about cleaning your flue.

HAVE YOU CONSIDERED FURNITURE IN DIFFERENT SHAPES?

Take a look at the average living room. Very often much of the furniture in the room has the same shape, and while you don't want a reckless hodge podge of furniture, it's still generally a good idea to have some furniture in different shapes to increase the interest in a room.

For instance, the pieces in a given room may be either mostly rectangular or mostly curved. In that case, why not consider, for example, something like a curved table in front of a rectangular sofa or a rectangular table in front of a curved sofa - or a chair in a different shape, or some piece of furniture somewhere in the room that offers a good contrast if your room has too much of the same shapes.

A new mirror or picture that's in a different shape and proportion than the furniture in a room may bring some new excitement, and that goes for any accessory that can give you needed shapes that your rooms don't now have.

The best bet is come in and browse around with an eye towards how the shape of a piece can really help one of your rooms.

Whether you are looking for the usual or the unusual, you'll always find good furniture values here.

So, please feel free to stop in and see us at your convenience. We're here to serve you.

Although Dennis, a 1972 graduate of Southern High School, did not play on his high school varsity basketball team he became a star on the Garrett Community College and Bridgewater College, Virginia, teams.

The Baltimore Metros, who play a 47-game schedule, are conducting twice-a-day drills in preparation for their October 27 opener against the Rochester Zeniths. The Baltimore franchise is affiliated with the Washington Bullets, Atlanta Hawks, and Milwaukee Bucks of the NBA.

The Metros held a rookie camp September 15 at Lake Clifton High School. Gibson, a six-foot-six forward, was among the forty-eight hopefuls vying for ten invitations to training camp. His play enabled him to be one of the ten rookies plus several others from around the country invited back to training camp October 9-11.

The other nine rookies who were added to the Metros roster of 35 for the training camp included Galen Baker, a six-foot-four guard from the University of Southwest Louisiana, who played for Seattle and the Harlem Globetrotters last year; Vic Kelly, a five-foot-six guard from the University of Hawaii, who was a high school All-American at Western High School in Washington, and Tony Vaz, a six-foot-four guard from Johnson C. Smith University. Also among the ten invited back were Eric Evans, a six-foot-nine center and Jim Gorman, a six-foot-five guard from Morgan State University; Brian Matthews, a six-foot-six guard-forward, and Rod Norris, a five-foot-eight, from Towson State University; George Pinchback, a six-foot-five forward from the University of Baltimore; and Billy Gordon, a six-foot-three guard from the University of Maryland-Eastern Shore.

On October 13, coach and general manager, Larry Cannon, trimmed the Metros roster to 20 and Gibson was among them. He is playing small forward.

Dennis played for coaches Dennis Fearnow and Don Douds while he was at Garrett Community College, and was voted the Most Improved Player on the Laker team in 1974. He has also been the dominant player in the Mt. Top Basketball League the past two seasons leading Martin's Auto Body to a 30-1 record.

Dennis is a son of Mrs. Caroline Gibson, Crellin.

Beall High Shatters Record In Northern Huskie Defeat, 51-0

Undefeated Beall High romped to a school record win, 51-0 over the Northern Huskies in a Highland Conference clash at Northern Friday evening.

The Mounties matched a 462 yard tally, with 381 on the ground and 81 passing to Northern's 37 and 43 respectively. Beall now stands at 5-0 as they try to break their 1967 school record of 6-0.

Bryon Arnone was responsible for two of Beall's touchdowns on runs of six and 12 yards as he led offense along with Steve Langan and John Adams.

Langan had a five-yard run for a TD and Adams scored from the one. Duane Miller added a five-yarder for another TD with Randy Munson also going five yards for a score. Jim Dixon rushed by a pass interception for 21 yards to score.

Miller, Langan, Dixon and Arnone ran for two-point conversions and Bret Arnone kicked one of the extra points.

Beall, which has held its opponents to only 15 points total this season, stalemated the Huskies' 37 yards rushing with Marty Thomas, Reford Ramhoff, Arnone and Adams being the defensive stars.

Northern, falling to 0-6, was never closer than the Mounties' 40 and then sacrificed the ball on downs. The Huskies match seven first downs to Beall's 16, and went six for 18 on passes against Beall's four for seven.

WEST VIRGINIA HORNPIPE — The "West Virginia Hornpipe" was the winning number in the Autumn Glory Fiddlers' Contest, performed by Allan Birkby of Greensburg, Pa.

Deputy Dave Enlow Graduates Friday

Deputy David Enlow graduated Friday, October 13, from the 12-week police training course at the Maryland Police Academy. With Deputy Enlow's graduation, all nine deputies employed by Sheriff John Evans, Jr., have completed the course.

Three deputies have taken specialized training at the Academy, in criminal investigation, K-9, and firearms divisions.

Two dispatchers at the sheriff's office, Mike Stem and Dan Rumer, completed the correctional officers training course at Jessup during the past several weeks.

Deputies are required to attend in-service training courses every two years by the Maryland Police Commission. That course is a 40-hour refresher, and also teaches law officers new police methods.

OPEL SPEAKS

During my campaigning I have been confronted with numerous suggestions and questions, and due to my previous experience I have been capable of offering various proposals and answers to most of the questions. I take this opportunity to tell the voters of the county where I stand.

Question: What would you try to do in regards to our inflationary assessments and the tax rate?

Answer: First of all the County Commissioners do not govern tax assessments; however, we can request our Legislators to enact legislation if in any way possible to "freeze" assessments in Garrett County. Since this is a state wide concern, with a coordinated effort of all the legislators, it certainly could be a state wide issue. The tax rate has to be adjusted by the budgetary requests of the twenty-eight departments in the county. The commissioners should study the budgets in depth to protect our tax dollars. We have to consider our needs, estimate the incoming revenues, and set the tax rate accordingly.

Question: How do you feel about our senior citizens?

Answer: I quote, "Every feasible effort should be made to provide a healthy and comfortable atmosphere for them."

Question: From the Northern part of the county: When the Grantsville School is vacated would you consider as a commissioner to utilize the building as a service center?

Answer: Yes, with proper management and feasible sponsorship. I feel a community center that could be used for Senior Citizen programs, community purposes and youth center for the area would be an advantage to the area. Considering the size of the building, the possibility of renting office spaces would help to defray the cost of the center.

Question: Since you were commissioner chairman of the Roads Department four years, 1971-1975, do you feel there should be an up-grading of the department?

Answer: Yes, specifically in the area of the replacement of old equipment, which we depend upon, especially in the winter months. We have a climatic situation in Garrett County we cannot control. Too much money is being spent on repair parts and maintenance on some equipment that is twenty plus years old. Work slows down when equipment is idle. The commissioners are duly responsible for the purchase of new equipment which is beneficial to "all" the citizens of Garrett County.

Question: How would you feel about having a woman appointed to the Garrett County School Board?

Answer: I think it may be an advantage to have a QUALIFIED woman or women on the school board. Due to the fact that we have a larger number of mothers attending PTA meetings, and are being involved in educational projects, I feel a woman would have an advantage of knowing what is necessary to improve the educational welfare of our children.

Election Of Polish Pontiff Departs From Italian Traditions

VATICAN CITY (UPI) – A chorus of prayers and congratulations from around the globe has pledged support to Pope John Paul II, who already is displaying the gift of conciliation he learned defending the Roman Catholic faith in Poland.

At the outset of his historic reign, the Polish pontiff won a warm reception from his former opponents in Warsaw's Communist government, whose leaders cabled their "great satisfaction" and said they would aid pilgrims anxious to see their countryman take office this weekend.

The vigorous, 58-year-old former archbishop of Krakow displayed his statesmanship in turn by pledging "to extend our hand and open our heart" to all the world's oppressed peoples. But at the same time he promised no "political interference or participation in worldly affairs."

John Paul also spoke out on ecclesiastical affairs. He promised to give his bishops a greater voice in running the church but warned both liberals and conservatives alike he expected obedience.

Italy's outspoken Civilta Cristiana movement, the traditionalist group that bitterly criticized Pope Paul VI for the liberal influences he brought to the church, reversed its years of opposition to the Vatican and issued a jubilant statement hailing the first non-Italian pope in 455 years.

"The Catholics of Civilta Cristiana express their pleasure over the election to the throne of Peter of a son of Marian Poland, an authentically heroic and forever Catholic land, a bulwark of Christian civilization against the barbarians. The church of silence and its martyrs triumph today in the august persons of the vicar of Christ."

John Paul, who is one of the youngest men elected pope in modern times, set Sunday as the date for the ceremonies that will invest him formally in his role as the leader of the worldwide church.

The Vatican released no details of the ceremony, but it was expected to parallel closely the simple investiture chosen by Pope John Paul I, who spurned the traditional gold and silver papal crown in favor of a simple white shawl or pallium to symbolize his reign.

John Paul spent his first full day as pope Tuesday learning about some of the more mundane aspects of the papacy — such as finding his way around the vast Vatican Palace and making ritual benedictions.

In taking the name of his Italian predecessor, who reigned over the church only 34 days, John Paul II paid homage to the warmth and humanity of the late Albino Luciani.

The former Cardinal Karol Wojtyla continued his predecessor's pastoral tradition by making an unprecedented visit to a Rome hospital less than 24 hours after his election.

The pope visited for 15 minutes with Polish Bishop Andrzej Deskur, a longtime colleague who suffered a stroke last week.

He spoke afterwards, in Italian, to a gathering of hospital officials, doctors, nurses and patients. As he concluded his remarks he waved to the patients, called out the traditional Polish benediction, "Praise be to Jesus Christ," and turned to walk out.

Bishop Giuseppe Caprio, the Vatican's undersecretary of state placed his hand on the pontiff's arm, leaned over and whispered briefly in his ear.

John Paul's face broke into a broad grin and his light blue eyes twinkled.

"The undersecretary tells me this is not enough," the pope said. "I still have to give the benediction. He tells me how a pope should behave."

The crowd burst into laughter and applause. Then John Paul blessed the onlookers with the sign of the cross and recited the Latin verse usually intoned by popes when they visit outside the Vatican.

Baltimore's Crime Index Indicates Marked Decrease

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Reports of violent crime in Baltimore decreased 3.5 percent in the first nine months of 1978, but major crime rose 0.4 percent, police said.

Police spokesman Michael Bass said Tuesday that murders rose 22 percent and forcible rapes were up 8.3 percent. Bass said robberies were down by 1.9 percent and aggravated assault by 6.9.

Compared to the first nine months of 1970, police said the number of overall crimes committed decreased 17.7 percent.

Burglary was up 2.6 percent, larceny rose 3.4 percent but auto thefts declined 11.5 percent, the police report said. Property crime increased 1.4 percent.

Bass said 28.6 percent of the 49,454 major crimes reported were cleared by arrests or charges, compared to a national average of 21 percent. He said juveniles accounted for 47.5 percent of those arrested.

Cleared were:

—84.7 percent of murders, compared to the national average of 79 percent.

—60.5 percent of rapes. The national average is 52 percent.

—26.4 of robberies, up from the national avearge of 27 percent.

—61.4 percent of aggravated assault cases, an increase from the national average of 63 percent.

Bass said arrests were made in 28.5 percent of reported auto thefts, compared to the national average of 14 percent.

President Carter To Decide Soon On Future Of Tax-Cut Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter will decide in the next day or so whether to sign the $18.6 billion tax-cut bill, based on recommendations of the Treasury Department and other experts, according to White House officials.

He also plans to take a new look at key legislative proposals that failed to pass in the last congressional session to determine if they warrant a priority tag next year.

Carter's three major disappointments in the 95th Congress were the failure to create a department of education and a consumer advocacy agency and to provide supplemental financial or "countercyclical" revenue sharing assistance for cities.

The officials indicated that as a result of a Memorial Day memo urging Carter to use the veto as one of his own legislative weapons, he was able to establish the best legislative record since Lyndon Johnson.

Congressional liaison Frank Moore, domestic affairs adviser Stuart Eizenstat and national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski reviewed Carter's legislative accomplishments for reporters under ground rules prohibiting direct quotation.

Carter's staff claims to be as busy now as they were at the end of the session, analyzing 189 bills — "several" with red flags that may be added to Carter's present list of six vetoes.

But the senior aides declined to speculate whether Carter would veto the tax legislation, which is short on the reforms he wanted and provides hefty capital gains benefits for the middle and upper class taxpayers — which he did not ask.

"We are pleased to report the administration and the 95th Congress has achieved a record of accomplishment unmatched since the 89th Congress," Moore and Eizenstat said in a memo to Carter.

They listed as successes the comprehensive energy plan, Panama Canal treaties, civil service reform, Mideast arms sales, Humphrey-Hawkins full employment bill, New York City assistance, waterway user fees, ethics standards for government, airline deregulation, new judgeships, extension of the Equal Rights Amendment ratification deadline, D.C. representation amendment, comprehensive employment and training amendments, lifting the Turkish arms embargo, nuclear nonproliferation, foreign intelligence wiretaps, mass transit, elementary and secondary education improvements and middle-income student assistance.

Carter's aides said they sent too much major legislation to Congress in 1977, and reassessed the situation several times in 1978 to avoid the same mistake.

Their Memorial Day memo spelled out the use of the veto as "a weapon in the president's arsenal."

They said Carter would reassess all of his legislative proposals — including such campaign promises as the education department and labor law reform — in late December and early January and make a new agenda for the 96th Congress.

Begin Denies Reports Of A Peace-Talks Halt

JERUSALEM (UPI) — A source in Prime Minister Menachem Begin's office says reports that peace talks with Egypt may end "within a few days" are exaggerated.

The delay in the signing of the peace treaty apparently is related to an Egyptian demand to link it in some way to the future of the West Bank, another source in Begin's office said Tuesday.

The comment on the delay came following a 4¼-hour Cabinet meeting in which Begin reported on progress in the talks.

One source in the prime minister's office said optimistic reports that the talks may end "within a few days" are exaggerated. He did not elaborate although a Foreign Ministry official said earlier: "We are getting only optimistic noises from Washington."

Earlier, the newspaper Yediot Aharonot reported from Washingon Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan and acting Egyptian Foreign Minister Butros Ghali had discussed the West Bank problem.

The report said it had been agreed the introduction to the peace treaty will say: "Israel does not ignore the Palestinian problem and wants to solve it in the spirit of the framework for peace in the Middle East that was achieved at Camp David."

Egypt can in this way, the report said, show the Arab world that despite the signing of the peace treaty with Israel it has not turned traitor to the Arab cause. Israel also would not obligate itself to something it has not previously promised.

The Cabinet is receiving continuous reports by telephone and telex from the Israeli delegation in Washington and another meeting was expected Friday.

Earlier in the day, the prime minister briefed the parliamentary Foreign Affairs and Defense committee on the talks.

He said Egypt and Israel have decided to create an arbitration committee composed of representatives of different countries to settle future disputes between them, according to participants in the four-hour briefing.

Gaza Mayor Rashad Shawwa will travel to Beirut for talks with Palestinian Liberation Leader Yasser Arafat to coordinate positions on the proposed autonomy for residents of the Israeli occupied Arab territories, a local news agency said.

Gaza religious leader Hashem Huzandar gave military authorities a list of 125 Gaza Strip residents who want to go to Egypt to congratulate President Sadat on the peace momentum. But the news agency said Egypt has approved only 60 of the participants.

Alcohol Reports Indicate Rise In Teen Usage

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Three out of four American teen-agers drink alcohol and one of every five gets drunk at least once a month, according to a new government report on alcoholism.

It's part of an alarming trend that has seen the United States climb to third place in the world behind Russia and Finland in per-capita consumption of liquor, HEW Secretary Joseph Califano said Tuesday.

In the 138-page report, soon to be delivered to Congress, HEW said 10 million adult Americans either are alcoholics or problem drinkers who may be on their way to alcoholism. That is one in 14 adults.

Another 3.3 million young people in high school — one out of evey five in the age group — have had problems with parents, school officials, their peers or the police because of drinking, the report said.

"Excessive consumption of alcohol takes a terrible toll on the health, safety ane happiness of millions of Americans," said Califano in a statement accompanying HEW's third such report on drinking and health. The others were in 1971 and 1974.

Califano said HEW is developing goals and initiatives for a national plan to curb alcohol abuse.

In the meantime, this report documents the scope of the need for action," he said.

The report defined an adult problem drinker as one who imbibes to such an extent that physical, mental or social functioning is impaired, while an alcoholic has a chronic addiction to drink. Drinking problems among the young are not quite as chronic, it said, but noted:

"The concern over increased alcohol consumption in youth is heightened by the observation that early drinking behavior predicts drinking habits in later life."

Anne Arundel Officials Find Lice Infestations In County Schools

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — Anne Arundel County health officials say lice infestations have been found at 19 schools in the county.

Charles Yost, a spokesman for the county health department, said Tuesday about three children at each of the 19 schools were found to be carrying the lice and were sent home.

He said the lice, which nests in human scalps, does not cause disease but results in itching and discomfort.

Officials have urged parents of the affected children to wash bed linens and clothing, which can transmit the parasite.

Congress Passes Many Major Bills As 95th Session Draws To End

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress ended its 95th session in a manner that has veteran staffers still shaking their heads.

The session's final days, which usually stretched into late nights, saw an unusually large number of major bills come up for consideration in both the House and Senate.

The number of bills passed or killed in the final days may not have set a record, but their significance was highly unusual.

"I can't remember so much major legislation moving in the final hours of a closing session of Congress," said a House staff member, who has been working with Congress for 36 years.

"So many of the big things were backed up at the end where usually we have just one thing holding us in check," a veteran Senate staffer said.

The energy package, stalled by a filibuster in the Senate; the tax bill, slowly put into final form by a House-Senate conference committee; and the Humphrey-Hawkins jobs bill, revived after being all but given up for dead, got most of the attention. But there were many other big items on Congress' closing agenda.

Congress finally quit Sunday night after a final, 34-hour marathon session unmatched in a century.

The remaining work was too important to let many of the members sneak off for their own early adjournment.

"At 3:30 Sunday morning we had 75 people voting in the Senate," a Senate staffer noted. "Normally, many of them would have been heading back home. They would have been long gone."

There seems to be general agreement on the reasons behind the unusual finale. President Carter was a big factor, the veteran staffers say.

"We had a president who was a political novice in terms of learning to work with Congress and it took about one and a half sessions to turn that around," said one.

Carter was not the only one new in his job. "This was a strange Congress in that we had a new president together with new leadership in both houses," a Senate staffer noted. House Republican Leader John Rhodes was the only holdover leader from the 94th Congress.

The leadership probably will be unchanged when the 96th Congress opens up for business in January and Carter will have two years of experience behind him.

"The next session will probably be a little more orderly, if Congress can ever be said to be orderly. This was not an orderly end of a session," said the Senate veteran.

A widespread feeling of independence among House members was cited as another factor in delaying major decisions until the end of the session. "There is a great deal of individuality in the House today that is not responsive to suggestion or the wishes of the leadership," a House staffer said.

Vance Encounters Diplomatic Trouble

PRETORIA, South Africa (UPI) — Secretary of State Cyrus Vance has met serious difficulties in his bid to get South Africa to accept a U.N. independence plan for Namibia, placing the vital diplomatic mission in jeopardy.

"We are working tonight, I don't know about tomorrow," said South Afrian Prime Minister Pieter Botha Tuesday after two days of talks on Namibia's future with the representatives of five Western nations, led by Vance.

Vance has tried for two days to persuade Pretoria to abandon its plans to hold elections in the territory in favor of a U.N. plan for an internationally supervised ballot to create an independent Namibia next year in the former German colony of South West Africa.

Vance Tuesday decided to stay on beyond the scheduled two days of talks in hopes of securing a face-saving compromise in the negotiations that face an Oct. 23 deadline when progress must be reported to the U.N. Security Council.

But at the end of Tuesday's talks — which also include representatives of West Germany, Canada, France and Britain — South African Foreign Minister Roelf Botha said:

"A difficult situation has arisen. It requires serious consideration and analysis.

Reinforcing the pessimism, State Department spokesman Hodding Carter said: "We are in the middle of difficult and substantive negotiations."

Failure to agree on an internationally acceptable future for the disputed territory — occupied by South Africa since the end of World War I — could escalate the black nationalist war there.

American sources have said if they left Pretoria empty-handed, the Security Council might invoke economic sanctions against South Africa.

Neither side would disclose details of the talks that are bogged down and apparently close to deadlock over an election date and U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim's proposal to send 7,500 troops to police the region until independence.

The South Africans say 4,000 troops would be adequate and want their elections Dec. 4.

City Jail Guard May Have Aided Prisoners Escape

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The state's attorney office is investigating allegations that a city jail guard passed a gun to one of three inmates who escaped from the facility Labor Day, it was reported today.

The Baltimore Sun quoted sources that Kenneth Suggs, a 23-year-old inmate at the jail, saw the guard deliver the gun to one of the escaping inmates and also told investigators that six guns had been buried in a horseshoe pit on the jail grounds. But no weapon was found after a search of the jail grounds.

Calvin Lightfoot, acting deputy warden of security, said Suggs has been transferred to the Baltimore County Jail for his own protection.

Lightfoot said Suggs was cooperating with the state's attorney's office, but "neither my office nor anyone else at the jail has been told how that investigation is progressing."

WAR BOND RECIPIENT — Ken Custer, left, accompanies his son during the Autumn Glory Banjo Competition held at Southern High School Friday evening. Ken participated in the banjo competition himself with his sons accompanying him. He was awarded a war bond as the oldest competitor.

The game is almost over, and this is the critical moment. The final score hangs on what Ken does with that ball. If he is successful, he will be the hero of the day. If he isn't, people may not entirely blame him, but even so.

Throughout our lives, even if we never touch a football, we cannot avoid coming up against moments when the "final score" depends upon our actions.

Decision-making is never easy, especially when the decision involves others as well as ourselves, and major decisions almost always do. This is when we need a place to go where we can empty our hearts and souls and let the peace and understanding which is God's flow into us. . . that place is the church.

There's an old Arab story about a desert chieftan who was awakened in his tent in the middle of the night by a strange noise. "Who's there?" he called. "It's only me," replied his camel. "It's so cold outside that I just stuck my nose inside the tent to keep it warm." Anxious to get back to sleep, the Arab grumbled, "Oh, all right, but you come in no further."

Rev. Althouse

After a while, the Arab awoke again and this time his camel explained that it had gotten so cold that he had stuck his head in to keep it warm. "All right," growled the chieftan, "but that's as far as you come." The tent was getting crowded and the Arab was beginning to be cramped for space.

As the first rays of sunlight came flooding over the desert, the Arab awoke shivering outside his tent while the camel slept peacefully and snugly inside!

The Power Of Looking

The moral of this shaggy camel story is obviously that if you give some people or things a small part of your life, they may end up taking over everything. If you want to keep the camel out, you don't allow even his nose inside your tent.

This is what Jesus is saying when he interprets the commandment, "You shall not commit adultery." Many of his contemporaries were smug in their belief that this commandment would never stand as a judgement upon them, they had no intention to commit adultery.

Jesus punctured their smugness when he said, "But I say to you that everyone who looks at a woman lustfully has already committed adultery with her in his heart" (Matthew 5:28). But who can escape such a judgement? The answer: very few. And the meaning is that one does not escape sin by stopping short of the act of adultery. It is the lustful thought that eventually produces the lustful act.

Lock All Windows

Jesus is also saying that, if we want to keep from committing adultery, the best place to set up our defences is with our thoughts and feelings. This is where adultery first takes place — just as murder first becomes possible in hateful thoughts — and it is here that we must begin our resistance to temptation. If we entertain what seem to be "harmless" thoughts, we are likely to find that we will be more and more engrossed in them until at last the final step into action is easy and uninhibited.

Someone has rightly observed that, if you want to keep thieves out of your house it is not enough simply to lock the front and back doors and perhaps the first floor windows. The whole house must be secured. Many a presumably secure house has been violated through an unlocked basement window. And so it is with all the temptations of life. If we would keep them out of our lives, we must deny them every entrance.

HOW MUCH WATER SHOULD YOU DRINK?
All living cells of the body function in a fluid environment. This fluid is steadily lost through the gastrointestinal and urinal tracts. More is lost by perspiration and through the lungs. It must be replaced because the skin cannot absorb moisture from the air no matter how humid the day.
The body usually functions best if two quarts of liquids are taken in each day. One quart is considered the minimum. So estimate how much you get each day in coffee, etc., and drink additional water to help keep you healthier.

Re: Alcohol

Dear Fellow Garrett Countians:

Alcohol, like money, is often the cause of many crimes. It is a contributing factor in the full spectrum of crimes - from murder to disorderly conduct.

The public is most likely to be affected by the abuse of alcohol in the form of the drunk driver. The drinking driver is a menace, not only to himself, but also to his family and other persons using the roads.

The drinking driver is quite often a person with a job and a family, and, otherwise, is a low abiding citizen. Because of the potential for harm to himself and others, I feel the State's Attorney's office has an obligation to seek representative punishment.

I feel that, as a minimum, all persons convicted of driving under the influence or impaired ability should be required to attend the Drunk Driver School.

As your State's Attorney, I will place strong emphasis on eliminating, as much as possible, alcohol-related offenses, especially drunk driving, through positive action and enforcement.

Sincerely,

Thomas B. Dabney, Jr.

POLICY + PERFORMANCE = LEADERSHIP

Government touches our lives in many different ways. In sharp contrast to his opponent, Wayne Hamilton knows that many of the most important public agencies are only indirectly subject to the authority of the County Commissioners - and Wayne Hamilton understands the subtle limits of that authority.

The true leadership that comes from EARNED RESPECT is especially vital when a County Commissioner is trying to influence the decisions of an independent agency such as the Board of Education or the Hospital Board. Wayne Hamilton HAS that leadership, and has effectively used that influence for a better Garrett County.

This ad continues the list of Wayne's accomplishments. It discusses education - an activity that is not controlled by County Commissioners, but one that could be seriously damaged by an ill-informed or antagonistic Commissioner. Rather than indulging in unjustified criticism of our County's graduates, Wayne has used his time in office working FOR continued improvement of educational opportunities in Garrett.

EDUCATION

Wayne's Policy

Education is the key to the future. More than half the County budget goes to education - undoubtedly the most important investment of our tax dollars for the long-term betterment of the people of Garrett County.

Government must assure that this money is invested wisely; it must provide the facilities, the materials and the skilled faculty to give our young people the BEST education we can afford. Only thus can we fulfull our profound obligation to help prepare our youth for making a productive contribution to their community, whether here in Garrett County or wherever they may choose to live.

Now that we are entering a period of stable enrollments and adequate facilities, we must seize the opportunity to turn our resources to even further improvements in the CONTENT and QUALITY of education.

Wayne's Performance

Educational policy is set by independent bodies such as the Board of Education, the Community College Trustees, and State and Federal agencies. The County Commissioners have very little, if any, direct control over actions by these bodies. Wayne Hamilton's experience and leadership, however, have placed him in a key position to help implement educational policy by providing needed facilities. Working as a County Commissioner, and as the former chairman of Tri-County Council, Wayne's efforts have:

•Assured that Garrett County obtains its fair share of modern, State-funded educational facilities. During Wayne's two terms, four new schools have been built - elementary schools at Friendsville and Broad Ford, middle schools at Broad Ford and Northern. Construction is about to start on a new elementary school at Grantsville, and another will follow soon at Accident. By providing sites and paying the local architectural costs, the County will have obtained more than $12 million from the State to finance these projects - another example of bringing our tax payments back home to Garrett.

•Provided sufficient County funding to pay every salary increase negotiated for teachers during the past eight years. The Commissioners have no control over the collective bargaining process, but they have honored their obligation to make the process work so that our teachers will be compensated according to negotiated increases.

•Assured the necessary budgetary support for expansion of vocational education facilities and programs.

•Obtained Appalachian Regional Commission funds for sound growth at Garrett Community College. By prompt action through Tri-County Council, GCC was provided not only $247,500 for the badly needed Vocational Technical Center but also an additional $416,000 for the Coal Mining Technology Center.

•Supported enactment of the "Reciprocity" law that allows Garrett Community College graduates to pay in-state (Maryland) tuition completing their four-year program at Shepherd College or West Virginia University.

Although Wayne has been most heavily involved as a community leader in health-care matters, his knowledge and experience in educational matters have not been overlooked. Wayne has been appointed to serve on the Governor's Commission on Funding of Education (Barnes Commission), which will have a vital role in determining whether the State will continue to fulfill its obligations in financing education or will try to shift the financial burden onto the Counties. Only three of 25 members on this Commission represent County Government - and Garrett can be proud that Wayne is one of those three.

They were prepared by the churches participating in the Inter-Lutheran Commission on Worship, namely the Lutheran Church in America, the American Lutheran, the Evangelical Lutheran Church of Canada and the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod. To acquaint the members of the choir with the new hymnal, Pastor Mitchell is teaching an eight-week course on the book, "Lutherans at Worship." Thirteen members of Emmanuel's choir attended a music workshop on the new hymnal at LaVale. Another one will be held at Clarksburg, W. Va. on Saturday, October 21.

Note. I am not allowed to use the words, b- - r, w- -e, or name any kind of l- - - -r in this column. This policy was established 102 years ago by our advertising department, (the same people still work in that department). Therefore, I shall use "your favorite beverage," in place of b—r, w—e, or l—r.

Well, the 11th annual Autumn Glory Festival is over — finally. Despite unpleasant weather at times, the festivities were successful. One of the most enjoyable events was the first annual Oktoberfest held at the Oakland Firehall on Thursday evening.

The Oktoberfest celebration featured a genuine German "Oom-Pah" Band. I was in the band. I didn't actually play with them, but I played accordion solos in between sets.

I had stagefright. I've almost never played in front of an audience before, and I learned several things. First of all, accordion players are a dying breed, (and after that evening I was sure I was dying).

When people see an accordion player, they usually expect, (1) to be approached by a monkey holding a tin cup, (2) the accordion player will play polkas.

I hardly ever play polkas. For one thing, I'm Italian, Welsh, and English. With my heritage I'm resigned to 16th century waltzes or grape-stomping music.

When I took accordion lessons (from an Italian teacher) I didn't even know what a polka was. I thought it was slang for a German social disease — if you caught it you broke out with a skin rash called "polka dots."

I made a special effort to learn polkas for the occasion.

The evening started off admirably. The band was anxiously doing their lip exercises, a huge crowd was pouring in the doors, and the fire department members were busily dispensing German delicacies and "your favorite beverage."

The band was wonderful! Led by an Episcopal priest, the group also included a Lutheran Minister, a dentist, a barber, a haberdasher, a newspaper editor, a magician, two teachers, a car salesman, a retiree, a coal miner, a college student, an appliance repairman and a banker. I doubt if there's a more qualified "Oom-Pah" Band in the country.

Eventually the time came for my first performance. After the first number an elderly man who had obviously been enjoying his "favorite beverage" came up and said.

"Hey, do you know (hic!), where I can find the men's room."

"No, I'm sorry," I replied, "... perhaps if you hum a few bars I can play it by ear."

He turned green and rushed off.

I should explain that in honor of the occasion, some of us wore authentic Alpine costumes. I had on a pair of leather short pants (called lederhosen) with suspenders and knee socks. Have you ever worn leather pants? They chafe, they rub, and they feel like sandpaper. Before long I was yodeling like a pro. I was in pain.

I made a major mistake at Oktoberfest. They were offering two kinds of "your favorite beverage" that evening, the light variety and the dark variety. I'd never had the dark variety before and my souvenier "your favorite beverage" stein was always mysteriously refilled by some unknown party. I liked it, I think. I woke up the next morning in my lederhosen.

They also tell me I learned to polka. Imagine that.

I can't wait for next year's Oktoberfest!

Make tracks to fun!

Mason Questions Legality Of $2 Land Stamp Fee

State Senator Edward Mason has announced he will ask the Maryland Attorney General for a ruling of the legality of the Public Land Stamp Fee which the Department of Natural Resources collects from State hunters. The $2.00 fee is required to hunt on State Lands, such as State Parks.

Mason said that previous attempts to outlaw the special charge to hunters through General Assembly measures have been unsuccessful. He explained that the Western Maryland Legislators have unanimously supported abolishment of the charge on grounds that it discriminates against hunters. However, the majority of Legislators have supported the DNR's position that the special fee is necessary to offset game management costs.

Now Mason says he will act on a request from the 2100-member Allegany-Garrett Sportsmen's Association, which hopes to have the land stamp fee abolished through a concurring Attorney General's opinion, and approach which Mason said apparently has not been tried yet.

An October 10 letter to Mason from AGSA secretary Dennis Tompkins stated that the special fee, "is clearly unlawful."

"It discriminates against state hunters by placing a fee against them which is not parallelled by similar charges to any other group of sportsmen using public lands," he said.

Mason added that he too feels the unfair collection practice has been going on too long already.

An Attorney General's opinion supporting the position of Mason and the Sportsmen's organization would force the DNR to eliminate the charge to hunters.

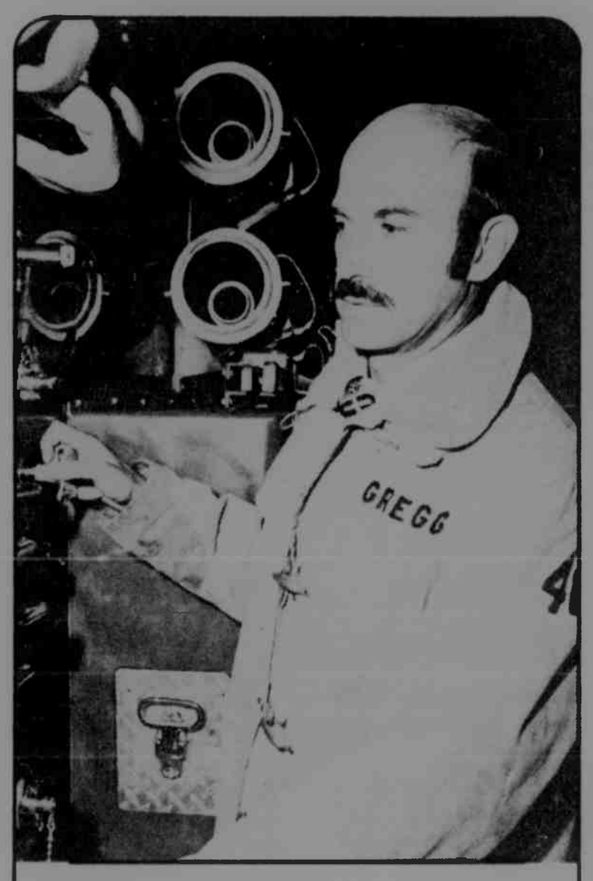
Elect Ernie Gregg

County Commissioner



New Conservative leadership for Garrett County

The office of county commissioner is not a profession. It is a position of public trust to which one is elected by the people to set policy in their behalf. What counts is that policy: is it truly representative of the will of the people?

My opponent has made much in this campaign of his experience and ability. We are asked to believe that he is all but indispensable. In evidence of this we are given vague references to his record in office. I think there are serious problems with that record and that is the main reason I am running for county commissioner. Let's look at that record:

Jobs: The growth rate in jobs has not been sufficient. County government has failed to adopt a progressive jobs program, and has done virtually nothing to attract beneficial business which provides employment. The increase in jobs is due to the fact that our county has the people and natural resources which brought business here.

Spending: County spending has just about doubled during my opponent's years in office. This spending has been supported by taxes collected from the people. Both assessments and the tax rate have increased since my opponent took office. Most people's taxes have increased year after year. What help is a lower tax rate in any given year, if the increased assessment means your tax bill is higher?

Court House: Our court house was one of the loveliest in the state. Any citizen walking by can see that it has been defaced with a monstrosity. And federal grants will not cover all the costs. We could have done it better for less cost, locally, on a site which would have not defaced one of Maryland's oldest and most historic court houses.

Priorities: We have seen constantly increasing expenditures for food stamp administration and other giveaway oriented programs. It is time that the people of Garrett County have an accounting. What is the bottom line? What jobs have been provided for the dollars spent? What do these programs really cost? What real results have been produced by these handout programs?

Regulations: My opponent supported a confiscatory subdivision regulation scheme which would have seriously threatened property rights. When enraged citizens attempted to bring the plan before the voters for a democratic referendum, he worked against the people's right to vote on the plan.

Yough Valley: My opponent supported unpopular and unfair regulations restricting property rights in the Youghiogheny Valley. Recently the state Department of Natural Resources urged quick implementation of these regulations, passed as emergency legislation. This would seriously affect many property owners in Garrett County. My opponent has done nothing to help the property owners of this county threatened by these regulations.

Management: My opponent's slogan is: "Policy plus performance equals leadership." In demonstration of this we can look to a riderless bus system, the county purchase of a private residence in Oakland for $59,000 for temporary offices which is now apparently designated as a future parking lot, and constantly overflowing trash dumpsters.

Goldstein Reports On Gasoline Use In Summer Months

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said Monday that gasoline consumption in Maryland during the summer months of June, July and August, 1978, totaled 540,718,226 gallons. "This is the most gasoline ever used during a three month period and includes the largest amount of gasoline used during a single month," Mr. Goldstein said.

Gasoline use during August 1978 amounted to 184,393,980 gallons, 2.2 percent more than the previous single month's record consumption of 180.4 million gallons set during August 1977.

The August 1978 record gasoline use followed a summer long trend which began with consumption of nearly 180.4 million gallons of gasoline during June and nearly 176 million gallons during July. The 1978 summer gasoline use of 540.7 million gallons exceeded consumption during the summer of 1977 by 3.7 percent.

"The increases now evident in year to year comparisons are edging closer to the pre-Arab oil embargo statistics, when gasoline consumption rose at a three to four percent rate each year," Mr. Goldstein said. "The amount of gasoline being used here in Maryland and throughout the nation, demonstrates the importance of a nationwide consumer protection and education program, similar to the program we operate here in Maryland," Mr. Goldstein said.

Dan Wagoner And Dancers to Perform At Potomac State

Dan Wagoner and Dancers will be the next attraction offered to area residents by Highland Arts Unlimited.

The group will be in Mineral County, W. Va., for a three-day residency, working with children in the schools, in November. They will give a public performance Tuesday, November 7, at 8 p.m., at the Church-McKee Arts Center, Potomac State College, Keyser, W. Va.

Mr. Wagoner, a native of Springfield, W. Va., received a degree in pharmacy before entering the field of dance. After a two-year enlistment in the Army, he won a scholarship to Martha Graham's School of Modern Dance. He now performs, directs and choreographs. He is a brother of Mrs. Robert B. Sincell, Mt. Lake Park.

The Dan Wagoner Company performs throughout the United States and has been abroad several times. This past spring the group was in Berlin and also at the Holland Festival.

The public performance will be free to all members of Highland Arts, but tickets will be available at the door and at pre-sale centers. Out of town persons who wish to take advantage of pre-sale prices may have tickets held for them at the box office by calling 788-1235, 788-3410, or 788-0111, or writing Highland Arts Unlimited treasurer Herbert Hartman, 1300 Lynmar Street, Keyser.

ASCS Says That Reserve Grain May Be Rotated

Paul A. Crowl, Chairperson of the Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee, said grain placed in the farmer-held reserve may be rotated as new crops are harvested. He pointed out that rotation will help maintain the quality of reserve grain.

"One method of rotating reserve grain is for the farmer with sufficient storage capacity to store his most recent harvest on his farm, and then obtain authorization from the county ASC committee to release the older crop(s) from the other bin(s)."

A second method is for the producer to get permission from the county committee about 30 days before harvest, to release the reserve grain which is then placed in a licensed warehouse. "The county ASCS office will hold the warehouse receipt until the new harvest is in place," Crowl said. The receipt is then returned to the producer.

The reserve isolates grain from the market for a period of up to three years or until market prices reach stated levels. Farmers participating in the program receive annual storage payments in advance and also profit from increased grain prices.

For further clarification on rotating reserve grain, contact the local ASCS office.

Fire Prevention Association Gives Rules For Coal, Wood Stove Users

This week's article, the second in a series on solid fuel heating equipment, concerns safe installation methods. The Republican is cooperating with the state fire marshal's office in presenting information in weekly segments on the selection, installation, use and maintenance of coal and wood heating stoves.

INSTALLATION

Coal and wood burning stoves are radiant heaters. Radiant heat usually provides greater comfort than other types of heat, such as heat from forced air systems. Radiant heat is the type of heat produced by an electric heater and by the sun. A person may feel comfortable in an area heated to a relatively low temperature by radiant heat if the heated area is protected from drafts. However, an oxygen consuming fire must be provided with a continuous supply of fresh air which means that ventilation is essential, not only for proper combustion but also for the safety of the occupants. Normal air leakage in a dwelling is usually sufficient but may not be in a well-insulated house unless a window is left cracked open. Exhaust fans should be used judiciously, since a fan that is on could pull products of combustion from a fireplace into the living area. Stoves are sometimes over-fired; the stoves and their chimney connectors and chimney flues may become red hot. Over-firing, coupled with inadequate clearances and lack of constant attention, have resulted in many fires that would not have otherwise occurred.

CLEARANCES OF STOVES

Stoves must be provided with adequate clearances from all combustible materials. The minimum clearances needed for safety are specified in Heat Producing Appliance Clearances (NFPA No. 89M — 1971). The clearances indicated in Table 1 were excerpted from Table 1 of NFPA No. 89M.

Table 1

Minimum Clearance in Inches Free-Standing Stoves

(Do Not Install in Closets or Alcoves)

Room Heater	36	36	36	36
Unit Heater	18	48	18	18
Cook Stove Clay Lined Firepot	30		24	Firing Side 24	Opposite Side 18
Cook Stove Unlined Firepot	30		36	36	18

MOUNTING ON FLOOR

NFPA's Fire Protection Handbook, 13th edition, has specific requirements for mounting free-standing residential stoves on the floor. Among the approved methods are the following:

(1) Where the stove has legs that provide at least 18 inches of open space between the stove and the floor.

(2) Where the stove has legs that provide at least 4 inches of open space between the stove and the floor and where No. 24 gage or thicker sheet metal entirely covers the floor under the stove and also extends out at least 18 inches beyond the stove at the front or the side where the ashes are removed.

(3) Where a stove is listed specifically for installation on a floor of combustible material, it may be mounted in accordance with specified instructions.

CONNECTORS AND VENTS

Where a stove is to be vented into a chimney flue by a chimney connector, the connector should be of corrosion-resistant steel of a thickness not less than shown in Table 2. (These data were excerpted from NFPA No. 211).

Table 2

Stove Connectors

Galvanized Sheet Metal Gage No.	Diameter of Connector in Inches
24	10 or less
22	Over 10 to 12
20	14 to (but not including) 16

STOVE CONNECTORS

The connector must have an internal cross-sectional area not less than that of the flue collar of the stove. The connector must be as straight and as short as possible, preferably with not more than one or, at most, two sweeping 90 degree elbows or the equivalent. The horizontal portion should be not more than 75 percent as long as the vertical portion of the chimney flue, above the point of connection.

CLEARANCE OF CONNECTOR

The clearance of a chimney connector should be not less than 18 inches from the nearest combustible material.

CONNECTION OF CONNECTOR TO CHIMNEY FLUE

Where connected to a masonry chimney, a chimney connector is required by NFPA No. 211 to extend through the masonry wall to the inner face of the liner but not beyond, and to be cemented to the masonry; or a thimble must be connected to the masonry wall of the chimney and the connector installed in the thimble without cement (for easy removal for cleaning, replacement, etc.). High temperature cement must be used for all cementing. Where the connector is inserted in a thimble, though not cemented, the joint must be sufficiently tight to prevent dislodgment of the connector by the force of a "puff" from sudden ignition in the stove's firebox.

CONNECTOR THROUGH WALLS

NFPA No. 211 does not permit a chimney connector to pass through any floor or ceiling or through any fire wall or fire partition. However, where necessary, a connector may pass through a partition other than a fire partition under any of the following conditions:

(1) Where a ventilated type metal thimble, is used. Such a thimble must be at least 12 inches larger in diameter than the chimney connector.

(2) Where a metal or burned fire-clay thimble is used and the thimble is surrounded on all sides by not less than 8 inches of brickwork or equivalent fire-proofing material.

(3) Where all combustible material is cut out of the partition wall for a sufficient distance to provide not less than 18 inches clearance on all sides of the connector. Any material used to close this opening must be noncombustible insulating material.

PITCH, CONFIGURATION, AND SUPPORT OF CONNECTOR

Chimney connectors are required by NFPA No. 211 to have an elevated pitch or rise in the horizontal portion of not less than ¼ inch to the linear foot, so that the point of connection to the chimney is at a higher elevation than the end nearest to the stove. For example, if the horizontal section of the connector is 10 feet long, the end of the horizontal section at or nearest to the chimney must be not less than 2½ inches higher than the end of the horizontal section nearest to the stove (10x0.25 = 2.5). The connector must have no sharp turns, as few sweeping bends (such as a sweeping elbow fitting) as possible, and be securely supported. Joints must be tightly fastened together by an approved means such as by rivets, screws, or an approved corrugated joint. After installation, the connector must be readily accessible for inspection, cleaning, and replacement.

DAMPERS AND DRAFT REGULATORS

An automatic draft regulator actuated by a thermostat may be installed for a solid-fuel stove if installed in accordance with instructions provided by the manufacturer of the regulator or stove. An alternative is installing a manually operated damper as an integral part of one section of the chimney connector. (The damper is installed in a connector section — one length of stove pipe — usually by the installer). The damper section may be vertical or horizontal and is usually installed near the stove for convenience in operation.

CONNECTION TO CHIMNEY

Where an existing chimney is used, it must be large enough to provide a draft adequate for exhausting the gaseous products of combustion. The cross-sectional area of the chimney flue should be at least 25 percent greater than that of the chimney connector (stove pipe).

A stove-chimney connector is not permitted to be connected to a chimney flue for a fireplace unless the fireplace opening is sealed or unless the flue is permanently sealed between the fireplace and the stove connector entrance to the flue. Yet, a chimney must be used to vent a coal or wood burning stove, for a vent other than a chimney flue is not permitted by NFPA No. 211 to be used for solid-fuel stove. However, the chimney is not required to be of masonry construction; it may be a factory-built chimney or a metal smoke stack.

FACTORY-BUILT CHIMNEYS

A factory-built chimney may be used for a coal or wood burning stove or for a fireplace where the fireplace is designed for use with the chimney. Such metal chimneys (stacks) are tested and listed by nationally recognized testing laboratories, such as Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc. (UL). They are efficient and easy to install. Soot and creosote buildups are minimized because of rapid warming of the inner walls of this type chimney. This results in increased safety. The necessary clearances from combustible materials are marked on each section of a UL-listed factory-built chimney. Hence, if there is no existing chimney that can be readily used, a factory-built chimney offers a practical solution. (Factory-built chimneys are required by NFPA No. 211 to be laboratory listed and installed in accordance with listing instructions).

A factory-built chimney can also be used in a home where an existing chimney is below standard, is deteriorated, or serves a fireplace that the occupant prefers not to seal off.

For a first-floor stove in a one-story house, the construction would be simpler, since the chimney would not have to extend through the floor. (A factory-built chimney is permitted by NFPA No. 211 to pass through floors if the chimney is enclosed where it passes through the floor with an approved continuous enclosure having a fire-resistance rating of not less than one hour for a building of up to three stories and two hours for a four-story or higher building).

TWO OR MORE CONNECTORS TO ONE CHIMNEY

Room heaters, cook stoves, etc., should not be connected to a common flue. As already noted, a stove chimney connector is not permitted to be connected to a flue serving a fireplace — a fireplace must have its own individual flue. The reason is that flue gases and sparks may pass from one flue opening into another. Besides, multiple connections sometimes result in unsatisfactory operation. If two or more stoves, such as a room heater and a cook stove, are connected to the same chimney flue, despite the recommendations against doing so, the connectors must enter the chimney at different elevations. A common flue must, of course, be of sufficient size to provide an adequate draft for all the stoves connected to it. The minimum cross sectional area should not be less than shown in Table 3, which was excerpted from Table 12 of Chapter 26 of the 1972 Guide and Data Book [Equipment] of ASHRAE (American Society of Heating, Refrigerating, and Air Conditioning Engineers). The availability of good factory-built chimneys, however, should obviate the need for multiple connections to a common chimney flue.

FACTORY-BUILT FIREPLACES

Complete factory-built fireplaces with a factory-built chimney, which are available as package units, include a roof jack assembly, fire stopping materials, all other parts for a complete installation, and instructions for clearances, etc. As in the case of factory-built chimneys, NFPA No. 211 requires factory-built fireplaces to be laboratory listed.

PET POINTERS

Several persons have called concerning the Garrett County Animal Shelter construction. The primary questions have been, "Why was it necessary to completely shut down the existing facility?" "When will the shelter again be operational?", and "What do I do about lost and found animals in the meantime?"

As the shelter and its operations will now be a joint effort of the Garrett County Commissioners and Garrett Community College, I contacted Commissioner Don S. Bender and O. Randall Harman, chairman of the Math/Science division of Garrett Community College.

Commissioner Bender stated that although the shelter is closed, Dog Warden Roy Arnold is still on duty to attend to stray animals. Because there are no shelter facilities to house strays at the present time, they will be euthanised immediately by Mr. Arnold. An answering service is accepting calls for the dog warden's services.

This being the case, it is imperative that local pet owners provide their animals with identification tags, and all dogs should be licensed where applicable. Animals properly identified and licensed will be returned to their owners, Mr. Bender assured me.

Randall Harman explained, "We are completely re-doing the present (Animal Shelter) facility. In order for us to most expediently complete the project we had to completely close the existing structure — tentatively the addition should be under roof by the end of the week and the building phase may be completed by the end of October."

The new shelter, when completed, will house the county's animal facilities in conjunction with the college's veterinary technology program. Although much of the equipment needed to facilitate the program has a delivery date of up to six months, Harman feels the shelter could be operational near the end of November ... animals could probably resume being housed then." He also stated that the teaching program may begin around the middle of January.

It was explained that new aluminum cages and a modern in-floor heating system will be installed in the existing shelter, which further necessitated its closing.

The new shelter and the veterinary-technology program is expected to be a major improvement over past services. In answer to "What do I do about my lost pet, or if I find an animal?" consider these suggestions:

— Classified advertisements in this newspaper will reach the greatest number of county residents, and they are economical. Include the animal's sex, breed, color, age and any identifying characteristics in your advertisement.

— Contact local veterinarians and law enforcement officials concerning injured animals they may have been called about.

— Place inexpensive Zeroxed posters in grocery stores, and various public bulletin boards.

— If you find a lost animal, allow the original owner ample time to respond to your advertisement. He or she should be glad to reimburse you for any expense you may have incurred in the animal's benefit. If no one claims the animal, make every attempt to place it in a good home if you yourself are not able to keep it. As a last resort, consider humane euthanasia by your local veterinarian. Above all, do not return the animal outside to fend for itself.

When dealing with any societal problem, including animal control, we must remember that the public caused the problem, therefore the public has to deal with the problem. Being a responsible pet owner includes advocating spaying and neutering — and that's the solution to half the problem!

Warning

Antifreeze and summer collants used in automobiles are potential problems for family pets and other small animals, the Maryland Veterinary Medical Association warned this week.

This is the time of year when automobile owners change or replenish their car radiator systems and, all too often, the antifreeze which has been drained from radiators and allowed to lie in gutters becomes a prime source for animal poisoning.

Antifreeze has a sweet taste, pleasant aroma and an attractive color which attracts small animals.

Almost all permanent types of antifreeze contains glycols which are highly toxic and can cause severe kidney damage or death if swallowed in sufficient quantities, the veterinary association warned. Signs of such poisoning include nervousness, vomiting and a staggering gait.

There are 156 languages in the world each of which is spoken by at least one million people.

With Garrett County winter winds very close at hand, every effort should be made to get the most out of your energy dollars. Here are some tips to help in conserving energy as you work with the interior of your home:

—Place furniture far enough away from radiators, registers, and cold air vents to permit easy circulation of heated or cooled air. You will be more comfortable in winter if you keep furniture away from windows and outside walls, especially if they are not adequately insulated.

—Wing chairs give protection from drafts and are warmer than open-arm chairs. In winter, soft upholstery fabric feels warmer than leather, plastic or wood; or use a warm-colored slipcover on furniture or throws made from soft, fuzzy fabric.

—Carpets are warmer to touch and offer more insulation than tile, wood, slate or resilient floor coverings. Wall-to-wall carpet laid over a cushion or pad, has greater insulating qualities than room size or area rugs. Generally, the thicker and denser the carpet, the greater the insulation value. Wool and acrylic fibers provide the best insulation and nylon is the least effective.

—Light colors reflect light while dark colors absorb it. You will need less illumination in a room if you paint or paper the walls in light colors. Light is reflected back into a room when ceilings are painted in lighter colors.

—Warm colors (pinks, reds and oranges) add psychological warmth to a room. Cool colors (blues and greens) tend to make a room feel cool. Consider warm colors for northern exposures and cool colors for rooms with a heavy western exposure. Slipcovers, throws, and accessories can be changed with the season to give a feeling of warmth or coolness.

Chicken is an economical as well as a nutritious meat to serve in a tempting menu this fall. It equals or exceeds all other meats in protein content. Chicken is a good food for weight-conscious people and people on low fat or sodium restricted diets. Its tender mixture, mild flavor and easy digestibility is liked by all.

Chicken is a very versatile food — it can be prepared many different ways. Here is a recipe that you might enjoy trying.

Cereal Crisp Fried Chicken

2 cups oven-toasted rice cereal, crushed to make 1 cup crumbs
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon paprika
1 (3 to 3½ pound) frying chicken, cut into serving pieces
¼ cup melted butter

Spicy Peach Sauce:

1 (pound 1 oz.) can sliced peaches
1½ tablespoons vinegar
2 teaspoons sugar
1½ teaspoons cornstarch
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon nutmeg

Combine cereal crumbs, salt and paprika. Dip chicken in butter, then in crumb mixture. Place pieces in shallow 2-qt. baking dish, attractive side up. Drizzle any remaining butter over chicken. Cover with foil and crimp edges of foil onto edge of dish. Bake in moderate oven 350°F. 25 min. Remove foil and bake until chicken is browned and tender, 35 to 40 minutes longer. Combine sauce ingredients. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened and clear. Pour over chicken during last minutes of cooking time. Yield: 4 servings.

VEPCO Concludes Interviews With Striking Workers

Interviews with approximately 175 striking employes at the Mt. Storm Virginia Electric and Power Company's plant concluded last Tuesday, and preparations started for a court appearance in Elkins.

The court appearance reportedly was to seek another extension of the current restraining order, allowing extra time for VEPCO and the men to consider their situations.

The men went on strike Monday, August 7, claiming unsafe working conditions at the plant and protesting what they called deteriorating working conditions. Interviews with individual striking employees began August 16 at Canaan Valley.

Whip 340 & 440

These are facts:

- Coast to Coast Endurance Champion
- Tops in Reliability
- 1,000 Mile Endurance
- 24 Hour Record Setter
- Tops in Owners Survey

The list goes on and on and they are all facts! The Scorpion Whip has proven itself to be the most reliable snowmobile year in and year out, mile after mile. On Dec. 4, 1977, Fritz Sprandel left Westport, Washington on a 1978 440 Whip heading East. On Feb. 4, 1978, he reached Eastport, Maine, setting a U.S. Coast to Coast Endurance record. His stock Whip covered more than 5,000 miles of trails, mountains and ditches. In 1977 a group of snowmobilers, members of a club in Gun Lake, Michigan, drove two stock 440 Whips around a slush filled lake for 24 hours and set of record of over 1,100 miles each! In 1975 and 1976 Snowgoer Magazine ran a test for six companies running a single machine each for 1,000 miles and checked the results. You guessed it! Scorpion's family machine, the Whip was outstanding. Owner's surveys show without question just how satisfied customers are with their Whips. Study the facts and you'll choose a Whip, cuz, when you get right down to it . . . Nothin' really comes close.

Three Missionaries Slated To Speak At The Mt. Top Christian Assembly

Rev. Doug Jeter

Rev. David W. McCulley

Three Assemblies of God missionaries have been scheduled to speak at special services October 24-26 at the Mt. Top Christian Assembly, according to Rev. Walter H. Leake, pastor. The services will begin at 7:00 each evening.

The Rev. Doug Jeter, a missionary to France, will be the guest speaker Thursday, October 24; the Rev. David W. McCulley, a missionary to Nigeria, will be the guest speaker Wednesday, October 25; and the Rev. Nicolas Pino, a missionary to Chile, will speak on Thursday, October 26.

The Mt. Top Christian Assembly is located along State Rt. 135, just east of Mt. Lake Park.

During their first term of missionary service, Mr. Jeter and his wife Raynan will be working with the International Correspondence Institute (ICI) program in France. ICI is an extension Bible education outreach designed to evangelize those unreached by the gospel, train new converts in basic Christian concepts, and prepare lay leaders for ministry. Mr. Jeter will serve as the director of ICI in France.

Rev. Nicolas Pino

The Jeters have been living in France since 1974 and assisting national Assemblies of God churches in evangelism, ICI, and Teen Challenge youth ministries. They also worked as associate missionaries with Kenneth Ware who recently helped complete a translation of the Bible into modern French.

Prior to applying for missionary service, Mr. Jeter served as associate pastor of Faith Assembly of God in Pasadena, Texas. He earned a BA degree at Southwestern Assemblies of God College in Waxahachie, Texas.

During this special missions service, Mr. Jeter will be sharing his vision of the opportunities for Christian ministry in France. The public is invited to attend.

During their last term of missionary service, consisting of four years and six months, Mr. McCulley and his wife, Lois, served as administrators and house-parents of the Assemblies of God high school hostel located in Jos, Northern Nigeria. There are nine large hostels in the city of Jos all housing students from throughout West Africa who are attending Hillcrest School. Hillcrest School was built and is staffed by fourteen different mission boards who minister in West Africa.

The McCulleys, along with other missionaries, were active in the evacuation of Biafrian refugees during the Civil War in that country. When Mr. McCulley first went to Africa in 1950, he and his family were stationed at Cape Palmas, Liberia. Mr. McCulley served as business agent and secretary-treasurer of the Liberian Field Fellowship — the group of A/G missionaries in that country. Later they transferred to Eastern Nigeria where Mr. McCulley was business manager and Nigerian Field Fellowship secretary-treasurer. They did extensive evangelistic work among the rivers' tribes and served as missionary advisors in that area.

Both Mr. McCulley and his wife are graduates of Southwestern Bible College located in Waxahachie, Texas.

Mr. McCulley pastored in Baltimore, Md., and Fairmont, West Virginia, where he was presbyter of the Western Section of the Potomac District and served for a short time as District Missionary Secretary.

The McCulleys will be returning to Nigeria for their seventh consecutive term of service. They will assist in office administration for the International Correspondence Institute.

Nigerian curios and artifacts will be on display during this special missions rally. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Mr. Pino and his wife Ruth were appointed to Chile in 1975. During their first term of missionary service, they were involved in Bible school work at the Chilean Bible Institute in Santiago. They also ministered in national churches throughout the country.

Mr. Pino received a BA degree from Davis and Elkins College in Elkins, West Virginia. He and Mrs. Pino are also graduates of Zion Bible Institute in East Providence, Rhode Island.

Prior to missionary appointment, the Pinos pastored the Valley Head Assembly of God in Valley Head, West Virginia. They were also involved in evangelical teachers' training and child evangelism.

Mr. Pino will share plans for his future ministry in Chile at this special missions rally. Slides of Chile and special music will be featured.

Friendsville

Mr. and Mrs. Huston Friend, Mr. and Mrs. Wade Friend and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Smith and Mark celebrated Mrs. Huston Friend's birthday at the Oakhurst Tea Room at Somerset on Friday.

Visitors of Mr. and Mrs Wade Friend over that weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Norman Friend and Jennifer, Ohio; Mrs. Chester Lawson, Bruceton, and Mr. and Mrs Larry Wakefield, Lohri, Amanda, and Larry, Jr., Fairmont, W. Va.

Federal Trade Commission Asks Maryland Expertise

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein was lead-off witness at a Washington, D. C hearing held by the Federal Trade Commission Monday and urged that proposed regulations concerning a nationwide program of posting and certifying octane ratings be clarified to protect the consumer. He also called for a clear guarantee that he could continue to enforce Maryland law to protect the consumers of petroleum products.

The proposed regulations would provide for octane posting, certification of octane ratings by gasoline suppliers and auto industry statements regarding octane requirements of vehicles. Mr. Goldstein noted that Maryland had been posting octane ratings and testing fuel quality since 1970. He also noted that his office has published brochures which relate octane ratings as they appear on retail pumps to information available to automobile owners.

"The consumer must be able to identify at the pump the type of gasoline recommended by the manufacturer," Mr. Goldstein said, urging the Federal Trade Commission to require the octane ratings appearing on retail pumps be identical to those listed in automobiles. "There is a requirement for the automobile manufacturer to display the octane requirement of that vehicle. I would recommend that this requirement be strengthened to require a visible and permanent placement of the octane requirement on the vehicle. Such a requirement would protect future owners as well as new car buyers."

Comptroller Goldstein stated that any program of octane posting and enforcement must have a quick reaction time, such as is now the case in Maryland, if it is to benefit the consumer. "After all, merely detecting a violation days or weeks or months after it occurs does not protect the consumer who bought substandard fuel. And that consumer deserves protection," he said.

Comptroller Goldstein noted that during the last fiscal year, his office tested samples of gasoline representing 1.5 billion gallons and found about 6 percent to be substandard. He indicated that he would enter into an agreement with the Federal Trade Commission to make available Maryland's recognized expertise and facilities, but warned that he intended to vigorously enforce Maryland law to protect consumers. "I believe a rule should be promulgated to give the States authority to proceed with their own enforcement programs, so long as the standards are identical to those defined by the Federal Trade Commission," he said.

Maryland now tests gasoline and other petroleum products at every level of the supply chain for a variety of qualities, including octane rating.

The proposed regulations would recognize octane ratings in single number increments, as opposed to the two number increments now recognized by Maryland regulations. Comptroller Goldstein indicated that Maryland regulations would be changed to comply to Federal rules, if the proposed rules are adopted.

Maryland representatives were invited to participate in the hearings because of the national reputation of the State Comptroller's Office as a leader in the field. Comptroller Goldstein has twice testified before Congressional Committees urging a nationwide program of consumer protection and education regarding petroleum products.

Kitzmiller VFD Called Twice To Shallmar Fires

Kitzmiller's fire company was called twice over the weekend to put out house fires in Shallmar.

The company was called at 3:10 Saturday to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Bruckey, after an overheated flue had caused an interior partition to catch fire. Two upstairs rooms in the house were badly damaged. Elk Garden firemen were called and assisted in putting out the blaze.

On Sunday, at 3:20 p.m. Kitzmiller firemen were called to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Sherwood, Shallmar. One room was moderately damaged after mastic Mr. Sherwood was using to hang paneling was ignited by a pilot light on the hot water tank.

Both Kitzmiller and Elk Garden were called, but Mr. Sherwood had doused the flames before they arrived and the companies were recalled. One pumper from the Kitzmiller station, however, continued to the scene to offer assistance to the Sherwoods.

$233 Million Spent On Entertainment

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein announced last week that $233,587,718 was spent on taxable entertainment in Maryland during Fiscal Year 1978, up 30 percent from the $179,543,622 spent during the previous fiscal year.

"Marylanders increased their spending on entertainment and leisure activities, reflecting our State's share in the economic growth during the past twelve months," Mr. Goldstein said, noting that the counties, cities, and towns of Maryland benefited to the tune of $10,445,091 in Admissions and Amusement Tax revenues for July 1, 1977 through June 30, 1978. The amount of revenue distributed to the subdivisions for Fiscal Year 1977 was $9,557,227.

"More tax revenue was received from night club entertainment than any other form of entertainment reported," Mr. Goldstein said, pointing out that the $53,723,206 spent for night club admissions and entertainment yielded $2,104,794 in tax revenue.

Spending for other forms of entertainment included $41,333,011 for movies, producing $2,137,311 in tax revenue, and $16,858,858 for athletic events, producing $1,637,717 in tax revenue. A total of $19,770,052 was spent for live theatre and concerts, yielding tax revenue totaling $1,338,259 and spending for golf amounted to $10,235,654, accounting for $477,713 in Admissions and Amusement Tax revenues. Spending in coin-operated amusement devices amounted to $20,868,545, and yielded tax revenue totaling $719,207.

"Leisure spending reflects the economic importance of local interests," Mr. Goldstein said. "For instance, the largest single source of Admissions and Amusement tax revenue for Baltimore City is athletic events. In Garrett County, tax revenue from ski facilities and boat rides are among the highest. Likewise, in Kent and Queen Anne's Counties on the Eastern Shore, boat rides and fishing excursions are among the largest sources of Admissions and Amusement tax revenue."

The Admissions and Amusement tax rates are set by local elected officials, while the tax receipts are collected by the State Comptroller's Office and distributed to the local subdivisions.

"Final Fiscal Year 1978 payments totaling $3,448,921 have been mailed to the local subdivisions," Mr. Goldstein said. Distribution to Garrett County was $9,629.69 for the fourth quarter, bringing the fiscal year 1978 total to $52,712.63.

Local Physician Attends Annual AAPS Meeting

The Association of American Physicians and Surgeons voted at its recent annual meeting in Denver to step up its nationwide campaign opposing socialized medicine. Among those attending the Denver meeting were Dr. and Mrs. A. E. Mance of Oakland.

The AAPS supports the right of doctor and patient to enter into a doctor-patient relationship freely and without intimidation from a third party. Under the National Health Insurance bill advocated by Sen. Edward Kennedy, this third party coercion would be from an expensive government bureaucracy.

In Denver, AAPS members reiterated their strong opposition to collectivized medicine. The convention also expressed strong opposition to the growing volume of state and federal legislation that undermines the very nature of the practice of private medicine and authorizes the establishment of large costly authoritarian bureaucracies that neither doctors nor patients seek nor want.

AAPS physicians insist that their right to practice private medicine is also the right of the patient to select his own physician and receive the best possible medical care at the lowest cost. AAPS believes that the public would be the real victims of socialized medicine and that the overwhelming opinion in letters received by AAPS from the concerned patients express opposition to socialized medicine.

ARTICLE IV. STANDARDS

400 General provisions

A. The requirements of this Ordinance shall be supplementary to and shall not contravene any requirements pertaining to junkyards specified in any zoning ordinance adopted by the Board pursuant to the authority of Article 66B of the Annotated Code, but the provisions of this Ordinance shall prevail to the extent that they are more restrictive.
B. For every junkyard required to comply with the Subtitle 8 of the Transportation Article of the Annotated Code, and more specifically, with the regulations promulgated thereunder at COMAR 11.04.13, evidence of compliance with said regulations shall be deemed to constitute compliance with the requirements of Section 402 in this Ordinance.

401 Setbacks

A. Except for areas occupied by vegetative or architectural screening, no portion of a junkyard property that is occupied for junkyard purposes may be located closer than the following distances:
1. From the right-of-way line of a public road or highway: twenty-five feet.
2. From any land owned or leased by a government agency for recreation, open space, conservation or related purposes: five hundred feet
3. From a residence, retail business, school, hospital, or other health care facilities: two hundred feet, unless from the evidence submitted, the Board concludes that proposed method of screening the junkyard would effectively prevent the junkyard from being detrimental to or detracting from the value of every such use.
B. Upon a finding of unnecessary hardship pursuant to Section 301F, the Board may, in the case of a non-conforming junkyard:
1. authorize a permanent setback variance from any permanent structure;
2. establish permanent setback lines less stringent than those specified in Section 401A, provided that such setbacks shall conform as nearly as is reasonably possible under the circumstances to the setbacks specifided in Section 401A; and
3. authorize a temporary setback variance for a period not exceeding nine months, within which time all "junk" materials and non-permanent objects and structures shall be moved to comply with the permanent setback lines established through the preceding paragraph 2.

401 Screening

A. Each licensed junkyard shall, within nine months of the issuance of the license, be enclosed to screen the junkyard from view by the travelling public and from adjoining properties. Such screening shall consist of vegetative or structural materials, or both, as specified by the Board. The Board may waive the requirement for installing additional screening where the Board concludes that the junkyard will not be visible from a public road or from every adjoining property, provided that the applicant agrees to maintain such screening as then exists.
B. Said screening shall be installed by the licensee in accordance with plans approved by the Board as part of the license, and shall be maintained in good order and repair by the license. Said screening shall ordinarily be installed in close proximity to the boundary of the junkyard property, except that the Board, in reviewing the screening plan, may authorize or require that any or all of the screening be set back a specified distance from the boundary.
C. Vegetative screening shall be preferred, to consist of trees, shrubs, or other plant materials of such aggregate size, location and density as to comply with sub-section A. above. The screening shall, at the time of planting, be not less than four feet in height, and shall be designed to grow to and shall be maintained at a height of not less than six feet. The screening shall ordinarily have a depth of not less than five feet, measured perpendicular to and extending parallel with the boundaries of the junkyard. The proposed species of vegetation shall be indicated on the site plan submitted in accordance with Section 301B. The Board shall, upon request, supply a list naming desirable vegetative species to fulfull this vegetative screening requirement.
D. In lieu of vegetative screening, the Board may authorize and require screening constructed of mounded earth, wood, stone, or brick, or combinations thereof, if the Board finds that such constructed screening would be more harmonious than vegetative screening with the present or intended future character of the neighborhood. If authorized by the Board, constructed screening shall comprise a solid surface beginning at the ground and extending to a height of not less than six feet, and shall be set back not less than twenty-five feet from every public road bordering the junkyard, and not less than five feet from every other boundary of the junkyard.
E. Upon a finding of unnecessary hardship pursuant to Section 301F, the Board may, in the case of a non-conforming junkyard, authorize a permanent variance from the requirement in Section 402A that the junkyard be completely screened. Such variances shall be sparingly granted, and only in the case where the Board finds, from an examination of the topographical character of the properties involved, that it would not reasonably be possible to achieve complete screening; such variances shall be granted only for as much of the perimeter of the junkyard as meets this criterion, and shall not relieve the licensee of the responsibility to install and maintain as much screening as the Board shall judge reasonable under the circumstances.

403 Access

A. No driveway or other point of vehicular access to a junkyard shall intersect any public road within one hundred feet of the point of intersection of two public roads, measured along the centerlines thereof.
B. Except in unusual circumstances, the Board shall not authorize more than one driveway or other point of vehicular access for every three hundred feet of frontage of a junkyard along a public road. No such driveway shall be more than thirty feet in width.
C. Upon a finding of unnecessary hardship pursuant to Section 301F, the Board may, in the case of a non-conforming junkyard, authorize an access variance, either permanently or for a period not to exceed nine months.

404 Operating standards

A. No junk may be stacked or stored to a height greater than the height of the screening enclosing the junkyard.
B. Burning of waste materials within a junkyard shall be permitted only in strict compliance with applicable County and State air quality regulations.
C. The Board may, in the license of any junkyard, prescribe reasonable limits on the hours of operation at the junkyard, taking into account the type and proximity of development existing on nearby properties.

405 Signs

A. Every junkyard shall be entitled to have not more than one identification sign on the premises. Such sign shall not be larger than two-hundred square feet in size. No part of such sign shall extend more than twenty feet above the ground.
B. No sign shall constitute a public safety or traffic hazard, such as by obstructing traffic signals, traffic signs, road warning signs, street name signs, or the full view of the traffic in all directions at driveways, entranceways, or any other intersections on a public road.
C. Lighting devices shall be shielded so that they do not create a glare or a nuisance by shining directly into a public street or highway or into an adjoining property. No flashing or rotating flashing illumination of a sign shall be permitted.

ARTICLE V. AMENDMENTS AND PENALTIES

500 Amendments — The Board may from time to time amend, supplement, modify or change this Ordinance. When doing so, the Board shall comply with the public notice and hearing requirements of Section 122A(d) in Article 25 of the Annotated Code

501 Penalties — A violation of any section of this Ordinance, including the maintenance or operation of any such junkyard or dump without a license, is a misdemeanor, subject upon conviction to a fine of not less than twenty-five dollars ($25.00). Each day on wich a violation continues is a separate offense.

Annual Convention Of MSTA Begins This Thursday

Teachers from all parts of the State will converge on Baltimore City next week, October 19, 20 and 21, for the 111th annual Convention of the Maryland State Teachers Association (MSTA). MSTA is an affiliate of the National Education Association.

"Judging from past experience," says Pete V. Treibley, the Association's president, "more than 20,000 teachers will attend one or more sessions of the three-day meeting."

The business meetings of the Association's Representative Assembly, policy-making body of the MSTA, will be held in the Baltimore Hilton Hotel, with more than 300 professional and commercial exhibits on two floors of the Civic Center. Nearly 100 departmental meetings will also be held in the Civic Center and other downtown locations.

Three nationally prominent speakers are on the program. Ira Glasser, president, American Civil Liberities Union, will speak on "The Status of Human Rights Today," on Thursday morning at 10:00 a.m. in the Hilton Hotel.

Walter E. Fauntroy II S. Congressman for the District of Columbia, will address the teachers on Friday afternoon at 2:00 p.m. He will discuss the District of Columbia's need for voting representation in Congress. Terry Herndon, executive director of the 1.8 million member National Education Association, is scheduled for 3:30 p.m., also on Friday.

Five professional seminars on topics of concern to classroom teachers have been planned. Thursday morning at 10:00 a.m., "Retirement and Social Security for Teachers" will be discussed by James Spencer, assistant executive director for research, MSTA.

V. Thomas Gray, assistant executive director for legislation, MSTA, will talk on "Proposition 13: Can It Happen Here?," also at 10:00 a.m. on Thursday.

Thursday afternoon at 2:00 p.m. there will be a seminar on "Public Opinion Polls: What They Mean to Teachers."

"Gifted and Talented Programs: What's Being Done in Maryland?" will be the topic of a seminar on Friday at 9:30 a.m. led by Lynn Cole, specialist in programs for the gifted and talented, Maryland State Department of Education.

Walter S. Levin, general counsel for MSTA, and a member of the staff of the law firm of Sauerwein, Boyd and Decker, will talk with teachers on "Legal Responsibilities of the Classroom Teacher," at 11:30 a.m. on Friday.

The traditional concert, featuring more than 600 student musicians, will be held on Friday evening at 8:00 p.m. in the Civic Center Auditorium. The concert is open to the public free of charge.

Thursday evening's program will include a "Meet the Candidates Night," sponsored by the Maryland Educators Political Action Committee, followed by an informal dance in the Hilton Hotel Ballroom. Following the Friday night concert teachers will dance to the music of Eddie Williams at MSTA's "Disco Fever."

The Representative Assembly will open with a Stewardship Luncheon on Thursday. At this event, MSTA will present its first "School Bell Awards," in recognition of outstanding coverage of public education by the media. Awards will be made in a variety of categories.

Three other sessions of the Representative Assembly are scheduled for Thursday afternoon, Friday afternoon, and Saturday morning. At these meetings, decisions will be made which will chart the course of the Association for the coming year.

ORIONID METEORS

The maximum of the Orionid meteor shower is at 1:00 p.m. on Saturday. As many as 25 meteors may be seen per hour by a single observer. This is about three times the number normally observed. Early on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday mornings will be the best time to observe these meteors as they collide with the earth at a velocity of 66 kilometers per second (147,670 miles per hour).

MOON

A waning moon is in the sky all week. Last Quarter phase will be on Monday at 8:34 p.m. Moonrise this week will vary from 8:28 tonight to 29 minutes after midnight next Tuesday.

The greatest separation between earth and moon will occur on Monday too. This apogee will be 404,300 kilometers (251,300 miles) from earth.

VISIBLE PLANETS

Mars, Jupiter, and Saturn may be easily seen in the night sky. Mars sets about one-half hour after sunset with the stars of Libra. Jupiter may be found with the stars of Cancer rising near midnight. Saturn rises with the stars of Leo about three and one-half hours before sunrise.

DAYLIGHT DECREASES

By next Tuesday, there will be 15 minutes less daylight each day. Sunrise was at 7:30 this morning. Sunset will be at 6:35 tonight. Tuesday 10 hours 50 minutes separate sunrise and sunset. Sunrise will be six minutes later while sunset will be nine minutes earlier than today.

Couple Named To NFIB Council

Announcement was made this week of the appointment of Stanley W. and Violet M. Finzel of the Finzel Coal Company, Incorporated, in Grantsville, as Action Council Members to the National Federation of Independent Business (NFIB) in San Mateo, California and Washington, D. C.

NFIB is a non-profit, nonpartisan organization representing the needs of small businesses across the country. Founded in 1943, it was designed to promote the concept of free enterprise and to give independent business a greater voice in shaping the laws which govern business and government.

The idea of the Action Council Member was developed by NFIB President Wilson S. Johnson, who felt the need for members to take a more active role in furthering the cause of small and independent business at the grass roots and federal level.

The Almanac

Today is Wednesday, October 18, the 291st day of 1978 with 74 to follow.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter.

The morning stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Venus.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Libra.

American actor George C. Scott, an Academy Award-winner in "Patton," was born October 18, 1927.

On this date in history:

In 1776, the boundary between Maryland and Pennsylvania was finally settled. It was to be known as "The Mason-Dixon Line."

In 1959, Russia claimed to have taken the first pictures of the far side of the moon.

In 1974, the Watergate cover-up trial jury heard a tape recording in which President Nixon told aide John Dean to try to stop the Watergate burglary investigation before it implicated White House personnel.

In 1977, three jailed West German terrorists committed suicide and a fourth stabbed herself.

A thought for the day:

American poet Joaquin Miller said, "In men whom men condemn as ill, I find so much of goodness still."

at 11:00 a.m.
Garrett County Courthouse
Grand Jury Room
Third and Alder Streets
Oakland, Maryland

Discharge Permit Application No.: 78-DP-1564 (Basin No.: 02.14.10.05; Type I Aquifer) Mettiki Coal Corporation, Route 3, Box 124-A, Deer Park, Garrett County, Maryland mines coal by deep mining near Table Rock. Waste sludge from the mine drainage treatment system will be disposed of by infection into a deep mine pool. Tentative Decision: Issue permit. No limitations are necessary and an existing monitoring well system will determine any potential effects of this process. The sludge contains excesses of caustic which will help neutralize the groundwater since the mine pool is acid.

The General Assembly may propose Amendments to this Constitution, provided that each Amendment shall be embraced in a separate bill, embodying the Article or Section, as the same will stand when amended and passed by three-fifths of all the members elected to each of the two Houses, by yeas and nays, to be entered on the Journals with the proposed Amendment. The requirement in this section that an amendment proposed by the General Assembly shall be embraced in a separate bill shall not be construed or applied to prevent the General Assembly from (1) proposing in one bill a series of amendments to the Constitution of Maryland for the general purpose of removing or correcting constitutional provisions which are obsolete, inaccurate, invalid, unconstitutional, or duplicative, or (2) embodying in a single Constitutional amendment one or more Articles of the Constitution so long as that Constitutional amendment embraces only a single subject. IF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY DETERMINES THAT A PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT AFFECTS ONLY ONE COUNTY OR THE CITY OF BALTIMORE, THE PROPOSED AMENDMENT SHALL NOT BE PART OF THE CONSTITUTION [illegible] AND IN THE AFFECTED COUNTY OR CITY OF BALTIMORE, AS THE CASE MAY BE. When two or more amendments shall be submitted to the voters of this State at the same election, they shall be so submitted as that each amendment shall be voted on separately.

Section 52 (11) and (12)

Preamble

WHEREAS, The Court of Appeals of Maryland, in Maryland Action for Foster Children, Inc. v. State, 279 Md. 133 (1977), has held that Section 52 of Article III of the Constitution of Maryland does not authorize the General Assembly to enact legislation (other than an appropriation bill) which requires the Governor, in the preparation of the annual budget, to provide for the funding of specified programs at specified levels; and

WHEREAS, The inability of the General Assembly to mandate minimum funding levels of State programs so emasculates the policy making function of the legislative branch that it is imperative that the Constitution of Maryland be amended so as to authorize the General Assembly to enact legislation (other than an appropriation bill) requiring the Governor, in the preparation of the annual State budget, to provide for the funding of specified programs at specified levels, contrary to the holding of the majority opinion and consistent with the holdings of the minority opinions in that case, now, therefore,

WHAT WOULD YOU SAY? — Pictured above, left to right, Jenny Sisler, Tonya Bray and Danny Knotts were the winners of the Poster Contest held at the Southern Middle School, October 5-6. Students in grades 6-8 entered their own sayings for the poster which pictured two gorillas, one speaking to the other. A student from each grade was selected for the funniest saying by judge Barry Garris of Garris Glass Service in Oakland. "Each winner received a gift certificate for a free pizza from the Pizza Hut," said Linda Garris, Media Specialist at Southern Middle and sponsor for the contest. Ms. Garris announced the winners and their sayings during lunch hour on October 12, which were: "Give me back my banana, buster," Tonya Bray, sixth grade, "You wouldn't hit a girl, now would you?" Jenny Sisler, seventh grade; and "Ah! Go fly a kite. I don't want to fight." Danny Knotts, eighth grade.

Let's Try It . . .

At first glance, solving the problem of inflation appears to be a highly complex and difficult process. However, it is actually quite simple, provided each and every person cooperates. There is one small five-letter word that lies at the bottom of the entire mess — greed. If we can conquer greed, we can defeat inflation.

We all jump on the government and blame it for not doing something to stop inflation. However, as President Carter stated last evening, the government cannot halt inflation by itself. Everyone must participate in the battle.

The President believes the fight must at least begin with the government. Thus, he vowed to reduce the budget deficit, reduce federal spending, reduce waste, reduce hiring of federal employees and cut the federal work force. In addition, he has asked all employers, unions, corporation heads, etc., to limit pay raises to a maximum of seven percent per year and limit price hikes to five and three quarters percent per year.

It would be fantastic if each member of Congress would say simply, "OK, let's back the President on this. It may not work, but at the present level of inflation, what do we have to lose?" Likewise, it would be great if the rest of the public would say, "Let's try it!" (wishful thinking).

The President's reasoning seems to be sound. It is possible that his plan would work. However, cooperation is essential and it will take time.

If there were some type of disease sweeping the nation at an epidemic level, affecting everyone, would we not work together and attempt to wipe it out? Inflation is at epidemic stages now. Nobody benefits from it. We are all losing.

Once again, the virus associated with this disease is called greed. As yet, we humans have found no way to destroy it.

Deadline For Absentee Voting Is October 31

According to the Board of Supervisors of Elections for Garrett County, the deadline for receipt of absentee ballot applications for the General Election, November 7, 1978 is Tuesday, October 31.

The following are eligible to vote an absentee ballot: members of the Armed Forces, their spouses and dependents; members of the Merchant Marines, their spouses and dependents; civilian employees of the United States Government serving outside the United States, their spouses and dependents; personnel of the American Red Cross, Women's Auxiliary Service, Pilots, USO, and Society of Friends who are serving with the Armed Forces outside the United States and their spouses and dependents; the ill and disabled, those confined in or restricted to an institution; a registered voter who, for any reason, is absent from the county on election day.

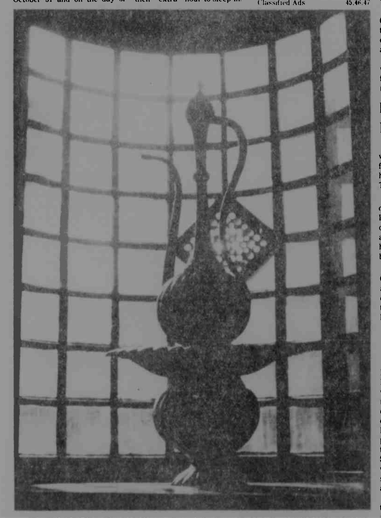
Any registered voter otherwise qualified to vote may apply for an emergency absentee ballot if notified after October 31 and on the day of election prior to the time the polls close that he is required to be absent from the county, or if he is unable to be physically present at the polls as a result of illness or accident occurring after October 31, or if he is unable to be present because of a death or serious illness in his immediate family occurring after the time for making application. The emergency application shall be made under the penalty of perjury, but without formal oath, setting forth the reason why the voter is unable to be at the polls on the day of election.

Registration books remain closed fifteen days after a general election and will reopen on November 24 for registration and other transactions.

Turn Clocks And Thermostats Back

This Saturday night, after turning down the thermostat, your final chore before retiring to rest should be to turn your clocks back one hour, as Maryland joins other states in returning to Eastern Standard Time.

All church services and other events Sunday will be conducted according to standard time, after everyone has had their "extra" hour to sleep in.



CLASSIC STUDY — The magnificent colors of this beswalled window and the antique bronze urn translate easily into a back and white study. They are housed in the magnificent mansion, The Evergreen House in Baltimore. The house was inhabited by three generations of the John Work Garrett family, and was the setting for the Maryland Arts Council's conference of county arts councils, Saturday. For the first time, Garrett County was represented at the meeting. See feature story, page 28.

Finzel Man Killed During Attack On Baltimore Police

A 22-year-old Finzel resident was shot and killed Sunday evening by Baltimore City Police when he charged them with a bow and arrow.

The man was identified as Harvey Michael Zuckerman. He was shot at least seven times as he charged at the police, who had fired a hail of at least 26 bullets. A Baltimore policeman, Nelson F. Bell, Jr., remains in very critical condition after he was wounded in the head by a richocheting bullet.

No motive was immediately determined for Mr. Zuckerman's behavior prior to the shooting. Reports indicated he had entered the Trailways Bus terminal earlier in the day and asked that a check be cashed so he could buy a ticket to Tennessee. Officials refused to cash the draft, and he returned several times later in the day.

Finally, he barricaded himself behind his baggage, and later jumped behind a wall and a truck near the Howard theatre. At one point he emerged to shoot arrows at the bus terminal, and reportedly at one point had been holding a 30-30 rifle aimed and at police and refused to drop it despite six warning shots.

He then went behind the wall and came out holding a cocked compound bow. Police said they opened fire after Zuckerman made a menacing gesture.

Mr. Zuckerman, a former University of Maryland student, was a son of Michael Zuckerman, and Mrs. Zuckerman, of near Frostburg.

Surviving are two brothers, John Zuckerman, College Park, and David Zuckerman, Frostburg; and two sisters, Lisa and Roxanne Zuckerman, both of Frostburg.

Columbia Gas To Drill 31 Wells, Five In Garrett

The Columbia Gas System announced last Wednesday it would participate in two programs costing a total of $14 million to recover natural gas from shale formations in Appalachia.

The programs involve drilling 31 wells, 21 in Ohio, five in New York, and five in Garrett County, and then artificially fracturing the underground shale formation in an effort to increase their ability to produce natural gas.

Preliminary agreements for the two programs have been signed with the U. S. Department of Energy. The first program was jointly submitted to the Department of Energy by the Mitchell Energy Corp., Houston, Texas, and the Columbia system. It calls for drilling 11 wells over a 32-month period in southwest Gallia County, Ohio beginning next spring.

The second program is expected to begin next year, with 15 wells scheduled for 1979, five each in Lorain and Trumbull Counties in Ohio and Steuben County, N. Y. Five additional wells are to be drilled in Garrett County in 1980.

The 20-well program is estimated to cost about $8.5 million with costs to be shared by Columbia and the Department of Energy.

Marvin White, board chairman of Columbia Gas of Ohio, said the program, if successful, will determine how much gas can be economically recovered from the trillions of cubic feet of natural gas known to exist in Appalachia by assessing what fracturing techniques work best and measuring their cost.

The goal of these programs is to find the best way to unlock the dense, tightly compressed structure of shale to release the gas we know is there and do it in volumes that are economical to produce," White said.

"Drilling for shale gas is nothing new," White added. "Columbia has been doing it for years in the Big Sandy Basin of southwestern West Virginia and eastern Kentucky. The proposed programs seek to produce gas from previously undeveloped shale areas."

Craig Wengerd Promoted At First Federal

Craig Wengerd, Oakland, was recently promoted to branch manager of the First Federal Savings and Loan office at Mid-Towns Plaza. Mr. Wengerd has been employed by First Federal since December 1977.

A native of Grantsville, Mr. Wengerd is a son of Joseph E. and Darlene (Buterbaugh) Wengerd. He is a 1972 graduate of Northern High School, where he received the Danforth "I Dare You" award as a senior, and a 1977 graduate of Frostburg State College. He has a Bachelor of Science degree in economics and business administration, and is now taking courses for his Master's degree in management from Frostburg State.

He and his wife, the former Linda Glotfelty, reside on Crook Street. She is manager of the local Child Development program.

When not working or studying, Craig likes to play golf, fish or go hunting.

Mr. Wengerd replaces Robert Hesson, who recently moved to Florida.

Commissioners Approve $1.3 Million Bond Program With State DOT

The proposal to participate in a $1.3 million bond program with the Maryland Department of Transportation was a chief topic during Monday's meeting of the Garrett County Commissioners.

The bond issue, which will be repaid from the county's share of gasoline usage taxes, will permit the county to purchase new equipment. Processing of the bond issue began about a year ago.

The funds will be used to purchase five six-wheel drive graders with V-plows and two front end loaders also equipped with V-plows. The bid will be awarded to Powlen Equipment Co., Hagerstown, which submitted the lowest bids meeting specifications. All new equipment will be John Deere models.

Bid price was $62,345 for each grader; $81,526 for each loader.

According to Herbert McCrobie, administrative engineer for the county roads department, the bid package includes a five-year maintenance guarantee for each piece of equipment. If repairs total more than $7,000 during the five-year period for the graders, or $7,000 for the loaders, Powlen Equipment will make up the difference.

There is also a five-year repurchase clause in the contract, which guarantees a price of $51,400 for the graders and $46,000 for the loaders for sale or trade to Powlen.

Mr McCrobie also noted that six-wheel drive rather than four-wheel drive had been specified for the loaders, to give the equipment more traction and plowing power.

In other business, the commissioners reviewed a brief report on the county's audit for fiscal 1978, which showed the county to be "in fine fiscal shape," according to Commissioner chairman George Edwards. Mr. Edwards said the ratio of assets to liabilities for the period was approximately 1.25 to 1, showing good financial stability. He also pointed out that the county has a very low rate of bond indebtedness, a plus if there should be a need to float additional bonds.

The full report also included recommendations for improvement which will be presented in a a management letter to the new board of commissioners when it takes office in January.

The Commissioners voted to adopt the five-year capital improvements plan as presented by the Board of Education last week. Bids will be opened in the near future for the new Grantsville Elementary School and the renovation of the Dennett Road School.

The Board of Education had requested $114,000 from the Commissioners to design a new elementary school for Accident, which is also in the five-year capital improvements plan. Presently the main school building is nearly 60 years old, while the kindergarten building was constructed in 1957. A third structure, a portable facility for special education pupils throughout the northern section of the county, would also be replaced.

The Board has selected a site just outside of Accident on the Accident-Bittinger Road for the new school.

The present school budget includes $10,000 planning funds for the new school, but School Superintendent Dr. William Buser said that sum will be enough only for selection of an architect and preliminary work.

Under new guidelines set by the state's Interagency Committee for Public School Construction, counties are responsible for design plans as well as site acquisitions.

State Board Of Ed. To Discuss Snow Problems

Heavy snow will be on the agenda of the Maryland State Board of Education when it meets today to consider new rules for school systems that shut down on account of bad weather or other natural or civil disasters.

Proposed is a set of stiff conditions for school systems that may want to complete fewer than 180 days in a school year. Legislation enacted by the General Assembly authorized the State Board to modify the 180-day per school year requirement without jeopardy to state aid.

Guidelines the State Board will be asked to consider lay down two conditions: that school systems schedule more than 180 days at the beginning of the school year, and that they schedule make-up days and up to five days beyond the original closing date in an effort to reach 180 days.

Also proposed is that the Board consider waiving the 180th day if it falls on a Monday, plus any days that can't be made up even though the system uses make-up days and the five-day school year extension.

Individual school closings on account of bad weather may be OK'd by the state school superintendent under the proposals before the Board.
